HINTS BONAR LAW MAY HAVE CANCER; MUST QUIT SOON

Premier in Paris Calls London Specialist, Starting Rumor, Which His Friends Deny.

ADMIT LONG REST IS NEEDED

London Thinks His Retirement Certain by July, With Baldwin as His Probable Successor.

CECIL MAY ENTER CABINET

Friends of Horne, Chamberlain and Birkenhead Also Seek to Get Them Back.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 18.—Premier Bonar Law's health is causing much anxiety in political circles. Definite statements are lacking concerning it, but news of the Premier's visit to Paris to consult a French specialist, and a hurried trip by Sir Thomas Horder, a Harley Street specialist, to see him in Paris, also have naturally awakened lively fears as to the necessity of his retirement.

The Prime Minister's friends maintain that there is nothing the matter with him but his throat, and that they are not so much alarmed about his physical condition as his probable inability to carry on the Premiership, as it is evident that for a Prime Minister, whose strength lies largely in his ability to control the House of Commons, loss of the power of speech must be a fatal handicap.

The nature of Bonar Law's throat trouble is not disclosed, and no confirmation can be obtained here of Paris reports that it is cancer. Sir Thomas Horder is an eminent physician who has specialized in various branches of medical science, to which, and to bacteriology, he has made valuable contributions, and among other posts he holds that of physician to the Cancer Hospital at Fulham. It is believed here that the latter fact has given rise to the Paris reports that Bonar Law's condition is more serious than his friends here declare it to be.

Sir Thomas, who returned to London tonight, declined to make any statement about the Premier's condition, which, however, is in accordance with medical etiquette unless authorized by the patient. Anyway, it is regarded here as probable that the Prime Minister will be ordered to take a prolonged rest, and political gossips say his resignation may be expected within the next few months.

Meanwhile political circles are buzzing with talk as to what would happen in case he retires. A few months ago Lord Curzon would have been accepted as his successor without question, but since then Stanley Baldwin has proved his capacity as leader of the House of Commons and, aided by a feeling that the Premier in these democratic days should be in the Commons rather than in the Lords, Baldwin is considered the stronger candidate.

Friends of the ex-Conservative Ministers, Austen Chamberlain, Lord Birkenhead and Sir Robert Horne, are not blind to the opportunities offered by a reconstruction of the ministry, and are pushing their claims. Whatever happens, however, will probably occur before the end of July. Up to that date it will be possible to appoint a Member of Parliament to the ministry without vacating his seat. After that he will have to face a bye-election. So, as bye-elections have been unfortunate for the Government, it is probable it will take place before two months.

One story is that Lord Robert Cecil may join the ministry.

The London Times Paris correspondent telegraphs:

"I understand the attention of the Prime Minister has been called to contradictory rumors which are circulating in England in regard to his health and his political intentions, and that he does not deem it advisable to issue any authoritative statement.

"In the absence of an official bulletin, however, it is possible to say the health of Bonar Law is apparently good, and more satisfactory than it has been for some time. He has had consultations with Sir Thomas Horder in Paris, but it does not appear there is any cause for anxiety. He is merely continuing his rest cure."

Paris Hints at Cancer.

PARIS, May 18 (Associated Press).—The health of Andrew Bonar Law, according to information derived from persons in closest relations with the British Prime Minister, is so seriously affected that his retirement appears to be only a matter of weeks, or even days.

The longest period mentioned for him to retain office is a month to afford time for the rearrangement of the Cabinet.

Nothing precise is indicated as to why the Premier must retire, except that a malady of the throat prevents his talking, while he cannot endure much without becoming fatigued. Nevertheless Mr. Bonar Law is able to walk the streets of Paris and dine at a restaurant outside the hotel at which he is stopping here.

The Prime Minister resolutely declines to receive newspaper men, nor has he allowed thus far anything in the nature of a bulletin as to his condition to be issued, or to permit an authoritative declaration either as to his illness or his plans.

The Journal today says the British statesman saw the specialist, Sir Thomas Horder, physician in the London Cancer Hospital, who came over from London to make an examination.

"The physician found that the Premier's vacation had resulted in no improvement to his throat; in fact, the loss of voice is so complete that he was obliged to refuse Premier Poincaré's invitation to lunch and dine at the Foreign Office.

The Journal says that after a conference with Lord Beaverbrook, Mr. Bonar Law plans to try a new cure at Aix-les-Bains. The prospective interview with Lord Beaverbrook, the newspaper adds, portends a change in the British Ministry.

Only One American Soldier Remains on Duty on the Rhine

Lieutenant P. J. Davis, U. S. A., of the Division of Criminal Investigation, who arrived yesterday from Bremen on the President Roosevelt of the United States Lines, said there was only one man left in Germany of the American Army of Occupation. He brought back with him two sergeants and two privates who had been working in his department at Coblenz. They are Sergeant Robert Murray, twenty-nine years' service; Sergeant Aaron Kaplan, eighteen years' service and Privates Carl Sundstrom and Jacob Miller, who have served eleven years in the United States Army. The man left behind, Lieutenant Davis said, belonged to his division, but he declined to give his name. He had some details to clean up, the officer said.

Brig. Gen. W. H. Johnson, U. S. A., Military Observer at the Hague, was a passenger with his wife and will proceed to Washington to report.

BORAH SEES COURT BOUND TO LEAGUE

Tells 6,000 in St. Louis United States Cannot Join It and Stay Out of Parent Body.

CALLS FOR 1924 SHOWDOWN

Aims Not to Defeat Harding, but to Control Convention Against Court Idea.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 18.—Senator Borah, speaking before 6,000 persons in the Coliseum tonight, denounced the proposal that the United States join the World Court as a scheme to get the United States into the League of Nations. He declared with emphasis:

"The United States cannot join the International Court and remain out of the League of Nations, as both institutions are bound by shackles of binding adamant that cannot be broken."

He continued:

"Let us suppose we become a member of this Court. We sit at Geneva day after day, and year after year, not merely passing as arbitrators upon some controversy which may arise between countries, but we sit there advising, counselling and directing the League itself, not only with reference to its own powers, but upon all vital European questions which may come before the League and upon which it sees fit to ask the advice of the judges concerned.

"How could we be more thoroughly, both legally and morally, bound up with the League of Nations, its activities and responsibilities, than to become the counsellor and adviser of the League?"

In the same connection he remarked:

"If anybody thinks that he can win in 1924 by uprooting a system of foreign policies as old as the Government itself, let him get upon a political platform and try to carry the election in 1924."

The League of Nations, he went on, "injected itself into the campaign in 1920, and when the votes were counted I thought it had been settled. Now it seems that we have to disregard all of the great domestic issues, the questions of sugar, oil, coal and the great economic and transportation questions and meet this League issue again."

Secretary Hughes, who spoke in advocacy of the United States joining the World Court since President Harding first suggested participation by the United States, came in for criticism by Borah.

"I cannot understand," he said, "the argument of those who say that we should go into that part of the League of Nations and stay out of the rest of it.

"You must understand that the League of Nations is the father of the World Court. The League elects its Judges and if the League falls, the Court falls.

"But you say you are going only into the World Court, and are not concerned

PRESIDENT THANKS HARRISON, DEMOCRAT, FOR KINDLY TRIBUTE

PAST OPPOSITION FORGIVEN

MOVED BY PRAISE OF WIFE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—When a strong partisan Democrat to whom President Harding refers as "chief party troublemaker in the Senate" is thanked by the President for kindly public references to Mr. and Mrs. Harding and the President's father the incident becomes one worth recording in political annals. The "chief party troublemaker of the Senate" is Senator Harrison of Mississippi. The thanks of the President are expressed in a letter to Senator Harrison which gives a glimpse of Mr. Harding in a playful mood and shows also that with him and Senator Harrison political partisanship does not affect friendly personal relations.

Senator Harrison's complimentary references to the President and his wife and father were contained in a copyrighted newspaper article syndicated by the Twenty-first Century Press. The article had for its theme the ending of bitterness between the North and the South, and he contended that no section of the country had a monopoly on patriotism.

In giving specifications, he told of the visit of Dr. George Harding, the President's father, a Union soldier, to the Confederate reunion in New Orleans and the excellent impression he made. Senator Harrison referred also to his own experience in taking about 200 Confederate veterans from Mississippi, all Democrats, and their wives, to the White House and their enthusiasm over the cordiality of the greeting given them by the President and Mrs. Harding. Mr. Harrison was most complimentary in his references to Mr. and Mrs. Harding in connection with this visit.

President's Letter to Harrison.

Some one gave President Harding a copy of a newspaper containing Senator Harrison's article, and after reading it he wrote the following letter to Mr. Harrison:

The White House
Washington, May 12, 1923.

My Dear Senator Harrison:

I have just been reading the article which you contributed to The New Orleans Item of May 5, in which you make very pleasing reference to the participation of my father in the Confederate reunion in New Orleans. I am writing to thank you for the kindly things you have said concerning him and his visit and the courteous reference you have made to the present occupants of the White House.

In your capacity of chief party troublemaker in the Senate you have said some things which have made me lay down my newspaper and turn to a fresh pipe of tobacco for consolation. This very generous and considerate article has antidoted all the things that have gone before. You will be interested to know that my father was very greatly pleased by the article, and that he had the time of his life in meeting the Confederate veterans of New Orleans.

The visit of my father was a very simple thing to do, but if it has contributed in any way to the concord of

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Ambassador Harvey is not to resign his post. As guest of President Harding at the White House he has had some heart-to-heart talks with the President and in none of them has he intimated that he desired to retire.

At least that was the information obtained at the White House today on the authority of President Harding. A White House spokesman said that the President and the Ambassador had seen each other at luncheon and dinner and had had two long conversations, but on no occasion had Colonel Harvey shown any dissatisfaction with his present position.

Further than this, the spokesman said, "the Ambassador thinks that the President is keeping the faith." This was said in answer to questions of the truth of reports that Colonel Harvey was dissatisfied with the policies of the Administration, particularly the President's recommendation to the Senate that the United States join the League of Nations Permanent International Court of Justice.

If the Colonel was so minded, said the spokesman, he had kept his dissatisfaction to himself. The whole inference from the remarks of the spokesman was that the Colonel was in accord with the President's World Court policy and other policies he had advanced.

While given in rather a jocular vein, as if the matter were hardly worthy of serious reply, the statement of the White House spokesman was so positive as to leave the impression that Colonel Harvey had no quarrel with the Administration, and was in sympathy with the President's foreign and domestic policies.

76 PERSONS PERISH WHEN SCHOOL BURNS

41 CHILDREN AMONG VICTIMS

Mothers Throw Offspring From Windows or Die With Them—Many Jump Safely.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 18.—Seventy-six persons, forty-one of them children, were burned or crushed to death last night when the Cleveland Rural Graded School, about six miles from Camden, caught fire during the performance of a comedy by the graduating class. The blaze was caused by a kerosene lamp which, falling, ignited the curtain and stage drapery.

The first and second acts of the comedy, "Miss Topsy-Turvy," had been presented. The small auditorium on the second floor of the two-story frame house which served as a school was packed to the doors with parents and friends of the children who were taking part. The room was in darkness except for one kerosene lamp which gave light behind the flimsy curtain as the stage setting was being changed for the third act. This lamp, fastened to a wall by a bracket, was either knocked from its holder or melted the solder holding it to its frame. It fell to the floor and the oil blazed up at once.

Many Crushed in Panic.

The students on the stage told the audience they could extinguish the flames and the men in the house urged self-control. Many passed quietly down the narrow stairway and waited on the outside for their children. But the flimsy stage draperies were ignited and as the flames spread there was a wild rush to the narrow stairway, which had two landings on it. Men on the outside, hearing the screams, attempted to get back into the building to help their loved ones, and at once the stairway became a mass of struggling men, women and children, some striving to to get out and others to get in.

The stairway collapsed under the weight, crushing scores in its fall and shutting off the escape of those on the second floor. Women began to throw their children out of the windows into the arms of those on the ground. Automobile seats were placed under the windows to break the fall of men and women and dozens were rescued through the windows.

Mothers Die with Children.

The greatest loss of life occurred on the stairway and many were dead before the flames reached them. Of the bodies taken from the smouldering ruins, hardly any had arms, these either having been torn off or burned away. The body of one woman was found with the stumps of her arms near the charred bodies of two children, the belief being that she held them close to her as she tried to fight her way to safety. Only one negro was in the building, she being a girl with a white child in her charge. While identification was not positive, one body supposed to be hers was found with a smaller body held close to its side.

Eight pupils were in the cast of the playlet and four, Ima Warrants, Ola Phillips, Bertie Hendrix and Jack Russ, lost their lives.

Camden, about six miles from the schoolhouse, is in official mourning. The stores are closed, the United States flag is at half mast and every effort is being made to give succor and comfort to the stricken people. The building in which the play was being given is in a sparsely populated part of the county, the houses being far distant from each other. The schoolhouse had been condemned and the exercises last night were to be the last held in it.

Late today sixty men, women and children were buried in one grave.

State and Nation Offer Aid.

CAMDEN, S. C., May 18.—The exact number of those injured last night, when seventy-six persons lost their lives in the Cleveland schoolhouse fire, has not been ascertained, although five, suffering from serious burts, are in a hospital here. Many others are recovering at their homes from burns, bruises and, in some instances, fractured arms and legs.

Messages of condolence and offers of assistance poured in today from all parts of the State and nation. Most of them were addressed to Mayor Carrison of Camden, and to all he returned one answer: "We appreciate your sympathy. No help needed."

Coroner Dixon and his daughter were among those buried late today. In the crowd standing alongside the common grave was Governor McLeod of South Carolina, who earlier in the day had

FULLER TO BE TRIED DESPITE JAIL TERM

CROSS TRADES OVERLOOKED

President Silkworth of Consolidated Admits Exchange Safeguards Were Not Employed.

Chief Assistant District Attorney Pecora announced yesterday that despite the indefinite commitment to Ludlow Street Jail of Edward M. Fuller and William F. McGee for contempt of the Federal Court in connection with the disappearance of papers in the bankruptcy investigation of their brokerage firm, an application would be made to the Federal Court for their presence in General Sessions when their trials on bucketing indictments are called.

Shortly before this announcement District Attorney Banton had obtained bench warrants for Fuller and McGee from Judge Nott in General Sessions and lodged them against the bankrupt brokers with the warden of the jail. The prosecutor explained that it was feared that Federal Judge Goddard's commitment of the men on contempt charge would abrogate the $35,000 bail in which each of them was held when they were arrested on the sixteen bucketing indictments returned by the Grand Jury following the $3,000,000 failure of E. M. Fuller & Co., in June last.

It was said that legal experts in the prosecutor's office had held that the action of Judge Goddard took precedence over that of the Judge in General Sessions in releasing them on bail pending the disposal of the bucketing indictments, and the bench warrants were requested from Judge Nott as a precaution against their escape if they were released from jail before the District Attorney learned of the matter.

Will Be Tried As Soon As Possible.

"No obstacle legally surmountable will be allowed to stand in the way of bringing Fuller and McGee to trial as soon as possible," Mr. Pecora said. "If it is necessary for an application to be made to the Federal authorities to have the defendants available for trial in the State courts under the pending indictments, such application will be made. The precaution already has been taken to lodge bench warrants at the Ludlow Street Jail. This was done so that Fuller and McGee could be brought back to General Sessions in case they are discharged from the present custody.

"As to the application to have the defendants on hand for trial, this application, if granted, would not operate to relieve them from the custody of Judge Goddard, but would merely permit us to take them from the prison to come to court and return them at night."

Mr. Pecora was asked if, in the event Judge Goddard refused to release the two bankrupt brokers under such conditions and they were kept in the jail for a period of five years or longer, their detention would mean the disqualification of the sixteen bucketing indictments.

"There is no period of limitation on the trial of those indictments," he explained. "The statute of limitations only applies to the finding of indictments."

President Silkworth's Admissions.

Referee Coffin in the Fuller & Co. bankruptcy proceeding, yesterday made public a transcript of testimony given by President Silkworth of the Consolidated Stock Exchange in connection with safeguards the Exchange was supposed to have provided against members engaging in cross transactions in stocks. It was developed that although the safeguard lay in the Exchange's Clearing House sheets, the Exchange did not avail itself of these sheets up to the time of the Fuller failure.

Mr. Silkworth was being examined by William H. Chadbourne, counsel for the Fuller creditors, who told the witness that an investigation of the Fuller accounts showed that the firm systematically indulged in the practice of crossing trades. Mr. Chadbourne also drew from the witness the admission that the Exchange made no attempt to ascertain whether its members were demanding from their customers sufficient margins to permit the brokers to carry their stocks.

"Don't you know," asked Mr. Chadbourne, "that unless adequate margins are asked from a customer it is financially impossible for a brokerage house to carry stocks for that customer and do anything else than bucket orders?"

"I do not know that," replied Mr. Silkworth. "It is done every day in the week and is done now. It depends

CUNARD STEAMSHIPS TO ARRIVE AND LEAVE DRY AFTER JUNE 10

Eastbound Liners That Call at Halifax Will Take on Liquor There.

WILL NOT TRY TO EVADE LAW

But Any Left When the Three-Mile Limit Is Reached Will Be Thrown Overboard.

Steamships of the Cunard company will be dry on entering and leaving ports of this country after June 10. This was announced by Sir Ashley Sparkes, K. B. E., director of the Cunard Line and general manager of the company in the United States, who returned yesterday with his family from Europe on the Aquitania. The liners will be dry on the homeward trip, with the exception of those Cunard and Anchor Line steamships which call at Halifax homeward bound, where supplies of liquor can be obtained out of bond.

When asked if it was likely that the Cunard liners would take on board liquor from any vessel outside the three-mile limit, Sir Ashley replied:

"No. You can take it for granted that we shall do nothing undignified in the matter, although we feel that the contemplated ruling is an infringement upon the liberties of other peoples. We do not at this time know just what pressure may be brought to bear to bring about a change in the present drastic program.

"My personal feeling in the matter," the Cunard director continued, "is that we have exhausted our legal powers to reserve our freedom of action. There remains nothing further for us to do save obey the law, unless, in its wisdom, Congress finds it has done a very unwise and improper thing in its application of a municipal law to foreign boats and enacts legislation that will change that law."

The Feeling in England.

"What is the feeling in England over the question?" he was asked.

"Not only are the people of England aroused over the drastic ruling of the United States Supreme Court as to the transportation of liquor in ships flying foreign flags in American harbors, but French, Scandinavian, Italian and the Hollanders hold a similar view on the matter. It is now a question between the United States Government and the foreign countries for diplomatic adjustment.

"It is hard to predict what will come to pass. The British Government will examine the text of the ruling thoroughly before taking any action. At the Directors' meeting of the Cunard Line those present expressed the opinion that the ruling was 'outrageous.'"

With regard to the westward voyages the liners will carry enough liquor to supply the wants of the passengers until they reach the three-mile limit, and if any remains unsold it will be thrown overboard, Sir Ashley said. It is possible that intending passengers may be asked whether they will require wine or spirits on the voyage to America when they are booking in London or Paris, he said, but no definite plans have been made yet.

When asked his opinion about the dispute over the city piers at West Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth Streets, he replied:

"All we ask for is proper dockage facilities to insure the safeguarding of the propellers of our boats. We have been a sort of buffer between the City of New York and the War Department."

He added that he did not believe any city officials would like to go on record as having pushed the great liners away from New York.

Regarding the slump in the first class eastward passenger business, Sir Ashley admitted that it had gone down considerably, but he believed that it would pick up again before the season was over.

Says We Need Great Leaders.

"The trouble is that directly there is any drop in the financial market in the United States," he said, "American business men become alarmed and feel they must stay at home to safeguard their interests. This country is rich enough to control the rest of the world financially, industrially and commercially, but the people do not know what to do with their wealth. What the

Surgeon Sets His Own Arm And Goes On to See Patient

Dr. Frank McGowan, 32 years old, who has rushed to dozens of automobile accidents as ambulance surgeon for the New York Hospital, and had patched up scores of broken limbs, found himself a victim last night and, what is more, successfully patched up himself.

Dr. McGowan was riding around the corner of Third Avenue and East Thirty-ninth Street when his ambulance was struck by a touring car driven by Isidore Sager of 318 East 101st Street. The doctor was thrown violently from his seat. When he picked himself up he had already diagnosed his injuries as a broken right arm. With the assistance of his driver he unpacked his bag, picked out bandages and splints and set his arm. Ten minutes later the ambulance was clanging its way down Thirty-ninth Street to the patient's residence.

VANISHES, LEAVING $300,000 SHORTAGE

CITES WHITTLESEY SUICIDE

President of General Carbonic Gas Company of This City Got $12,000 Loan Before Flight.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., May 18.—Harry E. Pettee, former Mayor of this city and until Wednesday President of the General Carbonic Gas Company, with offices in New York City, has disappeared and has not been seen since May 10, according to former Senator Edgar T. Brackett, counsel for the company, who said today that an examination of Pettee's accounts had disclosed overdrafts approximating $300,000.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors in New York last Wednesday, Pettee was removed as President and Harry W. Somers of this city put in his place. Luther A. Walt of this city was elected Vice President in charge of management.

Senator Brackett said the resources of the company would not be affected by the shortage. It has six plants with physical assets of several millions and with outstanding bonds against the plant on Long Island only.

Mr. Pettee left his home in New York City on May 10 after his wife had assigned her interest in a life insurance policy on which he subsequently obtained a loan of $12,000. He said he intended to go to Norfolk, Va., where one of the plants of the company is located. At the office no attention was paid to his absence, since he frequently made long trips. On Monday of this week, however, an official noticed his keys hanging in the lock of his private box in the office safe.

Opening the box, the official discovered scattered penciled notes in which Pettee confessed that he had "done a wrong" to his friends and associates. He mentioned the suicide at sea of Colonel Whittlesey some time ago and said that Colonel Whittlesey "did the right thing."

The directors started an examination of the accounts of the company at once and this disclosed, Senator Brackett said, that Pettee had overdrawn $190,000 from the funds of the company and $45,000 from another account and that there was an aggregate of $50,000 stock issued but not accounted for.

Pettee's associates do not believe he has killed himself, although his wife believes he is dead.

Checks in Pettee's name have been received by business men to whom he owed debts, the checks being dated on the day he obtained the loan on his life insurance policy.

Pettee had been popular in this city, being elected Mayor in 1916. He first became connected with the carbonic gas business about twenty years ago, when he formed a company which engaged in the natural carbonic gas business at the geysers. When the State prohibited pumping from the gas wells Pettee sold out to the State and transferred his plant to Newark. Subsequently, by mergers and enlargment, the company grew to be a factor in the carbonic gas business as a whole.

Pettee has been known as a "spender" since he left this city. He has spent the Winter in Palm Beach, and has been on long hunting trips. He built a Summer home on North Broadway, this city, last year.

MEXICO CITY BOMB JARS OUR CONSULATE; ACT IS LAID TO REDS

BOLSHEVIST BUTTON A CLUE

Officials Now Reveal a Bombing Outrage at the American Embassy on May 4.

MISSILE FELL IN GARDEN

Threat to Warren May Be Part of a Plot—Attempt to Mutilate Washington Statue.

MEXICO CITY, May 18.—A bomb was exploded at the United States Consulate here at 2:30 o'clock this morning. The bomb, which had been placed outside a door of the building, damaged doors and windows and wrecked some office furniture.

Consul General Claude Dawson, who lives in an upper part of the building, was awakened by the explosion. No one was hurt.

Mr. Dawson said that the explosion took place in a part of the Consulate rented to a lawyer. The attorney is Carlos Castillo.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, who was one block away, heard the noise and rushed toward the Consulate, where he saw a policeman dashing around the corner turning into Rosales Street. The correspondent, who was the first civilian on the scene, saw a cloud of smoke pouring out of the Consulate buildings. The street facing the building was littered with broken glass, and limbs had fallen from a tree which grew in front of the building.

A small crowd soon gathered, but the police controlled the situation.

The correspondent, after a careful search, found two pieces of the wrought iron which had formed the bomb.

Evidence Points to Radicals.

Evidence discovered near the Consulate is taken to indicate that Bolshevist were responsible for the explosion. Yet some are inclined to accuse old elements of the Conservatives. Prominent Mexicans say that the old regime firmly believes that by causing the failure of the present conferences between American and Mexican envoys the Obregon Government will fall and the Conservatives will return to power, bringing back the conditions of the Diaz regime. Rumors are recalled that certain interests have been trying to throw a monkey wrench into the conference plan.

Charles B. Warren, one of the American envoys, has received a letter threatening that he would be blown up within seventy-two hours.

The headquarters of the Police Department are within 100 feet of the consulate, which is situated at the juncture of the Avenida Juarez and the Paseo de la Reforma, facing the life size statue of Carlos V. Police soon surrounded the entire block. Chief of Detectives Quintana arrived and took charge.

A search of the street brought several clews, a gray cap, size 6¾, made for the Manhattan store of W. S. Elliott, Kansas City, was found at the street corner, a red and black Bolshevist button was attached by thread to the front of the cap, which was stained with grease, indicating that the owner was a mechanic or chauffeur. A number of additional fragments of cast iron from the bomb were discovered.

Law Office Is Wrecked.

The police found that the bomb had been placed at the base of an iron grilled door which had a glass back. The door was still on its hinges although shattered. A large part of the stone wall of the building was blown out, the inside of the lawyer's office was a complete wreck, books, papers and typewriters being scattered over the floor and the walls and ceilings riddled by pieces of the bomb, dozens of which were inside the office.

A piece of fuse eight inches long was found lying a few feet from the door, showing that the bomb had been placed at the door with a long fuse attached in order to give the bomber or bombers time to be considerable distance away before the explosion took place.

Detective Quintana found upon the twisted iron of the door an unsigned note addressed to Castillo, typewritten on plain paper. The note read:

"Lawyer Carlos Castillo: This is the start of your sentence. I have not wished to end you at one blow, but this will be the same as you have done to ours. We will leave you in misery, as you have left us. Formerly your protectors, now your victims. Thus is justice done."

The letter was apparently written by an educated person who tried to disguise his identity. There were one or two misspelled words which any Mexican child who had been to school could spell correctly.

Detective Chief Quintana ordered a careful search made in Texas for a Mexican mechanic who has had a reputation in the United States and has lately been giving the police of Mexico City much trouble.

Comments on the street indicate a general belief that the bomb was used more to scare than to cause real damage. The placing of the bomb is laid to political causes.

Bombing at Embassy Disclosed.

It was revealed today that an attempt to dynamite the American Embassy was made May 4. A bomb consisting of lead pipe filled with dynamite was thrown over a wall into the garden of the embassy at 3 A. M. The explosion tore a hole in the wall surrounding the grounds. There was no damage to the building. The police are still investigating the case.

LONDON, May 18.—Stamp collecting and shooting have always been known to be King George's private hobbies, and now he has come out as not averse to "swap."

He has taken great interest in the International Stamp Exhibition and invited several leading philatelists to Buckingham Palace to see his own excellent collection.

At the exhibition today he pointed to one stamp in the collection of Arthur Hind, an American, and said: "Too bad you were outbidding me for that at the auction the other day."

Mr. Hind said he had no idea he was bidding against the King and offered him the stamp as a gift. The King refused, but said:

"I'll tell you what I'll do. I have a stamp you'd like; let's swap."

So they swapped. The King specializes in stamps of the British Empire.

Five American philatelists have won high honors in the International Stamp Exhibition in London, according to a cable from John N. Luff, who was on the Board of Judges, representing the United States, to the Scott Stamp and Coin Company of New York. The five Americans to win high awards are Charles Lathrop Pack, President of the American Forestry Association; Arthur Hind, textile manufacturer of Utica; Representative Ernest R. Ackerman of New Jersey, Alfred F. Lichtenstein and John Rieman of New York.

The awards were made at a banquet Thursday night at the Hotel Cecil, at which the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, W. Irving Glover, was the official representative of the United States.

Both Mr. Pack and Mr. Hind received championship gold medals. Mr. Pack was honored for his exhibition of early Victorian stamps and Mr. Hind won with his exhibition of rare United States stamps, a large part of which he purchased from the Henry J. Duveen collection. Mr. Hind also won a second championship for the best collection of rare stamps. For specialised collections Mr. Hind won two gold medals for his exhibitors of Mauritius and Spanish stamps. Mr. Lichtenstein won three gold medals for his Swiss, Canadian and New Brunswick stamps, and Representative Ackerman won a gold medal for his specialized collection of the first United States issue of 1847, including only two values, 5 and 10 cents, but of which he has the greatest collection in the world, including all known varieties and shades of colors.

Silver medals were awarded to Mr. Pack for his collection of Uruguay stamps and to Mr. Kleman, a New York dealer, for his collection of Greek stamps. A special gold medal for the best work on philatelic subjects was awarded to Mr. Pack for his monograph of the history of the stamps of Victoria, which was published for private distribution a few weeks ago.

Friends Working to Have Brindell Freed, But Not if He Has to Quit Unions He Ruled

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., May 18.—Pardon for Robert P. Brindell, building trades labor organizer, now serving a term of from five to ten years in Sing Sing for extortion and graft, is said at Sing Sing to be the object of a vigorous movement launched by powerful interests after the so-called Brindell Parole bill was defeated in the Legislature. Details of a move to free Brindell through intercession with Governor Smith have come to light principally through prison employes.

It is said that the decision to appeal to the Governor to pardon the convicted labor leader is contingent upon Brindell's refusal to accept a pardon with the understanding that he sever all connections with the labor organizations which he formerly dominated. Rather than see Brindell released under such conditions, some of his supporters, according to rumor, have advised him to stick it out for twenty-one months longer, when he will have served his minimum term, and take his chances on a parole for good behavior.

Prison attendants having confidential information are authority for the statement that Brindell's friends understand that Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the Lockwood Housing Committee, whose investigation resulted in the conviction of Brindell and other building trades leaders, would oppose any move to free Brindell unless he agreed to quit building trades organizations and leave the State.

Brindell is now allowed to work outside the prison walls at Sing Sing, but according to Warden Lewis E. Lawes his work is not due to any special privilege but to his skill at his trade. Warden Lawes said that no favors had been granted to Brindell.

a threatening letter two months before the beginning of the present conferences.

The Universal Grafico this afternoon, on the authority of Detective Barros, says an unknown group tried to overthrow the statue of George Washington, situated in the Colonia Juarez, a residential part of Mexico City. This attempt was made a short time before the bomb explosion at the Consulate. The detective states that no damage was done to the statue. Two men climbed to the top and were trying to overthrow the bronze bust when they were surprised by a mounted police patrol and escaped.

Laid to Foes of the Government.

MEXICO CITY, May 18 (Associated Press).—Inquiries at the American Embassy and Consulate today failed to bring to light anything connecting today's explosion with the outrage of May 6.

Gilberto Valenzuela, Under Secretary of the Department of the Interior, expressed the belief that today's bombing was the work of enemies of the Government, especially in view of the fact that the mixed commission negotiations relative to recognition by the United States are going on.

The police believe that the bomb contained giant powder, because of the great cloud of smoke and because the force exerted itself inward instead of blowing a hole in the office door.

In the District Court Carlos Castillo, the lawyer whose office was wrecked, said that he could not imagine who would have a motive for damaging the office. He could not explain how an anonymous letter threatening measures of punishment could have been placed inside the door.

The fact that Castillo was formerly Secretary of the company which published the defunct newspaper Cronos, regarded by radical labor organizations as opposed to the modern trend of labor and agrarian policies, is considered in some quarters to be significant.

CONSUL TELLS OF BOMBING.

Washington Also Divulges Recent Attack on Mexico City Embassy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The State Department received a dispatch late this afternoon from Claude I. Dawson, American Consul General in Mexico City, stating that the American Consulate General there was bombed at 2:30 o'clock this morning. The bomb wrecked a room occupied by a Mexican lawyer, but failed to do any noticeable damage to the quarters of Consul General Dawson.

This paraphrase of the dispatch was given out by the State Department:

"The Department has information from Consul General Claude I. Dawson in Mexico City to the effect that at 2:30 o'clock this morning the building of the Consulate General was bombed and a room on the lower floor, which was occupied by a Mexican lawyer, was completely wrecked. However, there was no noticeable damage to the quarters of the Consulate General. There were no personal casualties."

Information has also been divulged that at 1 o'clock on the morning of May 6 a bomb was exploded in the garden back of the American Embassy Building. The explosion made a large hole in the ground and scattered pieces of lead pipe, of which the bomb was constructed, about the place, but did no serious damage.

According to official reports here, the bomb apparently was of crude construction, being made of lead pipe and black powder. The incident was reported to the War Department by Colonel Parker, the American Military Attaché, who stated that Major Grass, Assistant Military Attaché, and a civilian attaché had been delegated to investigate the outrage.

The explosion occurred one week after a big radical demonstration against recognition. Owing to the fact that negotiations between the American and Mexican commissions on the question of recognition were about to begin, the State Department made no public announcement concerning the incident.

SAYS AUSTRIAN UNION WITH GERMANY IS SURE

Vienna Ambassador Rouses Enthusiasm of Berlin Audience Which Includes Ebert.

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, Germany, May 18 (Associated Press).—Participating today in the observance of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the first German Parliament, Professor Ludo Hartmann, Austrian Ambassador to Germany, declared that the Austrians "are hard and fast in their yearning for union of Austria with Germany," and he believed this would be effected eventually.

"The revolution of 1918," he said, "was to bring us as its fruit the unity and co-ordination of German middle Europe into one State."

The speech was greeted with prolonged applause, in which President Ebert, who was among the number of prominent officials present, joined heartily. President Ebert, Herr Loebe, President of the Reichstag, and other leading officials of the Federal and State Governments also spoke.

The main part of the celebration was held in St. Paul's Church, the same building in which the original Parliament sat. Some 500 persons attended, or about the same number as made up the 1848 assembly.

BANDITS THREATEN DEATH TO CAPTIVES

Unless Powers Coerce China, American Prisoner Writes, "We Are Doomed."

TUESDAY SET AS LIMIT

Brigands Send Frenchmen to Peking With 'Final Ultimatum' for Withdrawal of Troops.

SHANGHAI, May 18 (Associated Press).—Unless the foreign powers unite in forcing the Chinese Government to realise that the Shantung bandits are ready to forfeit their own lives and those of their captives in their determination to have their demands met "we are doomed," was the word received here tonight from Leon Friedman, one of the Americans held in the stronghold of the brigands.

Friedman's letter, which painted a pitiful picture of the captives' condition, has stirred public feeling in Shanghai. The China Press, an American newspaper, backed by a number of prominent Americans, has called a mass meeting for Sunday for the purpose of making urgent representations to Washington. The meeting, it is expected, will point out the necessity of the Powers guaranteeing that the promises made by the Peking Government to the brigands will be kept.

Foreigners in China are becoming increasingly alarmed for the safety of the prisoners and the situation is almost the sole topic of conversation in all foreign circles.

Following is Friedman's letter:

"We have no bedding nor cooking utensils and are compelled to sleep on the ground. Conditions really are terrible.

"Some of the captives purposely sent out reassuring letters during the first few days of their detention, hoping in this way to calm the fears of their friends and relatives. These caused the public to think that our release was only a matter of course. This is a grave mistake; the bandits hold the upper hand, and they are absolutely determined to force compliance with their demands for the withdrawal of the troops and reinstatement of themselves in the army, and they are prepared to forfeit our lives and their own in the attempt.

"Unless the Peking Government is forced to realize this by the foreign powers, we surely are doomed.

"I strongly urge our friends and the public to call mass meetings and do everything possible to impress on the foreign powers the desperate nature of our predicament.

"Consider us as pleading for our lives.

"The Chinese officials at Peking will not do anything unless forced by pressure from America and England to meet the bandits' terms.

"I recommend the sending of urgent cables to Washington and London backed up by the entire foreign community of China.

"This is not only my personal opinion. It is the unanimous belief and hope of all the captives."

Bandits Set Time Limit.

American and British captives of the Shantung bandits will be shot next Tuesday if the Chinese troops are not withdrawn, according to the "final ultimatum" of the bandits, brought from the mountain stronghold today by Marcel Olivier Berube, a Frenchman, one of the prisoners, who was released for the purpose.

Bandits last night attacked Tawenkow, a town ninety miles north of Lincheng, and seized a number of captives, according to a report received here.

In a plaintive message to the outside world, a group of Chinese who were captured by the train bandits and escaped or were released deplore the lack of interest in the fate of the large number of Chinese held in the mountain stronghold along with the sixteen or more foreigners.

"The lives of Chinese people," says the communication, "never move the hearts of officials. The foreign captives number only 10 or 20 per cent. of the Chinese victims, but how enthusiastic foreign officials are in seeking their release. Chinese officials and militarists also are busy, but their assiduity is prompted by fear of diplomatic complications more than by anything else. The 100-odd Chinese prisoners therefore are left conveniently to their fate. What do the mandarins and militarists care if a couple of hundred Chinese perish?

"But we are sparing no effort to liberate our fellow-countrymen."

A relief bureau for the Chinese captives has been organized at Tientsin.

Another letter from the Rev. William Lenfers, the aged German priest at Lincheng, was delivered to the Associated Press here today and describes his second trip into the stronghold of the bandits. For the second time within a few days he interviewed the bandit chieftain, but did not succeed in obtaining the liberation of any of the foreign captives.

Father Lenfers was accompanied by Dr. H. Martens and Father Buis, a Dutch missionary. En route they encountered a Japanese, bound also for the bandit headquarters.

"We compelled him to turn back," writes the priest, "because he would certainly have been killed, greatly increasing our danger.

"We heard a signal shot at noon, and discerned bandits on the slopes of the mountains. We continued until we were halted at the outer camp of the outlaws. They were distant and suspicious and told me they were being cheated and I was being deceived, because, they declared, the troops had been withdrawn from only one mountain, after I had promised that all would be withdrawn. They told me that new troops were only four miles away.

"They refused to permit me to see the prisoners. I begged to see Chevalier Musso, who is sick, offering the Catholic mission's guarantee. I begged for permission to take Musso out. Refusing, they said Musso was ten miles away.

"The bandits gave me a letter purporting to account for their movements. Then they offered us a sixteen-year-old Chinese girl captive from Shanghai. We decided to refuse, still asking for Musso. The girl was taken away and we were warned to leave by 3 o'clock.

"The leader accompanied us for a short distance, charging bad faith in regard to the troops, but he shook hands with me as he left.

"The chief told me that he would free only a few captives when the first conditions were fulfilled, a few more when the second conditions were carried out, and all only when the whole bandit army was safeguarded.

"I advise you to print in large letters that there's no hope of the prisoners being released in a short time. Who thinks otherwise is ignorant of the ways of mountain outlaws."

Five Chinese Captives Are Shot.

TIEN TSIN, May 18 (Associated Press).—The bandits on Wednesday shot five of their Chinese captives and "would not hesitate one moment about shooting the foreigners," according to Marcel Berube, one of the prisoners who arrived at Linching yesterday on parole. The Chinese prisoners were murdered for not obeying an order, or for not obeying it quickly enough, Berube said.

"The patience of the brigands is becoming exhausted," Berube declared. "In three days they marched us thirty miles. Some of the captives still are without shoes and with their feet sore and swollen, marching over the mountain trails is torture.

"We are now encamped in three temples at the foot of Poetzuku Mountain. From there we can plainly see the soldiers across the valley. The troops greatly outnumber the bandits and follow at the heels of the latter on each march we make."

Berube said that Major Robert Allen and Theodore Saphiere are suffering greatly from cut and bruised feet. He declared that G. D. Musso, wealthy Italian, another captive, is unable to walk as one leg is paralyzed. Senora Veres, he declared, still refused to leave her husband and is bearing her hardships remarkably well.

Major Roland Pinger has been elected president of the captives' organization. The Major is clad in a large pair of trousers and a dress jacket.

Mr. Smith of Manchester, England, a man more than 60 years of age, who came out to the Far East on a trip for his health, is reveling in the adventure, according to Berube. Dressed in blue pajamas and a straw hat and carrying a broken walking-stick, Smith is irrepressible. On Sunday, said Berube, the aged Englishman nearly slipped over the edge of a chasm to his death but was able to scramble back to safety.

Berube asserted that the soldiers had looted one of the bandit villages and that the captives had seen several other villages destroyed.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

TSAO CHUANG SHANTUNG, China, May 18.—Marcel Oliver Berube, a French captive who was released by the bandits on parole, has arrived here with messages addressed to the diplomatic body at Peking and the President of China, which he was instructed to deliver personally, saying that unless the Government troops are withdrawn from the vicinity of the bandit stronghold at Poetzuku, two foreigners, one American and one Englishman, will be slain.

Despite assurances that the troops would be withdrawn the bandits assert that the forces in the neighborhood of Paotzuku have actually been increased since the concentration of the foreigners there. M. Berube bears this out. The situation is regarded as most critical unless foreign pressure is exerted. M. Berube is due in Peking Sunday morning. Urgent diplomatic action is necessary to save the lives of the captives.

A representative of the bandits called upon Consul Davis asking that Roy Anderson and the Foreign Commissioner at Nanking accompany them, but they decided that the bandits and the Government had better decide without foreign interference. Mr. Anderson is sending the bandits six piculs (a picul is 133⅓ pounds) of rice and three piculs of flour, hoping to conserve the food of the foreigners and to assure better treatment.

The fortress where the captives are confined is visible from here and the latter can see a searchlight constantly sweeping the country to guard against a bandit attack upon the electrically-charged walls, within which are gathered the highest Generals in this section of China, all bent on winning glory by the release of the captives.

M. Berube brought with him a 13-year-old Chinese girl who was held a captive. She has been the enforced mistress of a bandit chief. The foreign captives induced the outlaw leader to release her on account of her youth and she has been sent to Shanghai.

Less than fifty Chinese remain captives, some having escaped, but M. Berube says that five were lined up and shot by the bandits. The lives of Mr. Powell, Chicago Tribune correspondent; Signor Musso and others were given as a pledge for Berube's return.

Legalized banditry is the real aim of the outlaws within definite areas assigned by the Government. The bandits want absolute control of all protection payments by the great companies.

The bandits are suspicious of the offer of the Minister of Communications and General Yang as hostages for the fulfillment of their demands after the release of the captives. The bandits have spies learning every decision and detail of the plotting of the generals. Hence Wu Fu-lin's dramatic offer to remain a hostage indefinitely received indifferently as lacking sincerity, even though the Government is offering to receive into the army one bandit for every pistol and rifle.

VLADIVOSTOK REDS SEIZE FOREIGN GOODS

REFORM PROMISES REFUTED

Washington Regards Incident as Ample Warrant for Our Course Toward Moscow.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Absolute disregard by the Soviet of the rights of private property has been exemplified in the action of the Bolshevist authorities at Vladivostok in seizing nearly half a million dollars' worth of property of foreigners, mostly Americans. The incident is regarded by the Harding Administration as a complete refutation of all the professions of reform made by the Soviet authorities in the last two years.

Immediately after the Administration came into office the Soviet regime attempted to inveigle this Government into a discussion of trade relations and proposed to send a special mission here for that purpose. These overtures were repulsed by President Harding, who replied through Secretary Hughes that until Russia should demonstrate respect for private property, for the sanctity of contracts and for human life it would be useless to talk about negotiating for trade relations, much less seeking official recognition.

Later much propaganda was spread from Moscow in an effort to make it appear that the Bolshevist authorities were making reforms and leaning toward respect for property rights. No information has reached Washington to convince officials that these professions were sincere, or that the Soviet régime made any real reforms under which private property would be respected.

The seizures of American private property at Vladivostok have been followed by the closing of the consulate at that port and the withdrawal of the consular staff from that post, so that now this Government has no diplomatic or consular representatives in Russia.

Officials today emphasized the fact, apropos of the closing of the consulate at Vladivostok, that a considerable amount of American property had been seized there by the Soviet authorities. The largest blocks belong to the International Harvester Company and the General Electric Company. Other American property was seized, with the property of other foreign nationals.

The American Consul at Vladivostok, officials stated, had done everything in his power to protect American property, but the Soviet authorities had rendered this impossible and therefore it was necessary to close the consulate. All foreign Consuls, except those of Japan and China, have been withdrawn from there.

No protest has been made by the General Electric and International Harvester companies to the State Department or by others whose property has been confiscated, but the facts have been called to its attention. In February the authorities in Vladivostok stated that the American Consul must come to an agreement with them by May 30 or he would no longer enjoy consular privileges.

The American merchandise confiscated at Vladivostok was sent there since the war. Officials are not yet informed as to whether any of it was sent after the Far Eastern Republic joined Soviet Russia. The value of the goods of the International Harvester and General Electric companies was about $300,000. The other American and foreign goods seized bring the value to about $500,000.

The State Department has been told that some time ago the Soviet authorities sent to Vladivostok a commission which seized foreign goods and sent them into Western Russia. A considerable amount of American property was included in these shipments.

BRITISH MOSCOW AGENT PREPARES TO DEPART

But Has No Direct Orders From London, Where Hope of Agreement Is Still Held.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, May 18.—Pessimistic rumors regarding Anglo-Russian relations are circulating here today. Many British business men are preparing for a speedy departure. The British Mission has not yet received any news of the Krassin-Curzon negotiations to indicate that a rupture is imminent, but expresses the belief that the British Foreign Minister will insist on more thorough satisfaction from Russia than is offered in the Litvinoff note.

If this view of the case is correct a rupture is certainly nearer, for I am assured that the Soviet Government feels that it has gone to the limit of concessions. On the other hand, it is pointed out that Krassin may be able to give Curzon explanations and guarantees Russia is able which would be incompatible with the dignity of the Soviet Government if they were offered in a formal note.

MOSCOW, May 18 (Associated Press).—The British mission in Moscow, while still without direct orders to leave Russia, began packing up this afternoon in readiness to depart for Riga.

The Council of Commissars, together with officials of the Political Bureau, met today to discuss further instructions to be sent to Krassin, who requested the instructions after his first interview with Lord Curzon.

Commenting on the conversations between Lord Curzon and Leonid Krassin in London, the Isvestia says:

"We are ready to carry on pourparlers with Great Britain on all questions, but, as Russia has frequently before, the pourparlers must be conducted under conditions acceptable to both countries and with a guarantee of interests. Soviets will never under any circumstances allow a foreign will to be forced upon her. This ground we shall hold."

"The declaration that Lord Curzon was willing to meet Krassin," says the Pravda, "was a clever move," because the Whitsuntide recess of the British Parliament puts the full mantle of power on the shoulders of the Foreign Secretary, where it will remain until Parliament reconvenes.

"The workers must watch every step of the enemy," the newspaper continues, "in order to see who is pushing the bayonet against their breasts."

The general note sounded by the Soviet newspapers is that the ultimative character of the British demands still remains. The Isvestia says that this makes a conflict unavoidable.

LONDON, May 18.—No further meetings between Lord Curzon and Leonid Krassin, the Russian representative here, have yet been arranged, and none is likely to take place for some days, as Lord Curzon left London today for the Whitsuntide holidays.

M. Krassin has communicated the attitude of the British Government to Moscow in a long cipher cable and is awaiting a reply, which is not expected before Monday, at the earliest.

The whole atmosphere now seems favorable to a settlement.

TALK OF JUNKER PLOT TO INVADE RUSSIA

Ludendorff Is Said to Be Planning to Restore Monarchism There and in Germany.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, May 18.—According to a Russian of high standing not connected with either of the extreme Russian parties, the extreme section of the Russian Monarchists, with the help of the Prussian Junkers, under Ludendorff, are planning an early invasion of Russia with the object of overthrowing the Soviet Government and restoring a monarchy in Russia, and eventually, with the help of the new imperialist Russia, replacing the Hohenzollerns on the throne in Germany.

This statement, if true, would reveal the purpose of the German secret army of which the French are so afraid. It is destined, it is said, not for a war of revenge on France, but for the restoration of an autocracy in Russia and Germany. This army consists of 170,000 men, all of whom are former officers of the German Army, highly trained and completely faithful to the old régime.

Each man has a rifle and 300 rounds of ammunition, and the organization has a few light field guns. It is divided into units of 10,000, each under a command of a General. The units are subdivided into battalions of 1,000.

Every man is capable of commanding; so there is an army capable of quick, indefinite expansion.

The plan is said to be for this army to raid Russia, capturing strategic points near the frontier, the first objectives being Kronstadt and Petrograd. It is said that already 15,000 of these men have entered Finland in civilian clothes, while thousands more are infiltrating through Poland.

The plotters are said to have obtained eighteen transports of moderate size, loaded with arms and equipment, ready to make a surprise landing near Kronstadt and seize the fortress, using it as a base for operations against Petrograd. These ships, said to have been supplied with the help of Krupp's, are reported to be scattered at Baltic ports. Six are said to have been at Copenhagen a week ago.

The outline of this plot is said to be known to the Soviet government, making the Moscow leaders very anxious to settle their quarrel with Great Britain.

The plan is said to be bitterly opposed by the moderate section of the Monarchist Party, among Russian exiles, as well as by the Centre parties, which are now taking shape in the hope of reorganizing Russia's constitutional republic. These elements dread the return to power of the Baltic barons, who were largely responsible for the downfall and corruption of the old Russian monarchy and are said to be the principal actors in the new drama now being staged.

RELEASE IS DELAYED BY CHINESE RIVALRY

But Washington Hopes Officials Will Compose Their Difference and Free Foreigners.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Competition among Chinese officials for the honor of obtaining the release of the captives held by the Chinese train bandits, as well as disagreement among the bandits themselves, has been responsible for the delay in obtaining their freedom, according to Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, American Minister at Peking. In reporting today to the State Department he expressed the opinion, however, that all the Chinese authorities were doing their best to effect an early release and that the negotiations have reached a stage where "success is probable."

The State Department's announcement today reads:

"The department has been informed by the legation at Peking that Minister Schurman arrived in Peking early this morning, having traveled by special train which he secured for himself at Pukkow.

"Last evening Consul John K. Davis and Major Philoon boarded the Minister's train at Linching and had a four-hour conference with Mr. Schurman. According to them the recent delay has been due to the great difficulties experienced in arriving at a plan acceptable to all bandit chiefs. The older bandit chiefs are more of the professional bandit type. They are inclined toward delay and more unreasonable terms. On the morning of May 16 a message from the bandits arrived at Tsao Chuang, near Linching and reported that the representatives of the bandits had been selected and would be ready to enter into negotiations May 17.

"If the bandits' terms are found to be acceptable, Consul Davis and Major Philoon are of the opinion that the captives may be released within two or three days. If, however, the terms are not acceptable, then it will be necessary to enter into new negotiations, and it may be two or three weeks before the captives are released. The Chinese officials on the spot are Military Governor Pien and his adviser, representing Shantung; the Kiangsu Commissioner of Foreign Affairs and General Chen, representing Governor Chi of Nanking, the Minister of Communications and his party, with whom is now associated General Yang Sen, the recognized ruler of Tientsin, where the Minister of Communications lives.

"Consul Davis and Major Philoon fear that the number of these officials may complicate the situation. According to the report of Davis and Philoon, the Kiangsu group, with which Roy Anderson has been associated, has conducted all the real negotiations, had up to date what had any material value towards effecting the early release of the prisoners. Mr. Anderson and Commissioner of Foreign Affairs Wen from Nanking were asked by the bandits to proceed on the morning of May 17 to the bandits' headquarters. This was rendered impossible because General Yang and the Minister of Communications sent an advance party of theirs to the bandits at 6 o'clock on the morning of May 17.

PRESIDENT THANKS SENATOR HARRISON

union and the completeness of reunion I am glad that he made the trip.

Very truly yours,

WARREN G. HARDING.

Hon. Pat Harrison, United States Senate, Washington, D. C.

The President's reference to turning to "a fresh pipe of tobacco for consolation" after reading attacks on the Republican Party by Senator Harrison calls attention to the fact that the President has become a confirmed pipe smoker. He smokes cigars and cigarettes also, but comparatively recently his pipe has furnished his chief after-dinner smoke. People who have called at the White House in the evening have seen him puffing away on a short-stemmed briar which to some might has furnished an incongruity in connection with his evening clothes.

References That Pleased Harding.

The kindly references to the President, Mrs. Harding and Dr. Harding in Senator Harrison's article, which THE NEW YORK TIMES is permitted to publish through the courtesy of the Twenty-first Century Press, are:

"Incidents that may have seemed of little significance for the moment have proved powerful factors in cementing the bonds between the North and the South. Such an incident occurred during the Confederate reunion in New Orleans a few days ago, an incident that is destined to rank in influence for mutual appreciation and understanding with Lamar's speech on Charles Sumner, Henry Grady's wonderful speeches, the efforts of the lovable, martyred McKinley, and the ties of the Spanish-American and World Wars. I refer to the visit of Dr. George Harding to and the sentiments he expressed at the Confederate reunion.

"The human, big-hearted, broad-minded father of a distinguished and thoroughly human son, by his attendance upon the reunion of the survivors of the 'Lost Cause,' and the whole-hearted, unrestrained manner in which he entered into the spirit of the occasion left, I dare say, a splendid taste in the mouths of every visitor to New Orleans during the reunion and made a most pleasing impression on the country as a whole. His hosts and fellow-visitors could not, of course, embrace his politics, but they could and did take him, the rugged American and honored sire of a worthy son, into their hearts for all time. I venture the thought that if the dear old doctor tarried in those parts long enough his politics would become diluted—for the better, of course. * * *

"Dr. Harding has endeared himself to the South, and there is no doubt that every friendly sentiment he expressed during his visit to New Orleans came from the bottom of his heart.

"And they do say—the press reports—that he shook a mean foot at the dances. May he live long and grow younger. * * *

"While the people of the South in the aggregate are not in accord with the political views of the present occupant of the White House, they do like him for his charming personality, his amiable qualities. They like his human side. And they like Mrs. Harding.

"The Confederate veterans of Mississippi have particular reason for liking Mrs. Harding and for spending many anxious hours during her severe illness of some months ago. Immediately following the Confederate reunion at Richmond last year, many of the old soldiers who had never been to Washington, although they got pretty close to it in the early 60's, took advantage of the opportunity to visit the nation's capital.

"Of course, the veterans wanted to visit the White House and meet President Harding. Some 200 of them from Mississippi, many of them accompanied by their wives, came to Washington and it was my great privilege and pleasure to escort them to the White House. The touching events of that visit will linger in their memories until the stack arms on 'God's Eternal Camping Ground.'

"They will never forget, nor will I, the cordiality and sincerity of the President's greeting as he shook hands with each of them. They will not forget the warmth of his expression, the way he joked with them and his posing to be photographed with them. His greeting and consideration touched their hearts, as was evidenced by the tears and cheers with which they responded.

Were Americans First.

"Needless to say, they were all Democrats, some of whom, in all probability, had never seen a real, dyed-in-the-wool Republican before, but they were Americans first and were in the presence of their President. There was no politics in that occasion. These tottering old soldiers were overcome by patriotic sentiment; they could see only their President, humane, considerate and even partial toward them.

"But as appreciative as they were of the generous greeting of President Harding and highly as they esteemed him, he was temporarily eclipsed and forgotten when the 'First Lady of the land' came out to extend her greetings and beam her smiles on them. Never was she more gracious, warm-hearted and sympathetic. As one of these incidents that have made for the final obliteration of sectional feeling, it was little less memorable than the visit of Dr. Harding to the New Orleans reunion.

"Due to circumstances, one caught the ear and quickened pulse of the country more than the other, but they were both links in the chain of everlasting friendship and understanding that now holds the sections indivisible and inseparable, and makes for the common advancement of all.

"In the words of Lamar, 'Let us know one another better and we will love one another more.'"

This Would Have Provided Revenue to Demobilize Army and to Meet Obligations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Failure of France to ratify the treaties negotiated at the Washington arms conference has an important bearing on the development of the present chaotic condition in China and to a very large extent nullified the efforts of the American delegation in the arms conference to do something real toward the rehabilitation of China.

France is the only power that so far has failed to ratify the Nine-Power Treaty with respect to China. Such failure has made it impossible to exchange ratifications or to put the treaty wholly into effect. The terms of that treaty provided that three months after final exchange of ratifications there should be a conference of the powers to provide additional revenue for the Peking Government through a 2½ per cent. tariff surtax. The failure of France to ratify has left the Chinese Government in virtually an insolvent condition.

The proposed surtax, it is estimated, would produce between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 in revenue. Many conflicting proposals have been advanced for disposition of this revenue. One suggestion has been that the money be applied to new productive enterprises such as construction of highways, railroads and conservancy projects. This latter suggestion is regarded with favor here because it promises a way out of the present chaos in China.

Unsecured Debt is $400,000,000.

In the $400,000,000 unsecured indebtedness of China there are many items which are regarded as deserving of recognition in any redistribution of Chinese revenue. Foreign concerns have advanced materials to China to the amount of about $50,000,000, taking in payment bonds secured by a first lien on the railways, bridges, &c., into which the materials went. Several American concerns are among the material creditors. On the other hand China's unsecured indebtedness includes items amounting to considerable proportions which represent purely political loans for military purposes which have been an element in prepidtating the present chaotic condition.

Chinese provincial leaders and military chieftains scattered in confusing array throughout all China wield their present influence because they have armed forces behind them. Break up these military organizations, it is contended, and their influence will dwindle, freeing the Peking Government from the intrigue and distress from which it now suffers.

There is some irritation over the delay of France in ratifying the Washington treaties. It is believed that the very presence of an international conference in Peking for the purpose of providing additional revenue would have a stabilising effect.

FRANCE TO RATIFY TREATIES

Passage Without Reservations Before Summer Recess Is Expected.

PARIS, May 18.—Ratification of the Washington naval accords by the French Parliament, without reservations, is expected before the Summer recess, it was declared in official circles today. The interpretive resolutions proposed by the Foreign Affairs Committee before the last recess will be purely for the satisfaction of the French people, it was added, as these resolutions can in no way modify the agreements signed at Washington.

Premier Poincaré, it is understood, intends to insist upon action before the Chamber's adjournment and is confident that both houses will vote ratification by good majorities.

Eighth Dial Phone District to Open.

The New York Telephone Company announced yesterday that "Jerome," the city's eighth machine switching telephone office, will soon be placed in operation in the new building at 117-127 East 167th Street, the Bronx.

Mrs. Thompson has engaged a new lawyer, and the trial will begin on Monday.

with the welfare of the League of Nations. If you occupied a room at the Statler Hotel way up stairs and somebody was dynamiting the foundation, would you not have some anxiety about it? So it is with the Court.

"One of the objects in going into the Court is to help pay its expenses. What about sharing the burdens of the League of Nations?"

Senator Borah read from the Journal of the League aiming to show the large expense it was under.

Senator Borah declared that France's invasion of the Ruhr was sowing the seeds of a future world war, and asserted that Poincaré was a "menace to the peace of the world."

The Senator spoke under the auspices of a committee of which Charles Nagel, former Secretary of Commerce, was Chairman. Many persons of German and Irish extraction were present.

Although his address was virtually the opening of the campaign of the "bitter-enders" against President Harding's World Court proposal, the Senator in an interview disclaimed any intention to fight the President for renomination.

"My speeches upon the World Court have nothing whatever to do with Presidential candidates," said Senator Borah. "I believe that President Harding will be nominated by the Republican National Convention by acclamation, but upon an air-tight platform."

It was apparent that Borah's fight was not to prevent Harding's renomination, but aimed to control the convention against the World Court.

Declares Plan Impossible.

ST. LOUIS, May 18 (Associated Press).—Senator Borah, after asserting that the same close relations as existed between the Department of Justice of the United States Government and its entire Administration also existed between the World Court and the League of Nations, continued:

"The attitude in which we are being placed toward the League, in being its adviser and counselor and yet professing to be against the League, puts us in an intolerable position. With all due respect to those who hold a different opinion, it seems to me to be a wholly immoral position. And it is a position which, I venture to say, the American people will never assume.

"You can see at once that the position is an impossible one. You cannot serve God and mammon; you cannot serve good and evil at the same time. You cannot be opposed to the League because it is dangerous and in favor of the Court because it is good, for the reason that the Court cannot exist without the League."

Reviewing recent developments in Europe, Senator Borah asserted that events had shown that the League of Nations had not put a stop to wars. The men who brought on the great World War, he said, had produced more than twenty wars since the League was organized.

"I do not see how you are going to stop war or even check war until you outlaw war, make war as an institution for the settlement of international disputes a crime, and hold responsible those who foment wars," the Senator said. "Less than a score of men brought on the World War. No nation was responsible for that war, no peoples were responsible for it."

In charging that the League of Nations had not only failed of its purpose, but had, in an indirect way, caused wars, Senator Borah asserted:

"It was a league member which incited Greece to war and then deserted her in her humiliation and defeat. It was a league member which armed and financed Turkey and brought her back to power. The army which butchered helpless and defenseless women and children in that field of carnage in Asia Minor was armed and equipped by a member of the League of Nations. * * *

"Poland, a member of the league, invaded and took Vilna and began war on Lithuania, used arms against Eastern Galicia and Lithuania, and by force of arms took Memel from the Allied Powers. France, a member of the league, invaded the Ruhr, and is now whipping women and trampling down children in Germany."

Union League Club for World Court.

The Union League Club, after a long address by Elihu Root on the Permanent Court of International Justice, passed a resolution last night endorsing the proposal of President Harding that the United States should participate in the Court. There were a few dissenting votes when the question was put, but the majority seemed to be in favor of it.

Mr. Root made the points that the United States was at present eligible to take cases to the Court, that men from this country could be elected as its judges, and that the Court had nothing to do with the League of Nations. As a matter of fact, said Mr. Root, the United States is in the Court at present just as much as if it had signed the treaty. The only way in which the United States cannot participate is in the election of judges, which right it would acquire by joining the Court and agreeing to pay a part of its expenses.

Mr. Root's speech was given out by H. A. Cushing, secretary of the club, who deprecated the idea that there was any real conflict of opinion as to the Court among the club members. While he was talking, however, Frank Hendrick, a lawyer, bustled up and began to give out copies of a speech in the substance of which he said he had made in opposition.

"Now, now, Mr. Hendrick—" began Mr. Cushing.

"I'm a member of this club just as much as Mr. Root is," said Mr. Hendrick. He added that the vote on the resolution had been about 110 for to 20 against. He insisted that there was considerable opposition to the Court plan.

Mr. Root reviewed the way in which the Court came into being, and said: "It is for the first time in the world a judicial court for the decision of questions between nations.

"They have jurisdiction of three kinds," he said. "In the first place I should say that the suitors before the Court, the parties, are States and only States, so that no controversies can come before them except controversies between nations.

"The first kind of jurisdiction is jurisdiction of all controversies between States. The second is of all controversies which arise between States that have made general treaties of arbitration. It does not require a special agreement to create that jurisdiction.

"The third is an optional jurisdiction. There is a clause in the treaty which created the Court under which any party to the treaty may assent to compulsory jurisdiction. The States which do not consent to that are not subject to the jurisdiction and the States which do are subject to it. About twenty States have signed that clause saying that they are subject to compulsory jurisdiction and can be brought into the Court by an adversary State just as anybody can be brought into any court and obliged to submit to the jurisdiction."

SAYS RELIEF SAVED 10 TIMES WAR DEAD

Hoover Tells Social Workers Convention America Fed 50,000,000 in Europe.

SEES END OF RUSSIA'S NEED

But Must Aid Till Next Harvest—Florence Kelley Assails Wage Decision.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—In an address tonight before the National Conference of Social Work Secretary Hoover declared that "the lives of ten times as many people in Europe were saved by American relief measures as were killed during the Great War."

Introduced by Homer Folks, President of the Conference, as the "greatest social worker of all time," Mr. Hoover entered into a review of the service rendered by the American Relief Administration. Everlasting gratitude to America had been embedded in the heart of Europe, he added.

"I would rather have the American flag implanted in the hearts of millions of people in Europe," he said, "than to have added to the American Navy all the battleships that could be floated on the Atlantic Ocean."

More than 50,000,000 people were successfully sustained in 1919 by the more than 2,500,000 tons of American food distributed by the American relief, Mr. Hoover said. This and other service, including reorganization of transportation and distribution of coal, were accomplished by a thousand men and women from the United States. The reduction of cattle due to the famine of 1919 left an inadequate supply of milk, and the American Relief Administration organized a separate service which cared for 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 people, mainly children, for the following two years.

Mr. Hoover said that the failure of the Russian harvest of 1921 prompted the American Relief administration to send help to Russia. In five months an organization of 250 men was put in the field which helped upward of 12,000,000 people. Even with American aid 2,000,000 lives were lost in Russia, but without it 20,000,000 people would have perished.

International peace can only be established on the basis of good-will, he asserted. The friendship for America created in the heart of Europe by American relief measures, made possible through American generosity, will be a lasting factor in the maintenance of peace.

Standards Lowered in Depression.

Another speaker in tonight's program, which closed a day devoted to papers on "Industry," was William H. Johnston, President of the International Association of Machinists, who took as his subject, "The Social Challenge to Industrial Management." Both social workers and workers in the labor movement faced a somewhat hostile world, he said, for different forces had different standards of value and were each pressing toward goals advantageous to them.

"We are just recovering from an industrial depression during which many employers utilized the temporary disadvantage of the wage-earners not merely to reduce their wages but also to break up their organizations and deprive them of rights and conditions gained by years of struggle," he continued.

During the day session Mrs. Florence Kelley of New York, General Secretary of the National Consumers' League, characterized the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the minimum wage case in the District of Columbia as "a new Dred Scott decision," and as "progress backward."

The adoption of new standards for the personnel of the court is the first essential, she said, adding that the number of judges was too small. The power of five judges to constitute a majority of the court was too great, "as recent experience has proved," she added.

"Following the child labor decision, the wage-earning children have returned to their wage slavery. Following the latest one, wages of the most ill-paid women in the District of Columbia have been cut in half.

Wants Women on Supreme Bench.

"The personnel of the Supreme Court of the United States is a subject of uttermost, permanent importance to this nation. In the future the monopoly of the interpretation and administration of the law by men alone can never rightly be accepted without criticism and protest. It is a survival of the age before women were full citizens."

The eight-hour working day is better for capital, labor and industry in general than the twelve-hour shift, asserted L. W. Wallace, Secretary of the Federated American Engineering Societies.

Industrial standards promulgated by the conference in 1912 were still so far from achievement that they should be reaffirmed as a program, Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay of Columbia University told the meeting.

Six main meetings, ten special group meetings and thirteen luncheons were held today for the benefit of the 5,000 delegates to the conference. The parent organization entertained the international guests at a luncheon at the Hotel Washington, thirteen countries being represented. A reception and dance were held tonight.

RUSKAY BOOKS OPEN TO DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Referee in Bankruptcy Coffin Makes Same Order as in the Fuller Case.

Harold P. Coffin, referee in bankruptcy, signed an order yesterday afternoon directing Mark Hyman and Allan R. Campbell, receivers of Samuel S. Ruskay, Burrill Ruskay, Eugene Greenhut, George P. Proctor and Joseph P. Shelby of the stock brokerage firm of S. S. Ruskay & Co., bankrupts, to deliver to Mark Hyman, trustee for the bankrupts, all books, papers and accounts of the bankrupt company. This means that the District Attorney will have the right to examine the company's accounts and begin criminal proceedings if the evidences justifies it.

Under examination by Moses Cohen, attorney for the creditors, yesterday Thomas Reese, former telephone boy for Ruskay & Co., told how he had been presented with a membership in the Consolidated Stock Exchange by his employers and a year later was able to lend them $7,000 in Liberty bonds. The Reese membership cost Ruskay & Co. about $3,500. On the day of the bankruptcy, it was brought out, S. Ruskay gave Reese a check for $7,000.

Cohen asked Reese why, when he made arrangements with Ruskay to become a member of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, he had not arranged to pay back to Ruskay the regular commissions which he received on executed orders. Reese answered that he made no such arrangements.

Cohen then asked Reese if he did not give Burrill Ruskay the $7,000 in Liberty bonds to pay Ruskay's share of the commissions which Reese earned as floor broker. Reese answered that he did not and that the $7,000 was a loan. He denied that he ever paid Ruskay or any member or employe of the firm any part of the commissions he earned. Before he was elected a member of the Consolidated Stock Exchange Reese had also been a telephone operator for Ruskay & Co. several years at salary of $30 a week.

VETOES PENSION BILL.

Hylan Explains It Would Have Cost Taxpayers Millions.

The legislative bill making the last five years of service the basis on which city employes, exclusive of police, firemen and teachers, would receive pensions, was vetoed by Mayor Hylan yesterday. The present basis is the last ten years of service, and between 30,000 and 40,000 employes would have been affected by the change.

"I vetoed the bill, not because I was not anxious to help city employes obtain larger pensions," explained the Mayor, "but because if I favored it millions would have been added to the burdens of the taxpayers. We haven't the money and we can't get it from the taxpayers."

The bill, which was introduced in the Senate by Senator Twomey, was drafted to permit prospective pensioners to take financial advantage of the 20 per cent. increase in pay during the past five years. Many employes denied that the measure would have cost the taxpayers as much as the Mayor declared.

entirely upon the financial standing of a man."

Mr. Silkworth told Referee Coffin that about 92 per cent. of the customers go long on stock and only about 8 per cent. "really know how to sell securities short."

Fallon Fails to Appear.

William J. Fallon and Eugene F. McGee, counsel for the two brokers, did not appear before Judge Learned Hand in the Federal Court at noon when the hearing on a writ of habeas corpus they had obtained the day before for their clients was resumed. Fallon sent word that he was engaged in the trial of a case in another court, and that he did not wish to continue the hearing. On Thursday evening he had requested the adjournment in order to submit briefs he had filed in the "Nicky Arnstein bankruptcy contempt proceedings about a year ago to substantiate his contention that the brokers were within their constitutional rights in refusing to deliver the missing papers to George C. Sprague, the trustee in the Fuller & Co. bankruptcy.

Francis L. Kohlman and Carl J. Austrian, counsel for the trustee, and William M. Chadbourne, counsel for the 4,000 Fuller & Co. creditors, were in court and announced that they were ready to proceed with their side of the argument. Judge Hand declared that despite Fallon's withdrawal, he would not close the proceeding. At his request the attorneys for the trustee and the creditors furnished the Court with copies of the order issued by Judge Julian W. Mack of the Federal Court demanding that Fuller and McGee produce the missing papers and a copy of Judge Goddard's order committing the two brokers to jail for contempt for failing to do so. It developed that, although Judge Hand had refused to interfere with Judge Goddard's commitment, Fuller and McGee technically were in his possession because of the institution of the writ of habeas corpus proceeding. Judge Hand is expected to render a decision on the writ tomorrow.

Seek Court of Appeals Judge.

Later in the day Fallon and McGee appeared in the Federal Building and it was said that they were looking for a judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. It was understood that they intended to apply for a writ of error which, if granted, would mean that the higher court would review the proceeding before Judge Goddard which resulted in the commitment of Fuller and McGee to the jail. None of the judges of that court was available, however, and the lawyers left. It was said that if none of the judges of the Circuit Court of Appeals would grant the writ of error an application would be made to Associate Justice Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court.

Eugene F. McGee's application to Judge Nott, in General Sessions, for an order to show cause why Harold S. Beidleman, a juror in Fuller's last trial on one of the bucketing indictments, should not be held in contempt for failing to notify the Court, as he charged later, that a bribe of $1,000 had been offered to him to vote for Fuller's acquittal, came up before Judge Nott in General Sessions in the forenoon.

McGee was not present and the application was denied. Soon afterward William J. Fallon, McGee's partner, appeared before Judge Nott and had the proceeding reopened. Judge Nott said that he had been giving the application considerable thought, and he felt that the motion should be withdrawn until McManus had been brought to trial on Beidleman's charge.

"If the accusation against McManus is unfounded," said the Court, "it is a most dangerous assault upon the defendant's rights. If the accusation is true, it is most serious and dangerous to the administration of justice."

Beidleman Will Be a Witness.

"Will Beidleman be a witness at McManus's trial?" asked Fallon.

"I want to inform the Court," interjected Assistant District Attorney Hugo Wintner, "that Mr. Beidleman positively will be called as a witness for the prosecution at McManus's trial."

"We want to find out who McManus was interested in when he approached the juror," Fallon told the Court. "We certainly do not know him, and are not interested in him. But we are anxious to find out who is interested in him. We believe that what was done was in attempt to prejudice the public mind against the defendant Fuller and make it impossible for him to get a fair trial."

Fallon then demanded that the Assistant District Attorney show to the Court that Fuller was in any way connected with McManus's alleged bribe offer to Beidleman's secretary. He said that he was willing to withdraw the motion made by his law partner if Mr. Wintner would consent to place McManus on trial within three weeks. Mr. Wintner made no response to the suggestion, and Fallon then announced that he would withdraw the motion with the understanding that he would be permitted to renew it on June 8. The Court acquiesced.

Says Stoneham Cashed Foley Check.

Leo J. Bondy, counsel for Charles A. Stoneham, President of the National Exhibition Company, owners of the Giants' baseball club, yesterday made a statement explaining how Fuller had issued a $10,000 check to ex-Sheriff Thomas F. Foley shortly before the failure of the Fuller firm in June last. The check was found among the papers of the bankrupt firm after their seizure by Federal Receiver Samuel Strasbourger. It was made out to "T. F. Foley," and was endorsed with Foley's name. It was sent to the Chatham and Phenix National Bank by the National Exhibition Company.

Bondy said that Foley, who is the Tammany leader of the First Assembly District and is considered next in influence to Charles F. Murphy in Tammany circles, had been a friend of Stoneham's for many years. Foley had an account in Fuller & Co., he said, and was on friendly terms with Fuller. A short time before the failure of the brokerage firm, he went on, Fuller came to Foley and told him that he was in need of cash. Fuller, Mr. Bondy added, explained to Foley that he had several out-of-town checks, which he was unable to cash right away and asked Foley to cash a check for $10,000 which Fuller had made out to Foley. Fuller had dated the check three or four days ahead, Mr. Bondy said.

The lawyer added that Foley told Fuller that he did not have $10,000 in cash, but consented to ask Stoneham to cash it. Stoneham took the check as a favor to Foley, the lawyer explained, and gave Fuller the money. Fuller's check was put through the clearing house in the regular way, Mr. Bondy said, three or four days later.

"That's all there was to the matter," Mr. Bondy said. "It is not an unusual thing to cash checks under such circumstances in the financial district."

"Mr. Foley said that he never received the check," he was told.

"Well, he probably has forgotten all about the matter," he replied. "There was nothing about it that would cause him to keep the thing in mind. I don't suppose he had the check in his possession long enough for the matter to leave an impression with him."

Stoneham's brokerage firm did considerable business with Fuller & Co., Mr. Bondy said, and that examination of Fuller's books ought to show check transactions amounting to more than $1,000,000 between the firms.

When Foley was told about Mr. Bondy's statement last night in the Downtown Tammany Club, his political headquarters, at 59 Madison Street, he declared that he would not discuss it. He said that he had been advised by his attorney not to comment on anything in connection with the $10,000 check transaction. He refused to reveal the name of his attorney.

Harold Norris, an official of the National Surety Company, made a statement in the afternoon to explain how his name came to be signed to a $5,000 check which Fuller was alleged to have sent to William S. Silkworth, President of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, in February, 1922. Norris said that in 1917 he opened a special account with Fuller & Co., which he closed out with a profit in January, 1918. He said that he had no further connection with Fuller & Co., and was surprised several days ago when he read that his name was on the stub of the Silkworth check. Mr. Silkworth had explained on Tuesday that the check was sent to him by Fuller to be added to an emergency fund for members of the Consolidated Exchange.

Norris said that when he learned that his name was on the stub of the $5,000 Silkworth check he began an investigation and discovered that Fuller & Co. had continued his name on their books after his withdrawal as a customer. He said he was informed that he was one of five or six former customers whose names had been used in that way.

Has Desk Room with Foley.

He denied that ex-Sheriff Foley was in business with him. He said that he and Foley had been friends for many years and that he had desk room in Foley's office at 112 Centre Street. He declared that he was not interested in politics with Foley, as had been represented.

Norris also explained how his name came to be mentioned in connection with the furnishing of two $25,000 bail bonds for Fuller and McGee when they were arraigned in General Sessions last Summer on the bucketing indictments. He said that Arnold Rothstein, the former gambler, who is in the insurance business, acted as a broker in furnishing bail for Fuller and LeRoy Meyers was the broker on McGee's bond. When Rothstein and Meyers communicated with the National Surety Company about the bonds, he said, an official of the company called him on the telephone at the Centre Street headquarters and asked him to write out the bonds, as he was the executive agent of the company in that district. Norris said that he had no further connection with the matter than to make out the bonds in the form required by law.

A report was received at District Attorney Banton's office from Boston that District Attorney O'Brien of that city had begun an investigation there of Mr. Banton's charge that David Green, or Greenberg, who had been subpoenaed as a witness in the last Fuller trial, had been intimidated from testifying at the trial. Green was served with a subpoena and accepted $52 for expenses. It was discovered that he obtained employment in a brokerage firm there, which Mr. Banton declared was an adjunct of the Fuller company. The subpoena had been endorsed by the Massachusetts Supreme Court, and it was understood that Mr. Banton requested the Boston prosecutor to proceed against Green for failing to obey it.

SAYS JAPAN NEEDS AMERICAN AMITY

Mikado's Ambassador Tells of Dependence Upon Our Trade for Nation's Prosperity.

SEES NO HARMFUL RIVALRY

Asserts That Japanese Have No Desire to Send More Emigrants Into United States.

Japan has no desire to send to the United States emigrants who are undesirable to the American people, nor, in fact, to send any more emigrants, said Ambassador Masanao Hanihara at a luncheon of the Japan Society at the Lawyers Club yesterday. The Ambassador dwelt on the present cordial relations between the United States and Japan, which he said had never been better.

"In the whole bright outlook," he said, "there is only one question which vexes the minds of both people. It is the question of the treatment of Japanese in this country. * * * I only want you to understand that there is no question of our desire to send in more immigrants. The question is simply one of elementary principle in international intercourse; that is to say, of discrimination or no discrimination based on color or nationality.

"Permit me to repeat that Japan does not desire to send any more emigrants to the United States, and that she is willing to co-operate to keep out of your country such of our nationals as you do not wish to have in this country. But we hope to avoid measures that provoke irritation. * * *

"With no conflict of great interests between us, and with no cause on either side for distrust or suspicion, but with evident desire and every reason on both sides for a mutually beneficial friendship, I confess that I cannot see why our common intelligence and collective wisdom should fail to find the right solution, fair and satisfying to all of us, to a problem which is apparently difficult but really simple.

"With this question settled, there will be nothing for years to come that may likely disturb our happy relations.

"In the relations between our two countries there is and has ever been no vital interest that conflicts, but on the contrary each has excellent reasons, both material and ideal, for being on the friendliest terms.

"In the first place, Japan sells to the United States more than to all other countries combined, excepting only China, and Japan is America's best Oriental customer. Further than that, America's trade with China is not injuriously affected by Japanese competition, although the opposite is often alleged. The fact is that America's sales to China are increasing more rapidly in proportion than are Japan's. To students of the national needs of Japan it has become clear that we must have America's co-operation—with both money and energy—to develop our industry and commerce. And it is equally clear that in such full development of trade and manufacture lies the only hope for Japan's economic—nay, more, her national—survival.

"I should like you to consider the few figures issued by the Department of Commerce, which I quote with the utmost confidence.

"In 1921, the last complete year in evidence, American exports to Japan totaled 238 million dollars. In the same year American exports to China were 113 million dollars, or less than one-half. In 1921 American imports from Japan were 251 million dollars and from China 103 millions.

"For the nine-year period beginning with the last prewar year, 1913, American exports to Japan increased 277 per cent., and her imports from Japan increased about 154 per cent. At the same time America's exports to China increased 335 per cent., and Japan's exports to China grew a trifle less than 100 per cent., in spite of the 'dangerous' Japanese competition which was said to be injuring American sales to China. In like period America's purchases from China grew about 155 per cent., while Japan's imports from China were increasing 230 per cent.

"Now these figures are dull things in themselves, but if you understand them, it is clear to you that Japan is a valuable trade connnection in the Pacific region. And, without burdening you with more numerals, I can assure you that the connection is even more valuable to Japan than to America. We understand these facts and, understanding them so plainly, it would be preposterous—monumental folly—if we were to be so blind to our own interests as to attempt any action, or adopt any policy, that might injure these markets and sources of supply.

"Why Japan should be friendly to China is simple to understand. Japan is so geographically situated that her repose and safety are directly affected by conditions in China; and then Japan is vastly dependent for her trade and manufacture on China. This is why Japan is so deeply interested in China's peace and in her good and stable government, for without them the normal intercourse which is so vital to our interest cannot take place. This is why Japan is anxious to win China's goodwill, for without it our economic life will be seriously menaced.

"It is for these reasons that Japan has been and is showing China every possible consideration that one can expect of another. Japan is willing to do for her neighbor whatever is in her power in the interest of the good relations between the two countries. One latest proof of it is the law which was passed by the last Diet of Japan. By the law a fund of 65,900,000 yen ($32,900,000) is created out of the Boxer indemnity and Shantung accounts, which is to be exclusively used for education, relief and other like purposes for the Chinese people.

"Now I come to my second point. Our countries are placed on the ocean where the two great streams of civilization must meet. Each may learn from the other and with good-will on both sides the best of each will be developed for the good of all. America is the vanguard of the new Western civilization and Japan is properly accepted as the new exponent of the old Eastern civilization. A hearty co-operation between the two can produce nothing but good, while willful appeal to prejudice must bring disaster not only to both countries but to the rest of the world. And as the relations between them are now better than in any recent years all of the good and thoughtful people in both nations must agree in the desire to maintain and increase their cordiality. It is a great opportunity for both nations.

"As an ardent believer in the firm friendship between America and Japan, I rejoice with you in the better and broader understanding that has been brought about between our two countries since the close of the Washington conference. It had been apparent for some time before the conference that distrust and suspicion had crept into the minds of some of the people of both countries. It seems to me that this had been due largely to influences—some merely ignorant, others malevolent—which had been exerted persistently in recent years to undermine the traditional friendship of the two countries.

"As was pointed out by your President in a recent issue of The Independent, numbers of stories about Japan's secret and pernicious designs and plots against international decency in general, and against America in particular, which had been circulated persistently, were found to be nothing but mere fabrications of ingenious but evil minds.

"Still later Japan was charged with disloyalty to her allies during the war and with not being honest in her public promises. But every one of these charges fell through when it was put to the test of cold facts."

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Officials refused to comment on the declaration of the Japanese Ambassador that the American attitude toward the Japanese immigrant was the one question "in the whole bright outlook" which vexed the minds of both the Americand the Japanese peoples.

Before Ambassador Hanrihara left Japan for Washington reports from Tokyo said that he had been instructed to take up here the question of Japanese immigration. Responsible Government officials today said this matter had not been taken up.

COMMUNISTS BATTLE FOR MINES IN RUHR

One Is Killed, Ten Wounded and Nine Policemen Hurt—Reds Urge Strikes.

ESSEN, May 18 (Associated Press).—A Communist was killed, ten Communists were wounded and nine policemen were hurt today in the latest clash between groups of Communists seeking to force strikes in the mines, and the police who are resisting their efforts to take control. The fight took place at the Ministerium Mine, near here, the police beating off an attack by the Communists who were armed with pick handles and similar weapons.

Other collisions occurred at several other mines, where the Communists had gone to urge miners to strike for higher wages. For a time a Communist band held complete control of the Kaiserstuhl Mine in the Dortmund district, but the police finally returned with reinforcements and drove out the Communists.

DUESSELDORF, May 18 (Associated Press).—The Communists' agitation began some days ago, when they endeavored to organize a strike for higher wages at the Dorstfeld and Scharnhorst Mines, but failed in the effort.

The Communists then assembled reinforcements and visited the Kaiserstuhl Mines, where they induced or forced the men to quit work, afterward holding the entrances of the mines. During these operations one miner was badly wounded and a policeman injured.

The German newspapers blame the French for the trouble, saying their motive is to create disturbances so as to divide the workmen, most of whom have thus far been loyal to the German Government. This the French deny, with the assertion that the Communists have shown as strong an opposition to the occupation as have the Nationalists.

A band of Communists, accompanied by many women, recently visited the food stores in a small town near Essen and demanded that the prices be lowered. After some bickering the storekeepers were obliged to accede to the demand, the police force being too small to protect them adequately in case of violence.

BERLIN, May 18.—A Dusseldorf dispatch says that General Degoutte, in command of the French occupational forces, has issued a proclamation ordering German railway men to resume work within forty-eight hours. Failure by the men to report for duty will bring their expulsion.

ROOSEVELT ON VISIT TO NAVY YARD HERE

Confers With Plunkett and Denies Reports That Local Work Will Be Suspended.

Reports that the New York Navy Yard would be closed because of lack of work were emphatically denied by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt yesterday when he visited Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, Commandant of the navy yard in Brooklyn and inspected the plant. Regarding the failure of the Navy Yard to bid successfully for the reconditioning of the steamship President Buchanan, the Assistant Secretary said he regarded that contract as a closed incident.

Mr. Roosevelt had argued for an hour before the Shipping Board, hoping to capture the contract for the navy yard, he explained. Chairman Albert D. Lasker had awarded the contract to the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt said that without doubt the Shipping Board Chairman had acted according to the dictates of his conscience. Colonel Roosevelt refused to add his voice to a protest of the workmen of the navy yard, and he said he didn't consider it worth while to "cry over spilt milk."

His visit to the New York Navy Yard yesterday was not only to inspect the yards and certain jobs now under way there but to discuss with Rear Admiral Plunkett a number of problems that must be solved.

FRANCE TO FORESTAL CUNO WITH TROOPS

Fifteen to Twenty Thousand More Are Slated for Ruhr, and Greater Coercion Planned.

TO PREVENT BRITISH MOVE

"Premature" Evacuation Must Not Be Forced, Poincare Warns—More Reparations Ordered.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 18.—Premier Poincaré has decided to answer the expected new German note in advance by sending more troops to the Ruhr. To the 50,000 already there it has been decided by the Government to add another 15,000 to 20,000. These troops will be taken from the young 1922 class, which has had a year's training.

With the dispatch of these new troops new measures of greater severity will be taken. The new coke stocks will be opened and control of all outlets from the Ruhr will be made much more vigorous. It has been found that recently there has been a good deal of leakage through the military customs cordon, and Premier Poincaré is determined not only to make the occupation more productive to France but much more severe for Germany.

Today in governmental quarters a plain hint was given that whatever the new German proposals may be, and whatever their reception by any of the Allies may be, there can and must be no attempt made to force France "prematurely" out of the Ruhr. Both the Governments of France and Belgium are pledged not to abandon this guarantee except in proportion as reparation payment is made.

There is, therefore, no hope whatever of any success attending an offer from Germany which will imply French abandonment of their guarantees. Even should the offer be acceptable to Great Britain and reasonably so to France—a hypotheals which is treated as very unlikely—there is no chance whatever that British insistence, or even French acceptance, would entail evacuation.

Today the Commission on Reparations, by a majority vote, called on Germany to deliver 60,000 tons of nitrate during the year 1923. Failure on Germany's part to deliver this will, as usual, probably ultimately entail seizure.

CONFIRMS SENTENCES ON KRUPP DIRECTORS

French Military Revision Court Also Upholds Death Penalty on Schlogetter for Sabotage.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUESSELDORF, May 18.—The court-martial sentences on Baron Krupp von Bohlen and some of his Directors of fifteen years in jail and 100,000,000 marks fine were confirmed today by the Military Court of Revision here.

All legal arguments put forward with eloquence for the defense by Professor Moriaud of Geneva failed to convince the Special Court, consisting of seven officers, presided over by General Deviry. The defense argued against confirmation on the ground that there had been flaws in the procedure, but this was successfully contested by the Judge Advocate.

One of the convicted, however, Herr Mueller, of the Krupp factory council, who was sentenced to six months in prison for inciting workmen to resist French requisitions of automobiles on Easter Saturday at Essen, is to have a new trial. All the other decisions stand.

Von Bohlen and three co-directors of the Krupp Herren works, Bruhn, Hartwig and Oesterlein, will now appeal to the Court of Cassation, France's Supreme Court. This, however, must take considerable time, and in the meantime they must remain in prison.

Another sentence upheld by the revisional court-martial here today was that of Schlogeter, condemned to death for sabotage on the railroads and espionage. This is the first death sentence pronounced on a German here, and has created a deep impression on the population.

The French authorities intend to make certain of obtaining the fines levied against the Krupp directors and other industrialists, even to the extent of seizing their belongings and putting them up to auction.

Such a step was taken at Essen yesterday when Herr Tengelmann, director of big Essen coal mines, condemned to pay a fine by a Mainz court-martial, had his furniture removed and brought to Duesseldorf by a detachment of French military. This will be auctioned in order to meet the liability. A similar fate is predicted for Fritz Thyssen, who also refused to pay the fine to which he was sentenced simultaneously with Tengelmann.

MANVILLE IN SUIT AFTER SPIRIT 'TIPS'

Aged Asbestos Man and Dr. A. E. Austin Make Counter-Claims on Oil Deal.

VISITED MEDIUM TOGETHER

Physician's Suit Will Come Up for Trial on Monday Before Justice Cohalan.

News that Charles B. Manville, 80-year-old founder of Johns-Manville, Inc., asbestos manufacturers, and Dr. Alonzo Eugene Austin of 16 Central Park West, a well-known homeopath, were suing each other over a deal in oil stock became known yesterday. Manville last night said that Mrs. Myrtle Bowman Hayes, Mrs. Clara Stetson Butler and a clairvoyant had all helped persuade him to buy stock in a company sponsored by Dr. Austin, and that Mrs. Hayes had used Charles M. Schwab's name to convince him.

Dr. Austin began suit against Manville in New York and against Walter B. Clarke, a broker, in Maine in 1921, charging that they had given accommodation notes for $4,000 on Oct. 5, 1919, and $17,000 on Nov. 7, 1919, to raise funds to finance business ventures in which the defendants were interested. Dr. Austin alleged that he loaned the use of Cities Service Corporation stock and signed the notes at the request of the defendants to give them credits at the Pacific Bank.

Calls Stock Worthless.

In his answer, Manville denied Dr. Austin's charges and set up a counter claim against the physician for $20,000, which he said he paid for 10,000 shares of Pennsylvania and Kentucky Oil and Gasoline Corporation stock. Manville charged that Dr. Austin was connected with the company and that he made false representations that the company was prosperous, well managed and about to declare big dividends, and that the money from the stock issue was to be used for digging new wells and increasing production. According to Manville, the stock was worthless and he lost his investment.

It was learned that an examination before trial was held some time ago, and that Mr. Manville was questioned by Dr. Austin's attorney, Guernsey Price, and Dr. Austin by Manville's attorney, Hobart S. Price. Dr. Austin testified that he and Manville together had visited the apartment of a spiritualist known as Miss Thompson, on Central Park West. Manville yesterday said that his wife had died shortly before he first visited the spiritualist, and that Miss Thompson's message from his wife in the spirit world showed such an intimate knowledge of his family life that he was convinced the "tips" on stocks she gave him, after going into a trance and looking into a crystal bowl, were also correct. Manville also said that he had been told that several wealthy men had profited by the spirit information.

Mrs. Butler to Be Called.

According to Manville, the notes in question were endorsed by himself, Clarke and Dr. Austin. Manville says the notes were made out by Clarke, payable to himself, and that it was understood that they were to be used to buy stock in the National Sales Company and the Hobbs Manufacturing Company. He says that 134 shares of Cities Service Corporation stock were deposited as security for the notes at the Pacific Bank.

When the time came to take up the notes, Manville says, Clarke asked him to do so and he refused. On July 6, 1919, he says, he met Clarke and Mrs. Butler, and Mrs. Butler had an agreement which he was represented as having signed, to the effect that he and Clarke would take up the note at maturity. Manville denies that he ever signed the agreement. Dr. Austin's attorney has signified his intention of calling Mrs. Butler as a witness to the agreement.

The trial of the Austin vs. Manville case will begin on Monday before Supreme Court Justice Cohalan. Mr. Manville is expected to testify at the trial.

HARDING'S HOME TOWN STRIPPED OF FUNDS

Its Treasury Is Empty and Banks Refuse to Lend It Any More Money.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, May 18.—President Harding's home town is unable to pay its debts. It has borrowed the last cent that local banks will lend or the town's institutions will give them, and policemen, firemen and library employes understand that it will be some time before they receive the semi-monthly compensation now due them.

Marion has spent all the money available from tax collections, and a local bank that has been filling its payroll for the last year, and which advanced the money for last month's payroll, has refused to provide the money this month.

"Let the Mayor solve the riddle" was the attitude taken by the Council today.

"We have a hard enough time to get along when we are drawing our pay," a police officer stated. "How does the Mayor or townspeople expect us to live while we are waiting for the town to extricate itself from the debt into which it has fallen?"

"The Mayor vetoed the occupational tax measure, which gave us the only way out," said Councilman Charles E. Merkel, a local banker. "He has gotten the town into the hole and now let him get it out."

CITY ENJOINED ON STRIKE.

Schenectady Company Gets Order Preventing Stoppage of Cars.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., May 18.—The Schenectady Railway Company today obtained a temporary injunction restraining city officials from interfering with the operation of trolley cars during the strike now in progress.

The injunction was granted by Justice Angell and is returnable at Hudson Falls on June 6, at which time the company will seek to have it made permanent.

The action of the company followed orders given to the police yesterday to arrest any persons attempting to take cars from the barns during the strike by direction of Mayor Whitmyre, who sought to avert disorders.

City officials said this afternoon that the injunction had not been served on them and that the police order was still in effect. No efforts were made by the company today to operate cars.

FLOGGING CASE DEFERRED.

Columbia Professor Finds Sympathy for Youth Who Jeered.

No action was taken by the Columbia University authorities yesterday as the result of the kidnapping and beating of William L. Werner, a post-graduate student, because of his defense of jeering at a recent Reserve Officers' Training Corps reviewing. It was said that any action that might be taken would be deferred for a time.

That the majority of the students disapproved of the action taken by student officers was indicated yesterday, when a professor mentioned the incident before his class and said that if that represented Columbia ideals and thought he did not think he would care to be connected with the university. Every student in the class voiced his disapproval of the incident, so the professor will not be forced to leave.

HEALTH BOARD GOES AT TURKS' DEMANDS

Allies Consent to the Abolition of International Body in Constantinople.

LAUSANNE, May 18 (Associated Press).—The Near East conference today formally recognized the abolition of the International Sanitation Board, which has long supervised health conditions in Turkey. As a substitute, Turkey agreed to appoint three foreign physicians as an advisory board, particularly in preparing effective sanitary regulations for the Turkish Straits, to prevent epidemics from spreading to Europe.

Turkey objected to the old international board as constituting an infringement of her sovereignty, and its abolition was decreed by the Angora Government along with the entire system of capitulations, or exterritorial rights of foreigners. Abolition of the board leaves in its treasury about $2,500,000 to be disposed of, and the United States, as a member of the board, will have a voice with the other twelve member nations in disposing of this sum.

The interests of the American companies, represented by Irwin Untermyer of New York, to which the heirs of Abdul Hamid granted oil and other concessions, are said to be affected by the conference's discussions of the Turkish civil list. Action on this matter was postponed by the conference today to enable Ismet Pasha to present a list of the former Sultan's private properties. The allies desire that all the States detached from Turkey shall have free title to such property lying within their borders. They insist that the bulk of this property was registered with the Government after the Young Turk revolution, and therefore is national property.

M. Venizelos referred to this clause, presented to the Turks by the Allies at the last conference and amended at the last minute when the conference collapsed. It provided for direct settlement between Greece and Turkey and arbitration if an agreement was not reached. Neither Greece nor Turkey accepted this amendment, Turkey refusing to recognize any Greek claims for damages, but being willing to submit her claims against the Greeks to arbitration.

M. Venizelos now flatly demands that the Allies restore the original clause of the treaty. In his declaration he ridicules the Turkish claims, saying they are based on supposed Greek responsibilities for the Smyrna disaster.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The International Sanitation Board was a body set up at Constantinople to deal with public health matters affecting the rest of the world as the result of the passage of the pilgrims and others through that gateway to the Near East.

Prior to 1914 the United States had a representative on the board, who was an American physician stationed at one of the American Colleges in Turkey. The modern Turk has been anxious to have the board abolished, just as he has wanted to have the so-called capitulations abolished. At the first session of the Lausanne conference the question was considered, and it was then virtually decided that the board should be abolished and an advisory board, consisting of three or four foreign physicians, to be named by the Turkish Government, appointed in its place.

Greece tonight took a more defiant attitude in the reparations dispute with Turkey, an attitude which threatens a rupture of the conference.

The Greek delegation issued an official declaration insisting upon a reciprocal renunciation by Greece and Turkey of all reparation claims. M. Venizelos, head of the Greek delegation, is regarded by the delegates to the conference as having thus played a card which is calculated to embarrass the Allies by forcing them to support Greece, as they originally included in the Peace Treaty this mutual renunciation.

BOOTLEG ACTIVITIES SHIFT TO CAPE MAY

Boat Is Seized by Coast Guard and Crew Is Said to Have Admitted Operations.

Evidence that some of the rum-running boats are now operating further south off the Jersey coast than formerly was contained in information from Cape May, N. J., yesterday, that the alleged rum-runner Jerry T. had been captured off Corson Inlet, twenty-five miles north of Cape May, by Captain Cornelius Nickerson of the Corson Inlet Coast Guards Station.

A member of the crew is reported to have told all he knew of bootleg operations in that section, involving several business men of Cape May.

The capture of the boat, and the reports that a great many prohibition agents are headed for that section, threw a scare into bootleg circles in the vicinity of Cape May. It was also reported that bootleggers and smugglers all along the coast from Cape May to the Highlands are deeply concerned over the increase in Federal activity. For several days Divisional Chief R. Q. Merrick has been informed of operations of rum-runners said to be unloading in the vicinity of Barnegat Light and other points south of there.

Magistrate Folwell, in Fifth Avenue Court, Brooklyn yesterday, denounced two witnesses who failed to identify two men they had caused to be arrested on a charge of holding up a truck and stealing forty-nine cases of whisky last Tuesday. The men who said they had been robbed are Charles Kraditor, 562 Willoughby Avenue, and Samuel Freisler, 55 Siegel Street, both of Brooklyn. They caused the arrest of Joseph Forcinza, 247 West Twenty-fifth Street, and Frank Caruso, 437 West Twenty-eighth Street, both of Manhattan.

Both of the defendants were freed when the complainant failed to identify them.

CUNARD STEAMSHIPS DRY AFTER JUNE 10

United States needs now is some great leaders. The time for nursing plasterers' unions and other labor organizations for getting their votes has gone past. This country has grown too large for that sort of policy to continue."

He added that the immigration restriction laws in Washington had not only affected the third class travel but also had caused a big shrinkage in the second class booking to this country.

Another first-class passenger on the Aquitania was Mrs. H. L. Higginson, 81 years old, of New York City. She had not crossed the Atlantic before since 1851 when she traveled in a paddle steamer with square yards and a big spread of canvas, she said. She complained that the modern floating hotels had eliminated the chances of being seasick, which people always looked forward to in her early days, as part of the great adventure in crossing the ocean.

Sir Michael Nairn A. Gips, managing director of the Holland-America Line, and Mrs. Gips, and Wilhelm Assarsson of the Swedish Legation were also passengers on the Aquitania. Captain Sir James Charles, R. N. R., the master said, that the ship steamed 578 miles in one day on the westward voyage which was her best speed since she had been converted into an oil burner. Walter P. T. Tyser, one of the Cunard directors from London, was also a passenger with Mrs. Tyser.

The Aquitania had 334 first, 290 second and 141 third-class passengers.

BRITISH FIGHT "DRY" RULING.

Appeal to Foreign Office Against Decision on Liquor in Port.

LONDON, May 18 (Associated Press).—The Foreign Office received today a protest from British shipowners against the recent prohibition ruling of the United States Supreme Court barring intoxicating liquors from American territorial waters, but it is unlikely that the protest will be forwarded to Washington, as requested by the ship men, until the American Government indicates the exact methods to be taken for enforcement of the ruling.

It is understood that wide latitude in handling matters connected with the prohibition issue has been given to Ambassador Geddes, and that no protests will be lodged in Washington until his reports indicate that such measures are likely to be beneficial.

British officials still hope that further American legislation, or the exemption of foreign ships, may enable British vessels to carry sealed liquor stores within the three-mile limit and at the same time allow the ships of other countries to comply with their own laws regarding supplies for the crews.

Yesterday's meeting at the Board of Trade, at which the shipowners' protest was framed, was a secret session, and the shipping representatives and Government officials were pledged to give nothing to the newspapers, but it is learned that "extraordinary consequences" are feared if other countries adopt rulings similar to that of the United States.

Representatives of the Chamber of Shipping, the Liverpool Steamship Owners' Association and the Board of Trade were at the meeting and talked over the complications arising from the ruling.

HALFWAY REPEAL IS URGED ON SMITH

Instead of Veto, Governor Is Asked to Draw Teeth of Mullan-Gage Act.

HIS FUTURE IS INVOLVED

Friends Suggest a Course to Avoid Hostility of Dry States in 1924 Convention.

Advisers of Governor Smith are urging him to follow a middle course in dealing with the bill to repeal the Mullan-Gage State Prohibition Enforcement act. During the last twenty-four hours strong pressure has been brought to bear on the Governor from many sources in an effort to induce him not to sign the Cuvillier repeal bill, but instead draw some of the teeth of the Mullan-Gage law.

This course would be open to Governor Smith because in addition to the Dunnigan-Cuvillier bill there are pending for his approval one measure which would make peace officers forfeit their office and lay themselves open to other penalties if undertaking search and seizure under the Mullan-Gage law without a search warrant, and another bill which would put an end to the present system under which an offender against the prohibition law might become subject to prosecution both by the State and Federal authorities for the same offense with the possible consequence of a dual penalty.

It has been represented to the Governor that by giving his approval to these two measures, he would eliminate the two features of the Mullan-Gage law to which most objections from responsible quarters have been advanced. This in effect, it is suggested, accomplished all that could be desired in the direction of that liberalization of enforcement methods to which tacitly at least, the Governor's party is committed.

The advisers of this category are not directly affiliated with the thoroughly wet Tammany organization, nor with any of the equally wet Democratic organizations in other boroughs or, for that matter, with Democratic machine politics generally.

Smith's Chances in 1924.

Many of them have a keen interest in Governor Smith personally and in his political future. They believe that with next year's Presidential election approaching he may be called to a sphere of greater political prominence and broader usefulness as a candidate for first or second place on the Democratic national ticket, if a way can be found by which he may escape the odium which they believe would follow upon his approval of a measure which runs counter to the best sentiment among Democrats in the dry South and the dry West.

Other persons close to Governor Smith continued to express yesterday their firm conviction that the Governor had decided for himself that in order to keep faith with the very large number of voters who supported him in the belief that his election would mean the end of the Mullan-Gage law he must sign the repeal bill. Spokesmen for those who are urging a middle course, on the other hand, appeared equally confident yesterday that the Governor's mind was still open with regard to the question involved.

Governor Remains Silent.

With the Governor determined not to enter upon any controversy or to commit himself in any way prior to the public hearings on his final action on the repeal bill, it was not possible yesterday to learn from the Governor to what extent he had been influenced by the advice of those who of late have been urging him to permit the Mullan-Gage law to remain in force.

Senate Leader Walker, who was instrumental in putting the repeal bill through in the upper house after orders had come from Tammany that the bill must be passed, said last night that he did not know what Governor Smith would do.

SAY RAIDERS FAVOR MEN.

Women Ask Enright to Make Public All Adults' Names.

A committee of the National Woman's Party, led by Mrs. Marcus M. Marks, called on Police Commissioner Enright yesterday and requested him to give out the names of men as well as those of women in raids made by the police. Mrs. Marks also asked the Commissioner to try to prevent the names of minors from becoming public when found in cabarets and dance halls. In addressing the Commissioner Mrs. Marks said:

"The National Woman's Party is committed to only one purpose, and that is equality for men and women. In a recent raid made on a dancing academy on Riverside Drive, a number of women were arrested and held in police stations all night, while the men were allowed to go. We feel that this is a discrimination against women and would like your co-operation in righting such a wrong. We ask that in the future, where such a raid is made, that you issue orders to your men that the names of minors be not given out; if the names of the adults are given out, that the names of the men also be made public, and this only where a conviction is obtained."

Mrs. Marks suggested that in the case of minor girls they be taken to their homes and turned over to their parents, as throwing them in with criminals by no means improved their morals.

W. J. Murphy Appointed Appraiser.

William J. Murphy of 612 West 176th Street, President of the St. Nicholas Democratic Club of the Twenty-third Assembly District, was appointed yesterday by State Tax Commissioner John P. Gilchrist as appraiser of real estate and personal property of the Tax Commission. Mr. Murphy is a graduate of Villa Nova College and for more than thirty years has been a master builder. Assistant District Attorney Richard C. Murphy is his son.

BRYAN FAILS TO GET CONFERENCE POSTS

Not Named Vice Moderator Nor Chairman of Committee to Handle Fosdick Issue.

PLANS FIGHT ON EVOLUTION

Declares It the Greatest Menace of the Time to the Religious World.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 18.—William J. Bryan, who was defeated yesterday for the office of Moderator of the 135th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Dr. Charles F. Wishart, declined appointment today as chairman of the Assembly's Committee on Home Missions.

Incidentally, Mr. Bryan lost the office of Vice Moderator, the second highest honor of the Assembly, which it was generally believed would be offered to him. Dr. Wishart appointed today the Vice Moderator and the chairman of the twenty-one committees of the Assembly. The committees of which it is thought to be the greatest honor to be chairman are those on bills and overtures, foreign missions and home missions.

It is well known that Mr. Bryan wanted to be chairman of the Committee on Bills and Overtures, to which will be committed the ten resolutions pending against the Presbytery of New York because it permits the Rev. Dr. Harry Fosdick to preach Sunday in the First Presbyterian Church in New York City. Dr. Fosdick, who is a Baptist, is charged with being unorthodox.

As it is, the Commoner now is a member of the Committee on Education only.

Bryan Explains His Attitude.

Mr. Bryan made a statement, saying in part:

"Dr. Wishart asked me what office I would desire, mentioning the Vice Moderatorship or some committee chairmanship. I thanked him and asked him to give me time to think the matter over. Dr. Wishart announced the committees earlier than he had expected to do, and he appointed me as Chairman of the Committee on Home Missions. I told him that the work I had in hand would make it impossible for me to give the necessary time to it.

"As the Vice Moderatorship had already been filled, there was nothing else open.

"I think that the fight against the brute doctrine of evolution is more important than any work I can do as chairman of any committee.

"I believe the doctrine that man is descendant of the brute, unsupported by a fact in nature and directly antagonistic to the Bible account of creation, is the greatest menace to civilization as well as religion.

"It has insolently invaded the pulpit and robbed ministers of their belief in every essential principle of Christianity.

"It has invaded the Christian colleges as well as the public schools, and the faith of Christian girls and boys is undermined in the name of a false science that assumes to dictate to religion.

"The menace seems to me so great that I am going to give whatever time I can spare from other work to the informing of Christian people.

"Fully 90 per cent. of the professing Christians have never accepted the hypothesis that man is descended from the brute, and I deny the right of a small minority to change the entire basis of the Christian religion without a referendum to the Christians themselves.

"The alleged fear of discord comes with poor grace from those who are responsible for the attempted overthrow of the Apostles' creed which for centuries has expressed the Christian faith."

In explaining why Dr. Wishart did not name Mr. Bryan as Chairman of the Home Missions Committee, one of the Commissioners remarked:

"When you win out on a question of policy, you don't put the execution of the policy in the hands of the opposition."

Astonished at Choice for Vice Moderator.

When it was announced that S. Spencer Chapman Jr., an elder from the Presbytery of Philadelphia North, had been appointed Vice Moderator, most of the 900 Commissioners were astonished.

So far Mr. Bryan has not spoken from the floor.

Today's General Assembly Daily News, which is the official publication, said:

"Section 19 (in which Mr. Bryan sits) desired to accede to the wishes of Mr. Bryan and elect him to the Committee on Bills and Overtures, but some one discovered that the instructions to that section provided for the election of a minister, who had already been named when Mr. Brayn's request was made known. Mr. Bryan was elected to the Committee on Education."

Proposes a $15,000,000 Budget.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 18 (Associated Press).—Dr. Calvin C. Hays of Johnstown, Pa., reported this morning to the Presbyterian General Assembly, as Chairman of the Executive Commission, the proposed budget for 1923-1924, as follows:

Board of Home Missions	$1,700,008
Self-supporting synods	2,263,935
Chaplains in United States Army and Navy	6,750
Board of Foreign Missions	3,008,920
Work in Europe	125,120
General Board of Education	1,030,100
Board of Publication and S. S. Work	677,160
Board of the Church Erection Fund	597,132
Board of Ministerial Relief and Sustentation	1,077,390
Board of Missions for Freedmen	268,402
Board of Temperance and Moral Welfare	73,872
Permanent Committee on Evangelism	84,953
Permanent Committee on Men's Work	59,097
Permanent Committee on Sabbath Observance	25,855
The American Bible Society	92,340
The Federal Council of Churches of Christ	24,624
Total	$12,312,000
The Woman's Board of Home Missions	1,120,000
The Woman's Board of Foreign Missions	1,343,000
The Woman's Department of Freedmen	225,000
Total	$15,000,000

The Assembly took an hour from its other duties this morning to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of Presbyterianism in Indianapolis. Governor Warren T. McCray delivered an address of welcome at the celebration.

BOND CLUB BEATS TWO CHICAGO TEAMS

New York Salesmen, at Annual Outing, Win Victories in Baseball and Golf.

About 400 New York bond salesmen, ranging in importance from commission seekers to the high officers of important banks, took a day off yesterday to celebrate the sixth birthday of the Bond Club of New York. The occasion also marked the third annual field day of the organization, which was held at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club. Golf, baseball and tennis formed the chief attractions during the way, in which the athletic program began at 10 o'clock in the morning, and a general jollification prompted by two victories over the Chicago Bond Club—which comprised the visiting team both in golf and baseball—featured the evening's program.

Main interest centered in the baseball game which was won by the New York team which got off to a flying start under the strong right arm of Charles H. Sabin, Chairman of the Guaranty Trust Company. The score was 4 to 3 in favor of New York. The two previous annual games were won by the Western invaders.

Mr. Sabin started yesterday with a fine assortment of curves—so the Chicago players who faced him said after the game—but these were unable to keep him out of the hole when Lawrence Howe, the second man up, caromed a two-base hit off one of Frank A. Vanderbilt's trees planted back of left field. Mr. Sabin, however, retired the next two men who faced him, getting credit in the box score for a lightning assist which put J. H. Briggs out at first base on a play which advanced Howe to third.

Other features of the game in which Mr. Vanderlip figured as the official starter by reason of tossing the ball onto the diamond, were four double plays by the Chicago team; three two-base hits in as many times at bat by C. E. Bacon, who as pitcher for the New York team let his opponents down with five hits; and some sparkling plays by R. W. Emmons and H. T. Sawyer of the New York team and R. E. Bard and W. E. Kistner of the Chicago team.

The game was marred in the fifth inning when a foul ball, lifted over the backstop, struck Charles E. Doyle of Charles E. Doyle & Co., brokers of 44 Wall Street, behind the right ear. Mr. Doyle was rendered unconscious but rallied a short time later at Ossining Hospital and returned to the clubhouse in time for the evening's program, apparently none the worse for his experience.

C. E. Beacon, who relieved Mr. Sabin as pitcher in the second inning, struck out eleven of his opponents and drove in the first run made by the New York team.

The golf tournament drew out 250 members of the New York Club and 56 members of the Chicago club. The score in the team matches was also 4 to 3. Following this tournament, Mr. Sabin again stepped into the contest in a foursome in which Lieut. Col. the Honorable G. Akers Douglas of Lee, Higginson & Co. of London, and Mr. Sabin played Francis H. Sisson and Finley J. with Colonel Douglas turning in the with Col. DDouglas turning in the best best score of 84.

76 PERSONS PERISH WHEN SCHOOL BURNS

issued a proclamation calling on the people of the State to aid the fire sufferers.

Actor Survivor Describes Disaster.

"The play was going on when the fire started and the blaze began as we were shifting the scenery between the second and third acts," said C. C. Bruce, 19 years old, who was one of the amateur actors. "It was all so horrible that I can hardly realize it. Four of the eight who were on the stage are now dead.

"I was standing right under the oil lamp which was swinging from the ceiling and was partly hidden behind the curtain when suddenly it fell. Some believe the heat from the lamp had melted the soldering and loosened the iron ring, causing it to fall. Others say the curtain, as it was let down at the end of the second act, struck the lamp and loosened it. Anyway it fell and oil ran out over the floor and blazed up.

"At first people screamed and began to get up, but we told them we could put it out and we tried to do so. The flimsy draperies caught, however, and soon the stage and platform were ablaze. Then every one acted panicky and began to rush for the stairway, the only exit and a very narrow and rickety one. There were about 300 people in the audience, I believe.

"The men tried to keep the crowd from pushing each other down the steps, but could not control them. The fire was licking closer on all sides. Soon some of the people in the hall began going to the windows and jumping. The mothers threw their children to those below and some jumped after them. I remember Stoney Campbell, whose daughter was trapped on the stairway and burned to death, threw his wife out of the window and jumped after her. She broke her leg, but both escaped.

"The principal, Miss Stephens, and Miss Zula Presser and Miss Esta Garvin, teachers, were on the stage with us. The cast was composed of eight, four of whom, Ima Arrants, Ola Phillips, Bertie Hendrix and Jack Rush, are dead. Besides myself, those who escaped were Otis Arrants, Kate Dixon and Parker Davis. The worst part of it all was trying to help those caught in the blazing building.

"I got out by jumping across the bannisters and down to the first floor instead of using the steps. Shortly after I got out of the building the stairway collapsed and there was a struggling mass of people, many badly hurt, some even then dying, I guess. The splinters from the jagged edge where the stairway gave way soon caught fire and burning pieces of wood fell upon those fighting for their lives in the pile of debris. The only light was from the fire itself and the heat was intense.

"I pulled at those in the doorway until I saw it was useless. Many of us stood under the windows trying to catch the children who were thrown out and to break the fall of those who jumped. Automobile seats were placed under the windows to break the fall as much as possible, but few who did not get out early by the doorway escaped with less than a broken wrist or ankle.

"Soon the clothing of those yet inside began to catch fire and the cries and groans of the dying added to the horror of the scene. Then the building collapsed and, well, I guess you know the rest. I'll never forget it.

"And the tragedy of it all is that the building had been condemned and this was to be the last commencement to be held in it. Next year the boys and girls of the Cleveland school community were to be in a new schoolhouse."

WORST SCHOOL FIRE SINCE 1908

Blazes in Schoolhouses Average Five a Day, Says Expert.

"There are other schools in all parts of the United States that are veritable fire traps," said W. E. Mallalieu, General Manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, yesterday in commenting on the Cleveland (S. C.) disaster, "and disastrous fires are certain to occur to such structures, from time to time, unless greater attention is paid to safeguards against fire.

"According to our records," he continued, "this is the worst school fire since that which took place at Collinwood, Ohio, in March, 1908, when 173 children lost their lives. In this fire, which started from an overheated steam pipe, the panic-stricken children piled up against a locked exit door and perished before they could be rescued.

"Schoolhouse fires result from many causes, although the heating plant is chiefly responsible, and the National Board's statistics show that they occur at the rate of five a day on the average. Property losses in school buildings amount to about $5,261,000 annually, but the most serious feature is the life hazard involved.

"For several hours each day, during approximately two hundred days of the year, 25,000,000 children are found in the schoolrooms of the United States. Their attendance is compulsory and we have no educational problems more fundamental than that of insuring safety for the children thus assembled."

WHY BRAN IS SO ESSENTIAL

Everybody needs this roughage to incite bowel action. The effective form is flake bran, for the action is mechanical.

Your effort should be to make bran a delight. The best way is Pettijohn's. That is rolled soft wheat—the most flavory wheat that grows. You'll be surprised to know that whole wheat can be so delicious.

Each flavory flake hides bran flakes. The food is one-fourth bran, yet the bran is scarcely noticed.

Your people will welcome whole wheat and bran if you serve this dainty. Try it tomorrow.

WARD, GONE A WEEK, WAS FOUND AT RACES

HAD HAIR-PULLING VISITORS

Witness at Inquiry Tells of Ward's Many Women Callers at Apartment He Had Here.

Testimony before Deputy Attorney General Wilber A. Chambers yesterday revealed that Walter S. Ward, the slayer of Clarence S. Peters, was so strongly addicted to gambling on the races that he left his home for a week without letting it be known where he was going. He was located by a New Rochelle police lieutenant at the Bowie track in Maryland placing bets in a booth marked "No bets less than $50." The expenses for the search made by the New Rochelle police were borne by the Ward Baking Company.

Further testimony in the day's hearing on the circumstances surrounding Peters's death divulged hitherto unknown details of Ward's parties in a New York apartment with a number of women. One witness declared that Ward had been visited by four women in one day. He was finally ejected from the apartment after a tenancy of less than three months because of a hair-pulling match between two of these women.

At the close of the session Chambers requested William J. Fallon, the lawyer, to appear before him next week. At the outset of the case Fallon was attorney for Peters's parents. The lawyer is said to have declared then to reporters that he could produce "within forty-eight hours" the mysterious "Charley Ross" described by Ward as one of the gang which exacted blackmail from him. It is understood that Fallon has agreed to appear.

While most of the day's testimony bore on Ward's escapades, one witness, Police Chief Frank Cody of New Rochelle, gave evidence discounting Ward's explanation of the two weapons he turned over to the authorities after killing Peters. Ward declared one was the automatic with which he shot Peters and the other was the revolver he wrested from the Haverhill youth's grasp. Cody testified that he believed both weapons were gifts he had made to Ward.

The race track testimony came from Lieutenant John McGowan of the New Rochelle police force. He said that although Ward was Chairman of the Police Commission, he knew him only slightly. He made this statement of his search for Ward:

"Just after the first week in April, 1922, about five weeks before Peters was killed, Police Commissioner Palmer F. Tubbs visited the Chief and myself. Tubbs is also employed by the Ward Baking Company.

"He told us that Walter S. Ward had disappeared a week before and that his family was terribly anxious. They were worried as to whether anything had happened to him. He had left no word at the office or at his home where he was going. He just dropped out of sight without a word. Tubbs told us that Mrs. Ward was mighty worried and wanted us to look for her husband.

"Tubbs said that if I were sent to Baltimore I might find Ward at the Bowie racetrack or at the Emerson Hotel. I started right away for Baltimore and I went to Police Headquarters there. A Baltimore detective accompanied me to the track. We had been there only half an hour when I spotted Ward. He was going into a betting booth. He must have been making a heavy bet because it was the highest-priced booth at the track. They wouldn't take bets less than $50 at that booth.

"I telephoned the Ward Baking Company and got Tubbs on the wire. He instructed me to trail Ward. The Baltimore man, Detective George Davis, and I kept our eyes on Ward until he left, just before the last race. He made for the railroad station and boarded a train for Washington.

Brother Ralph Took Up Trail.

"I telephoned again to Tubbs and he told me to remain in Baltimore overnight. Next morning he instructed me to return to New Rochelle. He said Ralph Ward, his brother, had started for Washington to bring Walter back home. When I returned to New Rochelle Commissioner Tubbs told me that the city would not have to pay my bill, which was about $60. Later I received a check from the Ward Baking Company covering my expenses."

McGowan said that Ward was alone at the track and on the train. He didn't question Ward "because he was the Commissioner and I was afraid he might get sore." Through McGowan, the Deputy Attorney General established that there were no evidences in the Ward home at Sutton Manor, New Rochelle, that Peters had been killed in the house and his body transported to the lonely spot near Kensico Reservoir, where it was found the morning of May 16.

McGowan said that he, with Assistant District Attorney Ferris and a finger-print expert, made a thorough examination of the house and garage, even removing carpets and wall pictures. They discovered no evidence. Their examination was made over the protests of Mrs. Ward and her husband's attorney, Allan Campbell. He testified that he heard later that some weeks before the shooting Ward attempted to commit suicide by swallowing iodine, a fact which already has been brought out. McGowan also testified that when Ward made a blackmail defense he asked Tubbs:

"Why didn't Ward come to Headquarters and tell Chief Cody or me about it and we'd have covered him up by getting after the blackmailers. There would have been no notoriety and the murder might have been avoided."

When Chief Cody took the stand Mr. Chambers tried to establish the ownership of the two pistols turned over to Sheriff Werner by Ward when he surrendered a week after the shooting. Cody could not say positively that the weapons were those he had presented to Ward, thus offsetting Ward's statement that one of them was snatched by him from Peters during an altercation over a blackmail demand. But the Chief insisted on his strong belief that the pistols surrendered by Ward were those he had given him some time before. They had been taken from prisoners, but Cody said his records did not show the numbers.

Ward's Parties Described.

The next witness, John F. W. Olsson, told in detail of Ward's tenancy of a two-room apartment in the Poinciana Apartments, 434 West 120th Street, of which Olsson is superintendent. Olsson, a tall, broad-shouldered, ruddy-hued Scandinavian, took apparent delight in the recital.

"It go so," he said, "that it was unusual when Ward did not have women visitors. I couldn't say how many were there in a day. But I remember a sample day. One woman came in about 1 o'clock in the afternoon. She remained an hour. He had brought her in and escorted her out. At 4 o'clock he returned with a second woman. Two hours later Ward went out with her. At 8 o'clock he came back with a third woman. She stuck around about an hour and he escorted her out. He returned at 11 with a fourth and I don't know whether she remained overnight.

"He had a favorite. She was slim and red-headde, about twenty-eight or twenty-nine years old, the one you refer to as Peggy. She was his Saturday afternoon girl. She would come at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. In the evening she would go to a stationery store and order the Sunday papers. She would leave some time Sunday afternoon.

"We put Ward out of the apartment because one night, early in September, a tenant in the next building telephoned complaining about noise in our building. We traced the disturbance to Ward's apartment. There were two women in it with Ward, and they were having a terrible scrap, pulling hair and screaming. One of them was the red-head, Ward's favorite. That was at 10 o'clock. They did not leave until 4 o'clock in the morning.

"We had stood for a whole lot in the way of his receiving women visitors, but there had been other parties that were noisy in his apartment. So the next morning I complained to Bing & Bing, owners of the building, and they served notice on Ward that he would have to vacate."

Man Caller Had Dirty Hands.

Neither of the two men who visited Ward from time to time remained more than a short while. One was robust. The other was short, slim and red-faced. Chambers was inspired to ask:

"Did you ever see Tubbs?"

"I don't know," replied the witness. "The small man had dirty hands. He looked like a stable boy or a gardener to me."

Lillian Kist, of 60 West 100th Street, one of the telephone operators in the building, said that Ward's local telephone calls were centred largely on two women, one having a Riverside number and the other in the Schuyler exchange. The latter seemed to receive and make the bulk of the calls. She could not remember the numbers and did not know the names of the women.

She identified one telephone call recorded in the building books and made by Ward to New Rochelle. It was to Palmer F. Tubbs.

Deputy Attorney General Chambers visited Police Headquarters during the noon recess and consulted with Commissioner Enright and Captain Thomas Fay. He refused to say what phase of the case had been discussed or whether the New York police had been asked to help get witnesses for the inquiry.

The next session will be in Albany on Monday and for the rest of the week the hearing will continue in New York. Among the witnesses to be called will be five elevator operators and doorman who are said to have testimony to give about Ward's parties and who may be able to name "Peggy" and some of the other women Ward entertained. Mr. Chambers plans to give over one evening to another re-enactment of the shooting in Westchester County.

MESSAGE ON PLANK ENDS SEA MYSTERY

Drifts Into Home Port and Reveals Loss of Schooner and Crew Five Years Ago.

A brief dispatch to THE TIMES yesterday, telling that a battered plank, bearing a hand-carved inscription, had been cast up by the sea at St. John, N. B., brought a shock to at least one citizen of New York, who for five years has been trying to solve the mystery of the disappearance from the high seas in 1918 of the schooner E. E. Armstrong, her captain, Bill Burns, and the crew.

The plank, according to the dispatch, carried this message, which had been hacked into one side with a knife:

"Lost ship and crew, Captain Burns (me) survives!"

According to Herbert H. Benington of 86 St. James Place, Brooklyn, who supervised the loading of the schooner and was the last man to bid farewell to the captain and crew when they cleared from St. John for Jamaica in 1918, and who read the dispatch at breakfast yesterday, the last chapter of the story will never be written.

"The oddest feature of this story," said Mr. Benington, "is that after drifting and tossing for five years on the Atlantic, that plank found its way back to the port from which it started when it was a part of the schooner.

"Captain Burns evidently regarded himself as a survivor when he carved that message and threw the plank into the sea in the hope that it would drift ashore. He was a close friend of mine and a real sailor man."

Relating the story, Mr. Benington said:

"Early in 1918 I was the manager in Montreal for the export department of Grace & Co. At that time the company owned and operated several schooners, and the E. E. Armstrong, with Captain Bill Burns in command, was one of them. The Jamaica office of the company purchased for shipment on this craft several thousand sacks of flour and meal, with a deck load of alewives. Blizzards and heavy snows blocked progress, and I remember going out to a point north of Montreal where, for ten days, bundled in fur coats that we never took off, and getting along with two hours' sleep a night, we at last got the cargo alongside the schooner and loaded.

"In due course of time we were advised of the ship's safe arrival at Kingston, Jamaica, where she discharged a part of her cargo, and of the fact that she then proceeded to Martinique, where a part of the cargo had been sold. Right there the curtain was rung down on the schooner, her captain and the crew. Not until this plank was picked up in the very harbor from which the boat had sailed were any of them ever heard from.

"For months I tried to trace the boat, but to no avail. Nor could we ever get news of any great storm that might have swallowed them up. There is but one plausible explanation, and that is that a bolt of lightning might have sent the schooner to the bottom, Captain Bill getting clear in a boat for a brief respite. Perhaps when he carved this grim message on the plank he had an idea he might be rescued. He perished, of course, because no word has come for five years until now, and Bill was not the sort of a captain to leave his home office in doubt if he lived."

ROA REPLIES TO WARREN.

He Begins a Presentation of Mexico's Case at the Conference.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 18.—The reply of the Mexican delegates to the recent presentation of the American case by Charles B. Warren was begun by Fernando Gonzales Roa at today's session of the conference which is considering questions pending between the two countries. Before he had finished, the session was suspended until Saturday, when Señor Roa will continue his statement.

The American delegates have submitted all the statements made by President Obregon to the effect that Mexican laws were not retroactive and decisions of the Mexican Supreme Court on the same lines. These statements and decisions will be contrasted with the complaints of confiscation since the start of the Obregon régime.

Messrs. Warren and Payne are more hopeful today than ever that a satisfactory arrangement will be reached, although time must be given in order that the fullest details may be examined.

The delegates had luncheon with Secretary of Foreign Relations Albert Pani at his home today. On Monday the commissioners are invited to luncheon with President Obregon.

Complainant Against Frank J. Murphy Fails to Appear.

Frank J. Murphy of 133 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, of the firm of J. S. Bache, bankers and brokers of 42 Broadway, who was summoned to Tombs Court Wednesday by Mildred Adams of the Woodward Hotel, who alleged that he was withholding from her stock worth $7,000, was discharged by Magistrate Goodman yesterday.

Both the woman and her counsel, Eugene F. McGee, failed to appear. Mr. Murphy had testified that he had withheld the stock because of conflicting claims for it which had resulted in civil action.

Powder Explosion at Du Pont Plant.

An explosion in the glazing house of the Du Pont Powder works at Haskell, N. J., at 9:35 o'clock last night, lifted the roof off that building with a roar that could be heard for fifteen miles around.

The Ramapo mountain range was red with the glare of flames from the burning building. Physicians who heard the explosion rushed to the scene, but found there was little for them to do. Automobiles from Paterson, thirteen miles away, caused a traffic jam on the highways in the rush of persons to discover what had happened.

The HAND of FASHION

Thousands of women all over the world have indicated their approval of silk gloves by wearing them throughout the spring and summer

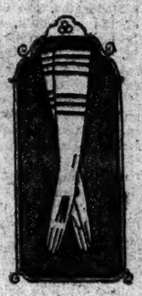
MANY women have to count usefulness a valuable part of beauty; other women do it anyhow. They find both assets in Kayser Silk Gloves. Many smart women prefer them for warm-weather wearing.

A Choice of Styles

There are as many styles and colors found in Kayser Silk Gloves as there are whims of fashions. Long gloves, short gloves, and gauntlet styles for those who prefer them.

White gloves are worn frequently during the warmer days, or shades of gray, mastic or pongee, etc. You will find all the loveliest of these shades, as well as darker colors, among Kayser Silk Gloves. Every glove has the Kayser double finger-tips that insure long and satisfactory wear.

And in every Kayser Silk Glove are the superior quality of silk, the perfection of workmanship, and the moderate price that always mark Kayser Gloves.



Clean Gloves

Silk gloves are cool-looking, and the hands that wear Kayser Silk Gloves are cool in both looks and feeling.

A bowl of lukewarm water, a froth of mild soapsuds, and you can wash Kayser Silk Gloves as easily as your hands. They must be rinsed carefully, as soap left in silk often destroys the fabric.

Look for the name Kayser to insure getting the best in gloves, hosiery, and underwear.

SUGAR TRADE PLANS APPEAL TO HARDING

Brokers Call Meeting for Tuesday, in Which Exchange Will Have No Part.

CUBAN CROP 3,500,000 TONS

General Betancourt's Figures Compare With Earlier Estimate of 4,000,000 Tons.

Prominent interests in the New York sugar trade will hold a formal meeting on next Tuesday for the purpose of drawing up an open letter to President Harding on the sugar situation. Informal discussions have been held among members of the trade on the matter, but thus far no official meetings have taken place. A difference of opinion prevails in the trade as to whether the statistical position of the industry should be discussed in the letter, or whether it should be confined to fundamental conditions. The meeting will be attended only by members of the sugar trade, and it is officially stated that the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange will take no part in the discussion.

There was little or no change in the price for either refined or raw sugar yesterday. The market was quiet in all quarters, and buyers showed a disposition to await further developments before making new commitments. On the Sugar Exchange, quotations for "future," after several days of reaction, hardened from ⅛ to ¼ cent a pound. Gains of from 13 to 21 points were reported in the more active futures, with July and September, as is usually the case, the most active months.

According to advices received in the trade yesterday, General Pedro Betancourt, Secretary of Agriculture of Cuba, estimated that the Cuban sugar crop for the current season would not exceed 3,500,000 tons. This compares with estimates ranging from 4,000,000 to 4,150,000 tons made earlier in the year. The Secretary's estimate was contained in a telegram sent to Dr. Vidal Morales, President of the Cuban Association of Mill Owners and Planters.

It was also reported in the trade yesterday that 153 Cuban sugar centrals have ceased grinding and that their output was 17,770,426 bags, or 2,415,574 bags below the Himely estimate, which figured on 20,186,000 bags. About seven Cuban sugar bags make a ton, the reduction thus amounting to 345,083 tons. The Federal Sugar Refining Company yesterday issued a statement in which it said:

"The Canadian Government has taken practical steps to lower the price of sugar, in contrast with the efforts made by our Government. Sugar would cost the consumer in this country about 2 cents less per pound if the present excessive and uncalled-for duty on imported sugar was eliminated.

"The reduction of the Canadian import duty on raw sugar of 40 cents per hundred pounds and on granulated of 50 cents per hundred pounds was immediately reflected by a reduction of 40 points in Canadian refiners' quotations. The Canadian 'anti-dumping duty' is also abolished when the price of sugar is over 8 cents per pound for home consumption in the country exporting to Canada.

"The new tariff rates applying in Canada range for the various grades of sugar from $1.50 per hundred pounds to $1.89 on refined sugar and from $1.08 cents to $1.425 on raw. Where the raw sugar is the produce of any British colony or possession the British preferential tariff ranges from 35 cents to 46.5 cents per hundred pounds and where the refined sugar is manufactured wholly from raw sugar produced in British colonies or possessions the preferential tariff ranges from 53 cents to $1.00."

GERMANS SAY BRIAND BLOCKED PEACE IN 1917

Reichstag Committee Finds He Failed to Show Up at Conference to Be Held in Switzerland.

BERLIN, May 18 (Associated Press).—The Reichstag committee appointed to investigate the efforts for peace made in 1917 announced today that it had obtained testimony and evidence showing that an attempt at Franco-German negotiations came to naught in the Summer of that year because the French delegate, Aristide Briand, failed to appear at a confercnee which was to have been held in Switzerland.

According to the committee it has been established that Baron von der Lancken, then the German Governor of Belgium, was informed in the Spring of 1917 through Belgian intermediaries that authoritative French politicians were favorably disposed toward a discussion of peace. Baron von der Lancken is said to have announced his readiness to participate in such a conference, and received the assent of Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg and the Supreme Army Command.

It was planned at first to meet in Switzerland on June 23, but in the interim Dr. Georg Michaelis succeeded to the Chancellorship and Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann became the new Foreign Minister. The latter, although not so warm toward the idea of a peace discussion as was von Bethmann-Hollweg, nevertheless endorsed it, the committee declares.

The proposed conference, however, suffered postponement because of the German political crisis, and later, when Baron von Lancken went to Switzerland, he received word there, on Sept. 21, that M. Briand had been obliged to postpone his trip. The German delegate waited vainly for a week and then left. Thus, the committee states, the whole affair was without a result, as the French maintained there was no further agitation for such a conference.

The committee expresses belief that Briand's projected journey was prevented by Alexandre Ribot, then French Premier, and also that the peace feeler initiated by the Austrian Emperor Charles and the Bourbon Prince Sixtus influenced the change in the French attitude.

It is learned that another new German combination has received considerable export and import privileges.

ENGLISH WOMAN HEADS WORLD SUFFRAGISTS

Mrs. Ashby Is Elected President —Twenty-Five Delegates Visit the Pope.

ROME, May 18 (Associated Press).—Mrs. Corbett Ashby of England was elected president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance today. The decision was practically unanimous.

The Congress also adopted the new constitution and by-laws submitted yesterday by the board of officers. The treasurer's report that at least £2,000 annually would be required for the work of the Alliance brought considerable contributions and pledges. The American delegation promised to raise $2,000 during the next three years, in addition to the various personal contributions made by the American delegates.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, in retiring from the active presidency to assume the office of honorary president, delivered an address summing up the results thus far accomplished and giving suggestions for the work yet to be done by the suffragists "to serve the good of their nations and the world, for the final emancipation of our sex."

She offered sisterly good wishes to the women of France and Spain, prophesying that they would be the next to be enfranchised and thus form a link between the enfranchised women of the North and the unenfranchised women of the South. She also bespoke the loyal co-operation of the Congress to the newly-elected officers.

Pope Pius today received 25 members of the American, English and French delegations to the congress. He told his visitors, some of whom are members of the Catholic Woman Suffrage Society, that he was in favor of the movement but was unable to receive the congress officially, as he could not approve some portions of its program, especially that relating to divorce.

After the audience the suffragists visited the Vatican galleries, which were especially opened for them.

NO GOLD OR SILVER MINTED FOR FRANCE

Colonies Got Some—Nation Put Out 329,660,183 Baser Metal Coins Last Year.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 16.—The French mint last year for home use struck off 329,660,183 bronze, nickel, bronze-aluminium and copper coins to the value of 223,838,631 francs.

Not one gold or silver coin was minted for France, but among the 57,000,000 additional coins produced for the colonies of Martinique, Indo-China, Morocco, Tunis, Ethiopia and Syria there was something more than a million pieces of silver and 108 gold pieces coined for the Tunisian celebration.

France's copper coinage is now at the ratio of 2 francs 57 centimes per person, or 47 per cent. greater than in 1913. Despite this increase in copper circulation, there is actually a great shortage of these coins, although before the war there was a sufficiency. This is paradoxical as the population is practically the same and copper is not hoarded as gold is.

HERRON'S COLLAPSE HURTS

He and Rotan Drop Match After Being 6 Up With 12 Holes Left—Score Now Stands 3 to 1.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 18 (Associated Press).—The United States was 2 down to Great Britain, with 8 to go, at the conclusion of play today in the golf tournament for the Walker Cup.

Of four two-ball foursomes played today Great Britain won three of them. Until late this afternoon it seemed certain that each team would win two foursomes, but suddenly S. Davison Herron, with a lead of 6 up and only twelve holes to play, began playing like a beginner, and not a very promising beginner at that. Herron dubbed drives, made miserable mistakes with his iron clubs and missed short putts until he broke the heart of his partner, George V. Rotan of Texas, who had been playing well, but without encouragement. What was worse than breaking Rotan's playing heart, Herron threw away the match, and the opponents of the American pair, E. W. E. Holderness and W. L. Hope, won on the home green before a gallery of 4,000.

To tie the British team for the trophy the Americans tomorrow must win five of eight single matches. They need six victories to win. A tie will enable the men from overseas to retain the cup won at Southampton a year ago.

Robert Gardner, captain, and Max R. Marston alone of all the Americans triumphed today. Their task was to beat Robert Harris and C. V. L. Hooman, and they found it easy. Neither Harris nor Hooman seemed able to take the shortest route between tees or cups, or, once they arrived on the greens, to make the ball drop into the tin without tapping it an immoderate number of times. The Englishmen lost by 7 and 6.

Wethered Is Star.

Great Britain's new champion, Roger Wethered, was the bright light of the first day's play. Paired with Cyril Tolley, he aided in crushing the American amateur champion, Jess Sweetser, and his partner, Francis Ouimet. Tolley and Ouimet played with fine steadiness and coolness and Wethered with a brilliance befitting a champion. But Sweetser was a load about Ouimet's neck. He sparkled one moment, only to sink to mediocrity the next. Twice he even made the awful blunder of lifting his head, both times to see the usual result—a weak, short shot.

The youth from Yale and his calm Boston colleague were four down at the end of the morning round and went five down on the first hole in the afternoon play, where Wethered sank a 30-footer for a birdie three. Before they reached the turn of the afternoon game, the Americans had several opportunities to cut down the British lead, but they were able to take advantage of only two of them, and the Britishers finished the eight at the thirteenth, where Wethered got another birdie, sinking a fifteen-foot putt, which ended matters with a score of 6 and 5.

John F. Neville of San Francisco and Harrison R. Johnston of St. Paul were beaten, 4 and 3, by John Wilson and W. A. Murray. The local players, after gaining a lead of three holes in the morning round, went out in 35 in the afternoon—a pace the American pair could not keep up with. Neville was able to meet the standard set by his opponents, but Johnston could not. His driving and putting were all right, but when he got his iron club in his fists he went wild and the British went ahead.

Victory on Last Green.

The gallery found its biggest thrill and also its most stunning shock in the rise of Holderness and Hope and the fall of their American opponents, Rotan and Herron. Nobody paid much attention to the foursome so long as the two champions were struggling and it was known that Rotan and Herron were far in the lead, but about the time that Roger Wethered and Cyril Tolley had completed their assignment with Sweetser and Ouimet word came down the fairways that Herron was cracking and that Holderness and Hope were doing very nicely under the circumstances. Still it was presumed that nobody would collapse so completely as to throw away the lead Rotan and Herron held at the twenty-fourth hole—a lead of 6 up and 12 to go.

Scotch onlookers, who know golf like no other gallery in the world, went back to take a look. At first they went in tens and twenties, but when further distressing news of Herron's debacle reached the clubhouse they poured forth by hundreds.

Herron slipped so badly that the Americans led by only two up at the twenty-ninth. Herron tried to cut around a dead stymie at the thirtieth instead of hopping over it, and that hole was squared in five. On the next hole he missed a two-foot putt, and the American lead was cut to one. At the thirty-third Herron missed an eighteen-inch putt for a half, and the match was square.

Pitching over a bunker to get on the thirty-fifth green, Herron whaled into the ball and it rolled over the green and landed on the graveled road, from which Rotan made a wonderful run-up and squared the hole as Holderness and Hope required three putts to sink. Then came the thirty-sixth with the match all square. Herron's iron topped the ball and failed to get it up on the green, and the match was lost.

Tomorrow Ouimet has an opportunity to avenge his defeat at Deal by Wethered. Dr. O. F. Willing, the Oregonian, who was left out of the foursomes, has been placed at the bottom of the singles and will oppose Murray. Fred Wright Jr., who also was out of the foursomes today, will meet Holderness tomorrow.

The British are happy tonight. They feel that their victories today were won cleanly and that the American have only themselves to blame for losing. The weather was fairly good and warm for St. Andrews.

British Lead Unexpected.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 18.—The first day's play for the International Walker Cup between America and Great Britain ended with the British securing a lead of two matches. Four foursomes were played over thirty-six holes today and the home side won three and lost one. But this result scarcely represents the actual play, for S. Davidson Herron and George V. Rotan, playing against W. L. Hope and E. W. E. Holderness, the former British champion, should have won their match to make honors all even.

This match was the big sensation of the day and one of the most remarkable ever played in an international contest. The American boys played so well in the morning that at one time they were seven up, and they finished the first round six up. They held on to this lead in the afternoon until the fourth hole was played. Then they allowed it to gradually slip away and the Britishers pulled off a great victory on the last green. At one time the Americans were so well placed that victory for them was regarded as a foregone conclusion with the result that some too-enterprising reporters telephoned to London that the Americans had won long before the match was finished.

Hope and Holderness were playing very negligible golf in the morning, taking 88 to go around against their opponents' 77. But in the afternoon they got going in fine shape, whereas the Americans, particularly Herron, fell away from their morning's form. With Herron committing various faults, Rotan found he was left too much to do, especially in the matter of long putts. It must not be forgotten that the greens of St. Andrews are very large and indeed no one can depend on doing this, and when the thirty-fifth hole was played the match was all square. A stymie by Holderness on the twelfth green prevented Herron from winning the hole, to become two up. He bunkered Rotan off his drive to the fifteenth and they lost the hole.

A Dramatic Hole.

The seventeenth, with the dreaded road behind it, was a dramatic one. Herron was left with a very tricky pitch onto the narrow green over a bunker. In attempting it the ball got a downward kick from the back of the hasard and finished on the road. Rotan recovered well, and had Hope, the Scotsman, not run a shade too far past, the British pair would have taken the lead for the first time.

On the last green Herron was again short with a long approach and Holderness holed a putt to win the best match of the day, but one that was a disappointment to the invaders. It was nearly a half, however, as Holderness's ball curled round the lip of the hole, hesitated a moment and then dropped amid a great burst of applause for the Britishers, who deserved their victory, fighting as they did against what looked like hopeless odds.

Roger Wethered and Cyril Tolley played some wonderful golf against Francis Ouimet and Jess Sweetser. Wethered, indeed, did not make a single bad break all day, whereas Sweetser was slightly off and scarcely gave Francis a chance either through or on the greens. The English pair finished the first round 4 holes up. When Wethered holed a long putt for another 3 on the first green in the afternoon the match looked all over. Sweetser bunkered Francis at the second, a difficult hole, and the Americans were never in sight of a half. The match went all against the Americans, who would have found it a hard job to give the English pair 4 holes up with 18 to play, for Wethered's play through the fairway and his putting were not excelled even when he won his championship at Deal last week.

Ouimet Gains a Half.

Ouimet drove well and played one memorable stroke from the edge of the bunker at the third hole after lunch. It looked like an impossible one, but Francis is looked on here as a wonder, and with his mashie iron he got the ball on the green. He received a great cheer and his side secured a half, but it was the Englishmen's day.

Captain Robert A. Gardner and Max R. Marston led all the way. They finished the first eighteen holes five up on C. V. L. Hooman and Robert Harris, members of last year's British team, neither of whom were at their best. Gardner and Marston were going strong with Bob driving far and sure and Max putting well with his homemade putter. Harris and Hooman never looked like beating the American pair, who won comfortably by 7 and 6. The two Scotsmen, John Wilson and W. A. Murray, played grand golf all day against Harrison R. Johnston and John F. Neville, and they actually stood 7 up in the first round. The Americans made a spurt in the middle of the round, but Murray's wonderful short game was brilliant and with Wilson putting well these two put up an almost unbeatable fight and after being dormie 6 won by 4 and 3. Murray is a newcomer to this team, but has altogether justified his selection.

MISS WAGNER LOSES EXHIBITION MATCH

Defeated in Singles, Yonkers Tennis Star Comes Back to Win in Doubles.

The second series of exhibition matches to be staged on the Central Park courts, Ninety-third Street and Central Park West, brought out a fair-sized gallery yesterday to witness the play. This time it was to witness the women stars in action, under the auspices of the League of Girls Clubs. Two exhibitions were put on, one a set in singles between Miss Helen Gilleaudeau of Mamaroneck, seventh ranking woman player in the country, and Miss Marie Wagner of Yonkers, ranking ninth and metropolitan indoor champion, and the other a doubles match in which Miss Wagner paired with Miss Cores Baker against Miss Gilleaudeau and Mrs. L. G. Morris.

Miss Gilleaudeau defeated Miss Wagner in singles in convincing fashion at 6—2. The Yonkers woman was plainly in need of practice and was unable to get her strokes going properly at any time in the contest.

In the doubles match Miss Wagner showed marked improvement. With Miss Baker attacking at the net and the Yonkers woman backing her up in consistently good fashion at the baseline, Miss Gilleaudeau and Mrs. Wood found themselves against just a trifle more than they could withstand, and the former pair won at 8—6, 6—4.

Board Rejects Muldoon's Plan To Reduce Prices for Boats

The first serious clash among members of the State Athletic Commission came yesterday on a proposition to place a maximum admission charge of $10, instead of $25 as at present, on all boxing bouts held during the current outdoor season. The measure, introduced by Chairman William Muldoon, was rejected when Muldoon was outvoted, it was learned. No official announcement was made on the matter. It was learned that Muldoon advanced his plan for a reduced maximum charge for outdoor bouts on the ground that, with the greater seating capacity of the outdoor arenas, the rule, instead of working a hardship on promoters, probably would prove of benefit through attracting greater crowds at a popular scale of prices. Muldoon's recommendation was said to favor a scale of prices from $1 to $10.

HAGEN ELIMINATES SARAZEN AT LEEDS

AVERAGES TWO UNDER 4S

Yankee Pros Get Into Semi-Final by Beating Havers and Ockenden—Duncan Loses to Mackenzie.

LEEDS, May 18 (Associated Press).—Walter Hagen, holder of the British open golf championship title, will meet H. C. Jolly of Foxgrove, England, in the final match in the professional tournament here. Hagen this afternoon defeated Gene Sarazen, American open champion, 3 up and 1 to play, in the semi-finals. The other match was won by Jolly from J. Mackenzie of Elkley, 2 up and 1 to play. The final, of thirty-six holes, will be played tomorrow.

Hagen and Sarazen reached the semi-finals through the victory of the former this forenoon over A. G. Havers at the nineteenth hole and Sarazen's defeat of James Ockenden, 5 up and 3 to play. The match between the two American professionals this afternoon thus brought about was an exceptionally close affair, in which both men played excellant golf. They were all-square at the ninth hole. At the tenth Hagen got a wonderful drive of nearly 300 yards. He took the lead for the first time at the twelfth, where Sarazen had a 5.

Hagen put his tee shot at the seventeenth within a foot of the pin and ran down the putt to win the match. He averaged two under 4s on the round.

Of the British professionals, Jolly defeated Gus Falkner of Pennard at the twentieth hole and Mackenzie defeated George Duncan 2 up and 1 to play.

Hagen Plays Brilliantly.

LEEDS, England, May 18.—Walter Hagen for America and H. C. Jolly for England will contest tomorrow's final in the Yorkshire Evening News £700 tournament. In the morning round Hagen and A. G. Havers had a great struggle. The advantage was mostly on the American's side, but they were all square at the eighteenth. On the nineteenth, however, Havers missed a two-foot putt and lost the match. Sarazen in the morning had no difficulty in disposing of James Ockenden, so that he had to meet Hagen in the afternoon. This match between the two champions aroused the greatest interest of the day, and those who watched it were rewarded with some wonderful golf.

Up to the eleventh hole nothing above four was taken by either player, and Hagen was responsible for a tremendous drive of nearly 300 yards onto the green at the tenth. Sarazen, by taking five at the twelfth, allowed Hagen to take the lead for the first time. The latter forged ahead by capturing another hole becoming dormie at the sixteenth Hagen played a magnificent shot from seventeenth tee to within a few inches of the hole and won by 3 and 1.

Opinion is that the Americans will stand a better chance of winning the singles tomorrow, for foursome play, although the Americans are beginning to like it, is a difficult match on St. Andrews, with its many runs and hollows, and they showed a lack of that bold play up to the hole with which they were accredited when they came to Britain.

They are being entertained at dinner tonight by the Royal and Ancient Club, and every one here looks upon their visit as a great acquisition to the game and one which has stirred the imagination of golfers in this country as never before.

Willing and Wright, who were omitted from the American team today, will be included in tomorrow's singles. Johnston and Neville standing down. On the British side Hooman will be replaced by Willis Mackenzie. The draw for tomorrow is: Wethered vs. Ouimet, Tolley vs. Sweetser, Harris vs. Gardner, Mackenzie vs. Rotan, Hope vs. Marston, Holdeness vs. Wright, Wilson vs. Herron, Murray vs. Willing.

MRS. DUBOIS WINS IN N. J. TOURNAMENT

Englewood Golfer Takes Low Gross Prize After Play-Off With Mrs. Courtland Smith.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN RIDGE, N. J., May 18.—A nine-hole play-off was necessary today before Mrs. F. E. Dubois of Englewood could claim the gross prize in the women's New Jersey Golf Association's one-day competition at the Glen Ridge Country Club. Mrs. Dubois made a 42 in the play-off, against 44 for her opponent, Mrs. Courtland Smith, of the home club. On the full round they had tied with 89. Mrs. W. S. Case of Glen Ridge also had an 89 gross, but as she came in for one of the two net prizes, she was not involved in the play-off. Another Glen Ridge representative, Mrs. R. L. Johnstone, won the other net prize, with 100, 18—82.

Mrs. Dubois played the inside nine in 44 despite a 9 and 8 on her card. For the other seven holes she required only 27 against a par of 28. The 8 came on the 520-yard fourteenth, where she lost her ball on the third shot and later suffered a penalty stroke in a water hazard. The 8 was counted on the eighteenth.

Mrs. Thomas Hucknall of Morris County and Mrs. Irving Brown of Knickerbocker tied at 36 in the putting contest and the former won the play-off.

The cards in the play-off for the main prize follow:

Mrs. Dubois—Out	5	7	5	4	3	4	5	4	5—42
Mrs. Smith—Out	4	5	5	4	6	5	4	5	6—44

Mrs. W. S. Case, Glenridge, 89, 7—82; Mrs. R. L. Johnstone, Glenridge, 100, 18—82; Mrs. T. A. O'Callaghan, Upper Montclair, 100, 18—82; Mrs. Courtland Smith, Glen Ridge, 89, 3—86; Mrs. F. E. Dubois, Englewood, 89, 3—86; Mrs. A. C. Cardinal, Upper Montclair, 112, 25—87; Miss Elsie Selick, Glen Ridge, 98, 7—88; Miss Kate Beeman, Plainfield, 96, 8—88; Mrs. Jay Lee Hackensack, 96, 7—89; Mrs. L. N. Devaunay, Upper Montclair, 100, 10—90; Mrs. Harriet Waters, Baltusrol, 105, 14—90; Mrs. F. B. Ryan, Baltusrol, 97, 7—90; Mrs. J. S. Irving, Englewood, 103, 13—90; Mrs. Theodore Cassebeer, Englewood, 105, 15—90; Mrs. P. L. Thomson, Glen Ridge, 114, 24—90; Mrs. C. L. Voorhees, Baltusrol, 97, 8—91; Miss Gladys Selick, Glen Ridge, 100, 9—91; Mrs. Walter McGowan, Glen Ridge, 96, 4—92; Mrs. C. S. Andreas, Upper Montclair, 109, 17—92; Mrs. Thomas Hucknall, Morris County, 94, 1—93; Mrs. H. H. Salmon, Glen Ridge, 102, 8—93; Mrs. G. L. Parker, Essex Fells, 111, 18—93; Mrs. F. E. Two Records Fall in Trials Of New England Track Meet

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 18.—Two records were broken in the trial events of the thirty-seventh annual New England intercollegiate track and field meet conducted at Tech Field this afternoon preparatory to the finals tomorrow. Frederic D. Tootell of Bowdoin, threw the hammer 168 feet 11 inches for a new New England intercollegiate record, displacing that of H. P. Bailey of Maine, established in 1914 of 164 feet 8½ inches. John P. Sullivan of Boston College, made a new Tech Field record in the 220-yard low hurdles with a mark of 25 1-10 seconds. Massachusetts Institute of Technology led in numbers of men qualified for the events of tomorrow with fifteen, while Bowdoin and Williams were tied for second place with eleven each.

BODKIN LOSES IN HARLEM NET PLAY

Club Champion Lacks Form and Is Defeated by Tremaine in Straight Sets.

Philip O. Bodkin, Harlem Tennis Club champion and second seeded player in the open tournament being conducted for the Harlem cup on the club courts at 136th Street, was eliminated by Henry C. Tremaine yesterday in the round before the semi-finals. Bodkin was so completely off his game that it was almost impossible to believe that it was the same man playing who, on the day before, had given so impressive an exhibition in defeating Charles M. Wood Jr. His strokes were lacking in pace, of control he showed almost none, and his whole game was colorless.

In less than the time that it ordinarily takes to play three evenly contested games, Tremaine had captured the first set at love and continued on in the second chapter to win two more games before Bodkin aroused himself. The Harlem champion's performance in this opening set was the poorest in the tournament thus far and is likely to stand out as one of the most disappointing of the local season. In the second frame Bodkin played more like himself and ran the score to 5—3 before he lost. Tremaine was not outdoing himself in the match. He has exhibited better control in some of his earlier contests than he did yesterday, but against the sort of opposition that he was facing he had to do little more than get the ball back safely to win the points, for Bodkin erred on the easiest of shots.

The play in the second set found Bodkin keeping within the lines better and finding the openings with his sharply angled placements. Tremaine's stroking from the back court was almost entirely defensive, but when he came forward, which he did often, he was there to earn his points and was dangerous. Bodkin put Tremaine's attack to rout at times with cross-court shots to his feet or out of reach down the lines, but when Tremaine got his racquet on the ball he did not waste his opportunity.

Play Becomes Closer.

After the first two games the play in the set was evenly contested. Bodkin managed to come through with the deciding points to win the next four games and led at 4—2. Tremaine evened it at 5—all and then broke through in the fourteenth for the set at 8—6. Bodkin's play toward the close was of the same hesitating, unsteady character shown at the outset. It was a double fault that gave his opponent the final point in the match.

Percy Kynaston, the ranking player in the tournament, came through his fifth round match with Jerome Minster in commendable fashion, winning at 6—3, 6—2. The play was fast all the way through, with both men seeking the net constantly and performing there in the same clean-cut manner in which they stroked from the rear court. Minster has been coming along so well of late that those who were prepared for an upset in this match also, but Kynaston is a difficult obstacle to surmount, and there are not many defeats chalked up against him during a season of play.

The Rockville Centre man clearly had the edge on his opponent and at no time in the contest was there any doubt as to the comparative merits of the two. Minster played a representative game, but Kynaston knew how to force the openings better, was a bit steadier in filling them and covered court in more ambitious fashion than did his opponent, who found it difficult to get anything past him. Minster gained his fourth round match before going on with Kynaston through the default of Alfred D. Hammett. Owing to sickness in the family, Hammett was forced to abandon his effort to gain his second leg on the Harlem Cup.

Other Matches Are Hard Fought.

In the two other matches played during the afternoon, Anton F. Von Bernuth defeated George C. Whitlock in a gruelling three-set affair, at 6—2, 7—9, 8—6, and Paul Martin put out S. Onda, 6—4, 9—7. Both matches were closely contested. In the Von Bernuth Whitlock contest it was steadiness matched against speed and aggressiveness.

The summaries:

Fourth round—Jerome Minster won from Alfred D. Hammett by default.

Fifth round—Percy L. Kynaston defeated Jerome Minster, 6—3, 6—2; Paul Martin defeated S. Onda, 6—4, 9—7; Henry C. Tremaine defeated Philip O. Bodkin, 6—0, 8—6; Anton F. Von Bernuth defeated George C. Whitlock, 6—2, 7—9, 8—6.

DRAW ANNOUNCED FOR DOUBLES PLAY

Four Pairs Seeded in Tennis Tournament Starting at Rye This Afternoon.

Japanese and American Davis Cup players, as well as other stars of international prominence, are included among the twenty-five teams that will begin play today in the second annual invitation lawn tennis doubles tournament at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club, Rye. The outstanding pairs in the order in which they have been seeded, are Vincent Richards, national indoor champion and a member of the Cup team last year, and Francis T. Hunter, ex-indoor champion, who are placed at the top of the draw in the second round; Watson M. Washburn, internationalist in 1921, and Harold Throckmorton, who are at the top of the lower half; Samuel Hardy, captain of the 1920 Cup team, and C. Howard Voshall, and Zenzo Shimizu and Masamosuke Fukuda of the Japanese team.

The draw follows:

SENSATIONAL GOLF WINS FOR PEACOCK

Van Vleck, Tippett, DeWitt and Peacock Survivors in Cup Competition Closing Today.

Gradually things are approaching a state of normalcy in the invitation tournament of the Garden City Golf Club. The first and second rounds of match play in all four sixteens were completed yesterday, under conditions that were ideal, and the decks are now cleared for the semi-final and final action, which takes place today. The survivors in the first sixteen, which is competing for the celebrated Garden City Golf Club Cup, are C. E. Van Vleck of the home club, Grant A. Peacock of Cherry Valley, Captain H. C. C. Tippett of Lido and the medalist, J. E. DeWitt of Ardsley. Van Vleck will meet Peacock this morning, while Tippett is doing battle with De Witt, and the survivors will settle matters for 1923 in the afternoon.

The winners of the first round matches in addition to the four mentioned above were R. Akahoshi, the Nipponese student at Pinceton University; E. H. (Eddie) Driggs, ex-Tiger football luminary and runner-up for the Long Island amateur championship; Henry J. Topping of Greenwich, former North and South amateur titleholder, and A. C. Gregson of Lido. Akahoshi, who took up the game only four years ago, and who has made greater progress in that short period than many do in a whole span, took the measure of Don M. Parker of the home club, runner-up in last year's affair. The match went to the home green for decision. Driggs won from his Cherry Valley clubmate, J. L. Anderson, 4 up and 3 to play, while Topping defeated Hamilton K. Kerr, another of the home club players, in a hard-fought battle, 3 up and 1 to play. Gregson's victory was recorded over W. F. Ladd of the Rockaway Hunt Club, 2 up and 1 to play.

Van Vleck had a narrow squeeze getting through to the second round, J. Lang, a Hempstead player, taking him to the last hole. Peacock beat James R. Hyde of South Shore, 4 up and 3 to play. Tippett won from R. L. Smith of Dutchess, 2 up, and De Witt put out G. E. Hale of Forest Park by 4 up and 3 to play.

In the second round matches Van Vleck won rather handily from Akahoshi, the struggle ending on the fourteenth green, 6 up and 4 to play. Peacock expunged Driggs in a match that was fraught with fireworks and sensational shot-making, especially by the victor. The margin was 2 up. Captain Tippett eliminated Topping, 2 up and 1 to play, while De Witt continued on his serene way by dispatching Gregson, 2 up.

Peacock's Golf Withering.

By all odds the feature of the day was provided in the match between the two Cherry Valley stars—Peacock and Driggs. Two up going to the seventh, Driggs had high hopes of remaining in the struggle if for nothing more than to make amends for his "crash" in the Long Island amateur. Only 1 over par up to that point, he had good and sufficient reason for his optimism. But at that point Peacock unleashed a brand of golf that was withering in its severity. It was better than letter perfect, for he traveled over the next seven holes in twenty-six strokes, three under par. During this terrific clip he inserted an eagle 2 at the 316-yard hole by holding out a mashie from the heavy rough, 120 yards or so away from the pin.

In spite of that string of low figures, Driggs clung tenaciously at his heels, never once allowing Peacock to get out of his sight. By winning the fourteenth hole with a par 4 the former Princeton line plunger hauled up on even terms with his rival and after they had halved the fifteenth hole in 6s, indications were that the match might continue touch and go for an indefinite time. Driggs was in trouble playing to the sixteenth but reached the green in three and was practically certain of nothing worse than a half, for Peacock's second was in a trap at the edge. The latter, however, exploded his ball out to within a few feet of the pin and holed out for a winning 4, which doubtless turned things his way.

Another half at the sixteenth and then Peacock, with nothing to fight for except a half at the home hole, played an iron up to within possible putting distance while Driggs was too strong and in a trap back of the green, his ball in a hanging lie. He failed to get out on his first effort, then pitched out cleanly with a putt for a 4, but on seeing Peacock's putt up close to the hole he congratulated his opponent. "As fine a brand of golf as I ever played against," he said afterward. "I never had a single chance against the sort of treatment Peacock was giving me on the way around."

Peacock was 36 for the outward nine holes, one under par. Coming in he was 39, three over, giving him a total of 75, the best score that has been made during the present tourney. Driggs was only 38 at the turn and 40 on the way home for a 78 total.

Driggs Misses Putts.

Peacock started off inauspiciously when he hooked his tee shot into the mounds at the left of the fairway and then flubbed a shot, taking one more to reach the green. Driggs, home in two, was down in a like number of putts for a winning 4. The next two holes were halved in par figures. Then, with an opportunity to retain his lead, Eddie took three putts at the fourth, missing a two-footer for a half. He forged ahead once more by winning the sixth, 4 to 5. Peacock topping his second and overplaying the green on his third. A fine brassie second left Driggs at the edge of the green, from where he chipped up dead for his par 4. An eight-foot putt which Peacock ran down for a birdie 4 squared matters at the seventh and then, at the ninth, he brought off his sensational mashie which wended its way into the cup, making him 1 up.

He came near penalizing himself through his unerring accuracy at the tenth, where his second hit the pin and bounced ten feet away, but his star shots in the halving line came at the eleventh and twelfth. At the former he almost holed a chip shot after being in straits and at the latter he got down a much needed ten-foot putt. Driggs squared the match by winning the fourteenth with a 4 after being trapped. Here Peacock's try for a half failed by a turn of the ball. The next hole was badly played, resulting in 6s for both. Then followed Peacock's fine recovery from the trap at the sixteenth for a winning 4, the halving of the seventeenth in 5s, and his winning 3 at the home hole.

The cards with par:

Out—
Par	4	3	4	5	4	4	5	4	4—37
Peacock	5	2	4	5	4	5	4	4	5—38
Driggs	4	3	4	6	4	4	5	4	4—38
In—
Par	4	4	3	5	4	4	4	5	3—36—73
Peacock	4	4	3	5	5	6	4	3	3—35—75
Driggs	5	4	3	5	4	6	5	5	4—40—78

Topping dropped the first two holes to Tippett, who, after taking three putts at the ninth, was 1 up at the turn. The latter became 2 up by winning the tenth, 4 to 5, and they alternated in winning the next two holes. Topping drew level with his man by taking the thirteenth and fourteenth but Tippett again forged ahead with a winning 4 at the fifteenth and, after a half at the sixteenth, the Lido representative clinched his victory at the seventeenth. Tippett had a 76 or 79 while Topping was only a stroke or so higher.

De Witt was 2 up on Gregson at the turn but they came to the eighteenth with the medalist leading by only one hole. They put their irons quite a distance away from the hole, about twenty feet to the left of the pin, but Gregson ran past the cup and then missed his return putt, giving De Witt a 2-hole margin.

Van Vleck was master of the hard-hitting Akahoshi most of the way. He was 1 up going the tenth and then won all of the remaining holes up to the fourteenth, where the match ended.

The summaries:

First Sixteen, First Round—C. E. Van Vleck, Garden City Golf, defeated J. Lang, Hempstead, 1 up; R. Akahoshi, Springdale, defeated Don M. Parker, Garden City Golf, 1 up; E. H. Driggs, Cherry Valley, defeated J. L. Anderson, Cherry Valley, 4 and 3; Grant A. Peacock, Cherry Valley, defeated James R. Hyde, South Shore, 4 and 3; Captain H. C. C. Tippett, Lido, defeated R. L. Smith, Dutchess, 2 up; H. J. Topping, Greenwich, defeated H. K. Kerr, Garden City Golf, 3 and 1; A. C. Gregson, Lido, defeated W. F. Ladd, Rockaway Hunt, 2 and 1; J. E. De Witt, Ardsley, defeated G. E. Hale, Brooklyn Forest Park, 4 and 3.

Second Round—Van Vleck defeated Akahoshi, 6 and 4; Peacock defeated Driggs, 2 up; Tippett defeated Topping, 2 and 1; De Witt defeated Gregson, 2 up.

Beaten Eight, First Sixteen, First Round—Parker defeated Lang, 2 up; Anderson defeated Hyde, 3 and 1; Smith won from Kerr by default; Ladd defeated Hale, 4 and 3.

Second Sixteen, First Round—W. A. Murdock, South Shore, defeated P. Allaire, Hempstead, 3 and 2; A. M. Robbins, Garden City Golf, won from B. B. Bryan Jr., Cherry Valley, by default; A. SEVEN U. S. PLAYERS SEEK TENNIS TITLES

Johnston Heads Team in Hard Court Tourney Beginning Today at St. Cloud.

ST. CLOUD, France, May 18 (Associated Press).—The United States, with William M. Johnston and the Misses Eleanora Sears, Eleanor Goss and Leslie Bancroft entered, will have a small but select representation in both the men's and women's singles of the international hard court tennis championships beginning here tomorrow. Clifton Herd, H. T. Moore and Miss Mulford are also entered from the United States, but those Americans in France who are followers of tennis pin their hopes on the first-named quartet.

Seventy men and thirty-eight women, the pick of the European tennis field, have entered the tournament, which, under the ruling of the International Tennis Federation, will be the last recognized "international hard court world's tennis championships." Belgium, Great Britain, Denmark, France, Holland, Italy, India, Portugal, Rumania, Spain, Switzerland and Czechoslovakia have sent their best players in an attempt to bring home the last world's titles in this class.

Thirty-two pairs are listed for the mixed doubles, twenty-nine for the men's doubles and sixteen for the women's doubles. Johnston will play with Miss Sears in the mixed doubles and with Clifton Herd in the men's doubles, while the Misses Sears and Mulford, and Goss and Bancroft will form the two American women's doubles teams.

Suzanne Lenglen will reach the finals in the women's singles only at the expense of the elimination of both Miss Sears and Miss Goss, who are in the upper half of the draw with the French champion.

NASSAU DOG SHOW TODAY.

Exhibition at Belmont Track Attracts More Than 650 Entries.

The Nassau County Kennel Club will hold its annual dog show today at Belmont Racetrack, Long Island. Over 650 entries have been made from many parts of the United States and Canada, and the show promises to be the largest in the club's history.

Among the patrons and patronesses are Tyler Morse, Mrs. H. P. Whitney, William Ziegler, Mr. and Mrs. T. Macy Willets, Mrs. Charles Scribner Jr., T. Robinson Beard, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Berendsohn, Mrs. Haley Fiske, Mrs. H. Robert Guggenheim, Alfred B. Maclay, E. D. Morgan Jr., Morris Kinney, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Appleton, Theodore Crane, Ude M. Fleischman, George Greer, William deF. LUQUE'S PITCHING BLANKS GIANTS, 7-0

Cuban in Form and McGraw's Men Suffer Their First Shutout of Season.

BENTLEY IS THE VICTIM

Big Southpaw Weakens After the Fourth Inning and Reds Pound Out a Victory.

When the Giants lose they lose. They weren't merely beaten at the Polo Grounds yesterday; they were outclassed, outplayed, outhit, outpitched, and all the other "outs," including that of being shut out. The Reds did it, and it was just as sound a beating as the Giants administered themselves on Thursday, although 7—0 doesn't sound as bad as 13—6.

The shutout was the first of the season for McGraw's doughty men, a fact for which Señor Adolfo Luque of Havana ought to be held responsible. Luque pitched exceedingly well. He generally does, but the Reds are not always appreciative. When they don't give him weak batting support, they field terribly or indulge in what are known technically to the trade as "boners." Luque has earned the reputation of being the "hard luck" pitcher of baseball, and there is a saying in dear old Havana that if it were raining gold Adolfo would be equipped with a sieve.

Be that as it may, yesterday was another day, and fortune was in a smiling mood. The Reds, in the first place, made seven runs, as many generally as they score in seven games behind Luque. Moran's team fielded in errorless style, hit like demons and didn't make a mistake, manual or mental, from beginning to end. It sounded like a fairy story to Luque.

The Señor himself was all that he should have been in the way of deception and skill. He fooled the Giants with a slow curve and a fast, straight ball that whistled through with a hop on it. Not a mother's son of the champs got as far as third base. In each of six innings only three of them faced the Cuban. They made only five hits sparsely allotted, and five of the home lads swung three times without disturbing a thing.

Rough Spot for Bentley.

In short, a beautifully pitched game, one of the best of the current season. Which made it a tough spot for Jack Bentley, the big southpaw, who made his second appearance of the season at the Polo Grounds. In spots the Baltimore contortionist did some nice pitching. He fanned Burns and Daubert and made Roush pop a foul to the catcher in one aggravating situation in the third, and for four innings he turned the Reds back without a score. But after that his control fell off a few points. Bases on balls put Redlegs on the bags and hits brought them in. In the big pinches the Reds did some mighty thudy hitting, and they seemed to bother Bentley more on the bases than at the plate.

Big Jack had a rough time of it with his corkscrew delivery. His half-balk motion brought the Reds shrieking from the bench. They claimed he was balking toward first base, and the umpires gave Bentley a close scrutiny. In the sixth inning, with Bohne on third, the southpaw made another balk motion, and Ernie Quigley promptly called it, allowing the runner to score. After that Bentley seemed to be unduly bothered with men on the bases. His assortment was plentiful and varied, but he looked still to be a few shades away from perfect condition.

There was a deal of querulous complaints anent the umpiring of Messrs. Quigley and Pfirman, both teams joining in the chorus. In the fifth the Giants ran around in circles trying to convey to the arbiters their bitter disapproval of a couple of decisions. Pfirman called Bentley out at first when it looked from the stands as if Daubert's foot had been pulled off the bag, and at once the Giants surrounded him three deep, the bat boy coming along to stand on the fringe of the crowd.

Verbal Attack on Quigley.

After much oratory had been spilled, the delegation did a right by fours and marched down on Mr. Quigley, who was gazing intently at a fleecy cloud overhead. Appealed to by Colleague Pfirman for information and assistance, Quigley upheld his partner, and then had to listen to a few sour remarks that bordered on the personal. The Giants seemed to hold Quigley responsible for having brought Pfirman along with him.

Well, the Giants had to do something. They couldn't hit and they couldn't score runs. The Reds did that and let the home lads do the talking. Starting in the fifth, Luque and Burns got walks from Bentley with one out, and then Jake Daubert hit a triple to left centre. But Old Jake died on third when Brothers Harper and Roush failed to move the ball out of the infield.

Bohne singled in the sixth, marched to third on two outs and then danced back and forth off the bag until he had startled Bentley into a balk. This made it 3 to 0. In the seventh a pass greased the way for Bentley again. With two down, he lost Daubert completely, and Harper singled between Frisch and Kelly. Roush, after three failures at the bat, rammed a line single to right, scoring Daubert and sending Harper to third. On Bohne's single down the first base foul line Harper rushed home.

The eighth was Bentley's last inning, and as a parting salute the Reds minted a sixth run. Starting it was Caveney, with a single to right. The Irish shortstop got to second on Hargrave's out, and Luque, who was having a glorious day of it, lined over Bancroft's head for one base, scoring Caveney.

Earl Smith hit for Bentley in the same inning, and Claude Jonnard got into the box score. He was received with rousing cordiality by the Reds. Harper bumped one of his first pitches to left for two bases, and Roush laid down a sacrifice bunt. Sam Bohne doubled off the right field wall, and then it was 7 to 0.

Caught at the Plate.

Jonnard pitched one of his best games of the season in the bullpen. He was there nearly every inning.

Scott's absence will hurt the Giants in the St. Louis series starting tomorrow. If the big fellow's hand is broken, it may cripple the Giants seriously.

Bill Ryan may be requested to start one of the St. Louis games.

Burns dropped Meusel's fly in the fourth, but got Frisch at second on a force play, leaving the lame Meusel to run the bases. Low-minded spectators insinuated that Georgie had done it on purpose.

Bentley's half balk motion is noticeable enough, but it doesn't compare with the delivery that Sherrod Smith got away with for quite a number of years.

Kelly had all sorts of trouble finding the range on grounders which he had to toss to Bentley at the bag. To start the third, he flung the ball clear over Jack's head, and in the fourth he almost lost another play because he threw at the pitcher's ankles.

With nobody out and men on second and first, Bentley fanned Burns and Daubert in the third. Then he walked Harper, but stopped Roush on a flimsy pop to Snyder.

BABE ADAMS WINS ON 41ST BIRTHDAY

Pitches Pittsburgh to Victory Over Boston, 4-3—Mathewson Pays Him Tribute.

BOSTON, May 18.—Pitcher Charles "Babe" Adams of Pittsburgh, celebrated his forty-first birthday by defeating Boston, 4 to 3, today. With two out in the ninth, Gooch singled. S Adams ran for him and reached third on a hit by Barnhart, who batted for C. Adams. A clean double steal tied the score and Maranville's sigle to left sent Barnhart across with the winning run.

Maranville was arrested last night for speeding in Brookline and spent some time in the town jail, but played his usual brilliant game today.

YANKS BEAT BROWNS FOR FIFTH IN ROW

PIPP AND MEUSEL STAR

Continue to Hit Hard and Make Five of Team's Twelve Safeties —Shawkey Effective.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 18.—The Yankees recorded their fifth consecutive victory in the West this afternoon when they hammered the Browns into submission in the third game of their series here. The score was 9 to 4. Two of the Yankees' runs resulted from another home run by George Herman Ruth, his sixth of the season, and his fourth within a week. It was made after Joe Dugan had opened the seventh inning with a single and was lodged among the inmates of the left-field bleachers.

Twelve hits for a total of eighteen bases were made by the Yanks, and five were divided between Walloping Wallie Pipp, who has driven in more runs than any other player on the club since the champions left New York, and lanky Bob Meusel, who had a perfect day at bat yesterday with three singles and a triple and a base on balls. Meusel started today's affair with a single, followed with a triple and then scored a run with a sacrifice fly before his batting streak was broken.

Dave Danforth, a coming left-hander who was suspended last season for using an illegal delivery against the Yankees and released to the Tulsa club of the Western League before his successor was lifted, started for the Browns this afternoon and was batted out of the box in the third inning. Six hits for nine bases were made off his delivery and the Yankees had a lead of four runs when he was taken out.

Wayne Wright, a young right-hander, replaced him and was stung for six hits and five runs. He was taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth and Root, a recruit right-hander, finished the game for the Browns.

Shawkey Keeps Hits Scattered.

Bob Shawkey pitched for the Yanks and was nicked for at least one hit in every inning except the ninth. He was good in the pinches, however, and should have had a shut-out. Errors were responsible for three of the Browns' four runs and the other resulted from an ill-advised attempt by Ruth to take a play away from Witt in the seventh inning. A three-base hit for Kenneth Williams resulted and a sacrifice fly by Severeid scored Williams.

Gerber's fumble on Witt's easy roller paved the way to a Yankee run in the first. Dugan popped to Foster and Ruth batted into a force-out at second, but Pipp sent the Babe to second with a single and Meusel shoved the run across with a single to centre. Bengough grounded to Gerber for the third out.

Two innings later Witt led off with a single and Dugan bunted safely. Ruth was out at first, but Pipp doubled, scoring Witt and Dugan, and Meusel brought Pipp across with a triple. Wright then relieved Danforth and retired the side without further scoring.

The Browns in the meantime had been making threatening gestures but not going through with them. Jacobson beat out an infield hit and Williams drew a pass after two were out in the first, but Scott made a sensational one-handed stop of McManus's drive through the box and a force-out at second resulted.

With one out in the second Robertson singled, Gerber popped to Ward and Danforth dropped a Texas leaguer back of third. Pipp took Tobin's smash toward first, however, and that particular threat subsided. After Foster had filed to Ruth in the third Jacobson singled and went to third when Pipp let Williams's easy roller trickle through him. McManus fanned but Severeid doubled and two runs scored. Severeid tried to score on Robertson's single but Meusel's throw to Bengough caught him at the plate.

Yanks Get Two More.

With their lead cut in half, the Yankees resumed the offensive in the fifth and scored two runs on a pass to Dugan, consecutive singles by Ruth and Pipp and Meusel's sacrifice fly to Tobin. In the second half, Ruth out across in front of Witt as the latter reached for Williams's fly and the ball fell safe for a triple which blossomed into a run when Severeid sent a sacrifice fly to Ruth.

The Yankees went out in order in the sixth, but Dugan led off with a single in the seventh and the Babe came through with a home run.

In the eighth the champions scored another run on a pass to Ward and singles by Scott and Shawkey. Wright then filled the bases by passing Witt but fanned both Dugan and Ruth and ended the inning by taking McManus's throw on Pipp's grounder.

The Browns scored their fourth run in the eighth when Gerber doubled and completed the circuit on Scott's fumble of an easy grounder by Pinch Hitter Durst.

ATHLETICS WIN AGAIN, 4-1.

Take Third Straight From Indians, Who Are Held to Two Singles.

CLEVELAND, May 18.—The Philadelphia Athletics made it three straight from Cleveland today, winning 4 to 1. The first two Indians to face Harris singled, producing one run, after which not another hit was made by Cleveland. Galloway stole home in the second after he had walked, stolen second and gone to third on Myatt's throw to center field.

READING CONQUERS SKEETERS IN TENTH

Two Singles, a Pass and Sacrifice Win for Miners by Score of 8 to 6.

Hard hitting in the opening frames, combined with a strong wind-up in the tenth inning, enabled Reading to defeat the Skeeters in Jersey City yesterday, 8 to 6. The Miners found Barnhardt for seven hits and five runs in the first three frames.

The Skeeters tied the score in the ninth. Then two singles, a base on balls and a sacrifice fly off Tecarr, who relieved Barnhardt in the tenth, gave Reading the game. The score:

WILLARD TOO OLD, SAYS BOXING BOARD

Jess Exceeds Age Limit and Bout With Firpo Is Banned in This State.

FIGHT SLATED FOR JERSEY

Rickard Known to Be Making Plans to Hold Contest in Boyle's Thirty Acres June 30.

Jess Willard and Luis Angel Firpo will not box in this State. Whatever hopes were entertained for this match being held here were shattered yesterday when it was definitely learned that the State Athletic Commission has forbidden the bout.

Promoter Tex Rickard, who early in the week signed Willard to a contract to box Firpo, and who has Firpo's verbal consent to all the details of the match, has been notified by the State Athletic Commission that the proposed ring battle will not be sanctioned. Rickard was summoned to the office of the commission last Tuesday afternoon at the regular meeting of the board and was definitely informed that he would not be permitted to conduct a match in the Empire State in which Willard was a participant.

The opposition of the commission to Willard's boxing here is based on the board's thirty-eight-year maximum age limit on all active boxers. Though he claims his age variously as 36 and 38 years, boxing record books have Willard's age as 39. The opinion is general that the former champion is even two or three years beyond this mark.

It also became known yesterday that Willard came near being declared physically unfit to box Floyd Johnson, young Iowan, in their bout last Saturday afternoon for the Milk Fund. Willard was subjected to a minute examination before going in the ring on Saturday by two doctors assigned by the commission. The report of these physicians was of a nature to have Willard disqualified had he been scheduled to box a heavyweight of the heavy-hitting type. Only the fact that Johnson was known to be a weak hitter prompted the commission physicians to pass Willard for the bout.

Muldoon's Personal Opinion.

William Muldoon, Chairman of the commission, refused to confirm the semi-official announcement that Willard has been barred here because of his age. But giving his personal view of the situation, he declared that his attitude has not changed from what it had been—opposing Willard's fighting here until the former champion produces convincing proof that he is under the age limit of the commission.

"I stated specifically some time ago that Willard would not be permitted to box here until he satisfied the State Athletic Commission that his age was not more than 38 years," said Muldoon. "My attitude in this respect has not changed a bit. Until Willard produces proof that he is under the age limit I must regard him as beyond it.

"The commission is very likely to invoke the age limit on Willard as it did when he first arrived here and started what he termed a campaign to re-establish himself as the world's champion. Willard now is licensed as a boxer here. He received a license upon application in advance of the Milk Fund bouts. This was a special and worthy occasion, however, for which an exception was made. Willard's license is still subject to regulation by the commission, just as is any other boxer's license."

Rickard Says Nothing.

Rickard refused to discuss the matter. It is known, however, that the promoter is making his plans for conducting the bout in Jersey City. Unless unexpected developments dictate a change, Willard and Firpo will clash on June 30 in the huge pine arena in Jersey City where Jack Dempsey knocked out Georges Carpentier before the greatest crowd that ever witnessed a boxing match. The transfer of the bout across the Hudson is not expected to interfere with the success of the match. Rather it is possible it will prove of benefit.

When he announced he had signed Willard and had obtained Firpo's consent to the details of the match, Rickard asserted he intended to place a maximum price of $15 on tickets for the bout. This is the limit admission charge permitted in New Jersey under the Hurley law governing boxing there, so that Rickard's plans in this direction will not necessarily be revised. To accommodate the crowd expected to be attracted to the bout Rickard's arena in Jersey City is better equipped than the Yankee Stadium.

KILBANE AND WILDE ARRIVE FOR BOUTS

Johnny Here From Cleveland, Jimmy From England, in Quest of Training Camps.

Tom O'Rourke, matchmaker for the Polo Grounds boxing enterprises, spent a busy day yesterday as official welcome committee for boxers he has signed to appear in bouts at the Giants' ball park. O'Rourke occupied himself in the morning greeting Johnny Kilbane, world's featherweight champion, upon his arrival from Cleveland. This ceremony over, the Polo Grounds matchmaker hurried to welcome Jimmy Wilde, little Welshman who holds the world's flyweight title, arriving on the Aquitania.

Kilbane and Wilde have come here to prepare for bouts which O'Rourke has arranged for the Polo Grounds. Kilbane is scheduled to battle Eugene Criqui, the French boxer who holds the European featherweight title, on June 2. Wilde has returned to America to defend his flyweight title, this time against Pancho Villa, dynamic little Philippine boxer who formerly held the American title. Wilde and Villa are scheduled to clash on June 16 at the Polo Grounds.

YALE CREW TO MEET HARVARD AND TIGERS

DEMPSEY SETTLES DOWN TO TRAINING

Runs Five Miles, Shadow Boxes and Punches Bag on First Day—Has Slight Cold.

Special to The New York Times.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., May 18.—Jack Dempsey discarded his "dress up" clothes today, refused all invitations to leave his training quarters at Great Falls Park and settled down to six weeks of hard work for his July 4 bout at Shelby, Mont., against Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul. Dempsey will not do any sparring until Monday.

Although the hills along the Missouri River were hidden in mist and rain this morning, Dempsey took a five-mile run, accompanied by George Godfrey, the colored heavyweight. Dempsey has a slight cold and on returning to camp underwent a steaming and a brisk rub. This afternoon he did some shadow boxing and bag punching.

Dempsey said he would not follow a routine schedule or special diet. At the outset he will take a five to eight mile run each morning, with bag punching, rope skipping and boxing in the afternoon. Five rounds of boxing will be followed the first week and increased until fifteen to twenty rounds are accomplished daily. Dempsey said he would be down to his proper weight inside of a week.

Jerry, Dempsey's bulldog, arrived today and shared honors as mascot at the camp with a Hereford bull which was purchased by Dempsey yesterday.

Force of 200 Carpenters Now Building Structure for Dempsey-Gibbons Bout July 4.

The arena in which Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, will defend his title against Tom Gibbons of St. Paul at Shelby, Mont., on the afternoon of July 4 will be constructed to accommodate a crowd of 40,206 people. This information is contained in a bulletin received here yesterday from officials identified with the promotion of the championship struggle. The arena will be hexagonal in shape, similar to that the Jersey City pine bowl where Dempsey knocked out Georges Carpentier two years ago. It is being erected in a natural amphitheatre which will permit of enlarging the capacity to 60,000, if the advance demand for tickets justifies this increase in accommodations.

A force of 200 carpenters already has started the work of building the arena. Altogether 1,100,000 feet of lumber will be used in the construction work. The arena will occupy six acres of ground. Prices of tickets to the bout will be $50, $40, $30, $25, $20. The first eleven rows of seats will be on a level with the ring. Back of these seats there will be a five-inch rise to each row extending to the outer rim of the hexagon.

Ringside, first forty rows, 10,464 seats at $50 each.
Inner circle, three rows, 1,312 seats at $40 each.
Outer circle, twelve rows, 8,320 seats at $30 each.
Reserved section, twelve rows, 13,536 seats at $25 each.
General admissions, ten rows, 8,576 seats at $20 each.

The entire cost of promoting the bouts is estimated at $450,000. If the capacity of the arena is sold the promoters will realize a "gate" of $1,500,000.

The arena site is one mile west from Shelby. Surveyors of the Great Northern Railroad are now engaged on plans for providing forty miles of track on which to park 1,200 Pullman cars and diners for the convenience of the crowd expected to witness the bout. According to the bulletin the population of Shelby has increased in a year from 700 to 4,000. It is expected that a crowd of 40,000 will visit the town on Independence Day. Three new railroads depots are to be built, according to present plans. The bulletin states that Shelby now has thirty hotels, and as many more are in course of construction, in accordance with elaborate plans of Great Northern officials and Shelby business men to handle the abnormal conditions which the title bout is expected to produce.

Tickets for the bout will be placed on sale tomorrow. The advance sale is reported to be $280,000, of which $200,000 is actual cash. Inquiries are being received from all parts of the country and from Canada. It is expected that one-third of the spectators at the bout will be Canadians. Shelby is 100 miles northwest from Great Falls, and 102 miles due west from Havre. The latter city is 123 miles northeast of Great Falls. Dempsey has decided upon Great Falls as the scene of his training. Gibbons will prepare himself at Havre. The bout will be conducted on a site fifty miles from the gates of Glacier National Park and thirty miles from the Alberta line.

NAVY OARSMEN READY FOR SYRACUSE RIVALS

Varsity, Junior and Yearling Eights Will Compete at Annapolis Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 18.—The Naval Academy and Syracuse crews made final preparation for the races here tomorrow, which will close the local rowing season. Ten Eyck had his crews on the water both morning and afternoon, for about an hour each time. The Midshipmen had an even shorter practice following drill this afternoon.

The races will be fore freshman, junior and Varsity crews, each being rowed separately, over a two-mile course. The high winds of the first part of the week moderated today, and excellent conditions are indicated. The Navy varsity is specially anxious to win its last home race and go to Poughkeepsie with a clean record.

YALE CREW FAVORED IN REGATTA TODAY

Blue Oarsmen Face Hard Task in Race With Cornell and Princeton Eights.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 18.—Crisp air and a sharp westerly breeze, but the first sunshine that Ithaca has seen in a week greeted the oarsmen of Princeton, Yale and Cornell as they put on the finishing touches today for tomorrow's regatta on Cayuga Lake. The Yale rowing squads arrived at an early hour and by 10 o'clock the varsity and the freshman crews had their shells and were off for a spin. Princeton also took advantage of the fairly favorable conditions to go out for a row before luncheon, while late this evening six crews, the varsity and freshman shells of all three universities, drove swiftly over the waters of Cayuga in the face of a brisk northwest breeze, which made the water choppy but not rough.

Both the Yale and Princeton crews went over the east course, scene of tomorrow's regatta, this evening, and the Cornell flotilla hugged the west bank. The Ithacans had their last time trial over the race course Wednesday evening, since then Coach Hoyee has tapered off their work. All of the crews practiced starts.

Arrangements for the regatta were completed this afternoon when the observation train made a trial trip and the officials, headed by Referee Jonas Ingram of the Navy, inspected the course, which is to be policed by the State Department of Public Works. Indications are for partly cloudy weather, possibly showers, and south-southwest winds. This augurs well for good racing conditions; it is the north wind that causes trouble on Cayuga and delays races.

Yale is standing pat on the crew that beat Columbia, Coach Leader announced. Princeton has been reorganized since the defeat by the Navy, and the Tigers, Cornell men think, will be formidable opponents despite their reverses. Cornell's varsity is backward; that is conceded by Coach Hoyle. The Ithacans have had not more than one week of warm weather so far.

Figures of the last time trial are withheld, but it is generally believed that Cornell is not quite so fast as at Derby last year.

COLUMBIA OARSMEN ROW M. I. T. TODAY

Regatta of Four Races Will Be Held on Harlem Starting at 11 o'Clock.

Columbia will have its first and only chance of the season to show its wares on the Harlem River when the Blue and White crews stage a four-race regatta with the eights of M. I. T. and Pennsylvania today. Coach James C. Rice's varsity will meet the M. I. T. varsity at noon. After that, at 12:30 P. M., the junior varsity will race M. I. T.'s 150-pound boat which is substituting for the New Englanders' regular second varsity, which is laid up on account of injuries.

The Morningside Heights' freshmen will pry things open at 11 A. M. when they face the University of Pennsylvania yearling eight. Following that Columbia's 150-pound shell will go against the Penn lightweights.

The Pennsylvania oarsmen arrived in New York on Thursday and M. I. T. came yesterday morning. Both crews worked out on the Harlem yesterday and reports from both camps state that all of the men are in tip-top shape. Coach James C. Rice, the veteran Columbia mentor, said last night that his four boats were in fine condition and that he expected a hard race in some of the events especially the 150-pound division.

Rice didn't work his varsities particularly hard yesterday afternoon and was content to see them practice several starts. The lightweights were given a strenuous program.

The reason for the races being held in the morning is because of tidal conditions on the Harlem. The starting point for all of the races will be below the Fordham Bridge at 207th Street. The finish line is between the Washington Bridge and Highbridge.

Charles M. Sheafe, former Harvard oarsman, will be the referee and starter. John F. Mulcahy, President of the New York Rowing Association, will be the judge at the finish.

GEORGES POSTPONES BOUT.

Injury to Carpentier's Hands Causes Delay in Meeting Beckett.

PARIS, May 18 (Associated Press).—Carpentier's hands are in such a state from his recent fight for the French heavyweight title, in which he knocked out Marcel Nilles, that he will be unable to box for at least a month. The promoters of his fight with Joe Beckett, the English heavyweight, have agreed to postpone the match, which was fixed for June 12 at London, until some time in July.

DARTMOUTH BEATEN BY N. Y. U., 2 TO 1

McLaughlin's Double With Two Out in Seventh Decides Game—3 Hits Off Torpe.

The New York University baseball team defeated the Dartmouth College nine yesterday afternoon on Ohio Field by the score of 2 to 1. Neither team scored until the seventh inning, when Bjorkman, Dartmouth centre fielder, knocked the ball over the canvas for a home run. The second half of the same inning proved to be more successful for the Hall of Fame nine, the Violet boys scoring their two runs in this frame. McLaughlin's double accounted for both runs.

Jim Torpe, star N. Y. U. twirler, held Dartmouth to three hits. Dunlevy, Dartmouth pitcher and brother of Charles Dunlevy who pitched on N. Y. U.'s varsity last year, was taken out in the eighth frame after he had allowed four hits and two runs and had walked four N. Y. U. men. Steinhilber, who was substituted for Dunlevy, allowed the University Heights team one hit and no runs.

In the seventh, after Harris, Dartmouth third baseman, had filed to Washington, Bjorkman made a home run. Smith grounded down the third base line and was thrown out at first base. Heep filed to centre for the last out of the frame. In the second half Toorock, N. Y. U. first sacker, filed to centre and Hirschfield was thrown out at first. Washington walked and Stanley singled and McLaughlin scored both runners with a double, but was thrown out at third when he tried to advance on the throw in.

WE are doing the greatest straw hat business in many years. The Newport is one of the reasons why. We have seen hats in other windows at $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00 and while they may be very nice hats and worth the money, we have yet to see a hat, which for artistic styling and beautifully hand-twisted braid, can compare with this special Newport style of ours.

It stands out as the "spotlight" hat in our window display and it leads them all on pure merit. See this hat in our window and you will be prompted to follow the crowds right into our store.

24 NAMED TO START IN $55,265 DERBY

Whitney-Greentree Combined Entry Favored to Win—West Backs Bo McMillan.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, May 18.—A field of twenty-four of the greatest three-year-olds in training in the United States are named overnight to start in the forty-ninth renewal of the Kentucky Derby, which will be the fifth race on the card at Churchill Downs tomorrow afternoon. How many will go to the post is problematical, much depending on the condition of the track when the time for scratching comes to-morrow. It is very likely that twenty will start regardless of the weather, with the combined entry of the Whitney-Greentree stable named as the favorite, carrying the hopes of the Easterners, with Frederick Johnson's Nassau second choice.

Should all of the twenty-four named go to the post the race will be worth $55,265 net to the winner, the richest turf prize in existence, surpassing even the $52,000 Preakness of just a week earlier. In addition the owner of the winner will receive a 14-karat gold cup valued at $5,000. To the owner of the second horse will go $6,000, to the third $3,000 and to fourth $1,000.

There were 145 nominations at $25 each, totaling $3,625; twenty-four starters at $500, total $12,000, with $50,000 added to the stakes, making a grand total of $65,625 to be distributed in the Derby alone. There is only one filly named to start, Anna M. Humphrey, and she is not likely to go if the track is fast.

Louisville Is Ready.

About every preparation for the greatest of America's classic races was completed tonight. The race has been insured against rain. The horses have had their final work-outs and Louisville is awaiting with extended hand the vast throngs that will pour into the city late tonight and tomorrow morning. Predictions are for showers tomorrow, but the sun went down smiling and it is just possible that fears for wet weather will not be realized.

It will be the East against the West tomorrow and the field will be evenly divided, with the East favored to carry off the honors. The East will be represented by Enchantment, Cherry Pie, The Clown, Vigil, Better Luck, Nassau, Aspiration, Zev, Chickvale, Golden Rule, Rialto, Picketer and Martingale. Carrying the hopes of the Westerners will be General Thatcher, Bo McMillan, In Memoriam, Prince K., Calcutta, Pravus, Everhart, Chittagong, Bright Tomorrow, Wida and Anna M. Humphrey.

The candidates are as fit as training and care can make them. It has been a good Spring for training, there has been little sickness and few training accidents, so there will be no alibis on the parts of the trainers.

If the weather continues good the 75,000 spectators who are expected to crowd into Churchill Downs may witness the breaking of the track record of 2:03 1-5, the best previous time in the Derby itself having been Old Rosebud's mark of 2:03 2-5. It will surely be a great sprint for the first turn among the nineteen colts, four geldings and one filly, if all go.

Enchantment Shows Speed.

The last of the work for the Derby candidates was given them this morning, while there was not as large a crowd on hand to witness the work as on Thursday because it was known that none would go the long route, those that went to Churchill Downs were electrified by the brilliant work of Enchantment and Cherry Pie, representing H. P. Whitney and the Greentree Stable, respectively.

James Rowe sent them out together for their final half-mile preparation, and the pair broke from the half-mile pole racing as a team. They ran the first quarter in 0:23, the three-eighths in 0:34 and the half in 0:46, with Enchantment a neck in the lead. The time snapped is three-fifth of a second under the track record, and one veteran horseman pronounced it the most impressive work-out he had ever witnessed on Churchill Downs.

Zev, the Sinclair representative which more or less redeemed himself at Jamaica for his Pimlico showing and which arrived here late Thursday night to run in the Derby as its reward, was given his first gallop this morning, going three eighth of a mile in 0:39 3-5. After a brief rest the son of The Finn was sent another quarter in 0:24 and pulled up sound. Ed Sande, who will ride the Sinclair colt, arrived late today. Dave Leary will saddle the colt tomorrow in the absence of Sam Hildreth.

Billy Garth, who saddled Paul Jones in his Derby victory, sent Martingale and Golden Rule, the Cosden pair, to breeze three-eighths in their final work. Golden Rule went the 3/8 2-5 and Martingale was clocked at 0:35 4-5.

Rialto and Chickvale of the Greentree Stable were sent a half together in 0:47 2-5 and pulled up strong. Bo McMillan, the hope of the West, looking very fit, went his three-eighths in 0:36 1-5, while Nassau, Frederick Johnson's sole hope, did a half in 0:48 without much effort.

Aspiration, Benjamin Block's chief rivalness, did five-eighth in 1:03 flat. Better Luck going the same distance in three-fifths of a second slower. Anna M. Humphrey was asked to step a half, which she did in 0:47 3-5.

Boys Believe Me was sent an easy three-quarters in 1:16 3-5. Chittagong went out with Llewellyn for five-eighths in 1:04 3-5.

It was stated this afternoon that Jimmy Rowe had bought the riding contract of J. Cochran from A. L. Kirby, the sum being rumored as $20,000.

The trainers were a tired and worried lot when their work for the day was completed. They have done all that is in their power to fit their charges. As a rule they are a quiet and taciturn lot, but a few of America's leading trainers spoke a few words on their chances of the morrow and here is what they said:

What the Trainers Say.

Jimmy Rowe—My charges are all ready for the Derby test. I believe that one of them will win with anything like average racing luck. I believe Enchantment is the best under certain track conditions. Picketer, however, is in fine condition.

W. McKnight—Nassau has done all that has been asked of him. I never trained a speedier colt. He can carry weight as well as any of the others and run all day. I believe he has the foot to outsprint Zev and then come on to win.

L. Cahn—Bo McMillan could be in no better condition. He has been the best tempered colt during his training I ever handled. He can run over any kind of a track and 126 pounds sets as lightly on him as a feather. Bo's backers will have no regrets.

Tom Healy—I've got a good, tough colt. I don't know just how good he is, but the way Vigil ran down on the Preakness field makes me think he has a good chance. He is in fine racing condition and I look for him to repeat his Preakness performance.

Billy Garth—Martingale will do it sure if the track is soft. He didn't get a fair crack at the Preakness after he ran away at full speed for a quarter of a mile before the start. You will see a different race in the Derby.

Preston Burch Jr.—I believe General Thatcher is going to be in front from first fall to finish. I have a good colt, and while he failed in the Preakness to get up, I look for him to go better over the Downs course. He is ready to the minute for big doings.

Louis Marshall—Prince K. was never better or ever will be than he is right now. He has his foot and I believe he will be there or thereabouts at the finish. I consider the race an open one, with Prince K.'s chances as good as any of the others.

Jack Baker—Aspiration is a good colt and may fool some of the boys Derby day. I never trained a better three-year-old. Of course, there is a modicum of luck attached to the Derby. This year may prove a repeater for Mr. Block.

Without question, more brain power has been expended this year in attempting to solve the Derby problem than in any previous year in the history of the classic. This is due to the fact that the number of starters is to be larger than in any other running in forty-eight years. The largest field in the past was in Paul Jones's year, 1920, when seventeen went to the post. Sixteen started in 1915, when Regret was the winner.

The uncertainty of track conditions tomorrow must be considered. The predictions are for showers for this section of the country. Thursday was the first day without rain since the opening of the meeting week ago tomorrow, and today's cloudiness has substantiated the prognostications and showers seem imminent. Light showers tonight or tomorrow will not greatly affect the running of the race for the Derby.

PRINCE OF UMBRIA WINS THE MONTANA

Runs Mile and Seventy Yards in 1:42 3-5 in Capturing Feature at Jamaica.

C. G. Heywang's recently acquired colt Prince of Umbria won the Montana Handicap, feature of an ordinary card at Jamaica yesterday afternoon, and came within four-fifths of a second of the track record in doing it. The son of Brown Prince II. stepped the mile and seventy yards in 1:42 3-5 and led Tufter, All Over, Irish Kiss and Overtake across the finish line. H. Alferman's Tufter got second money and All Over the show position. Irish Kiss, the well-played favorite, was eight lengths behind the third horse at the end. Prince of Umbria opened at 3 to 1 and closed at 13 to 5. It was the bay colt's third victory of the meeting at this distance.

Jockey Callahan, the winning rider, took his mount out in front at the start and reined him in front of the pace all the way to win by a length and a half. Tufter chased the leader gamely, but tired in the run down the stretch and got home just a length ahead of All Over. The latter was on the outside throughout the trip and lost much ground.

Another horse to win at a comparatively long price was King of the Spa, a three-year-old bay colt, which was claimed by S. Louis after the race for $3,200. King of the Spa galloped a mile and seventy yards to a practically uncontested victory. J. F. Coburn's Red Log closed as the choice of the talent in the betting at odds of 11 to 5, but the finish found him laboring along in the ruck.

King of the Spa Wins Easily.

Mozer, an apprentice rider, took King of the Spa out in front as soon as the barrier lifted and kept him in the lead throughout, to win sitting straight in the saddle with six lengths to spare. King of the Spa paid his supporters 6 to 1. Flying Devil got home behind the leader and Pictrus was a head back of the second horse.

One of the most interesting races of the afternoon was the fifth, a claiming race at a mile and a sixteenth for three-year-olds and over. This time it was the favorite which fought it out for the victory, with W. R. Coe's Master Hand scoring a well-deserved triumph over W. Daniel's Romany. Both horses closed at odds of 13 to 5.

Master Hand's jockey kept his mount well in hand from the start, but was threatened at the finish by Romany, which had much in reserve, and might have won had Jockey Ralls made his bid sooner. As it was, Romany closed much ground in the final eighth of the mile and a sixteenth and got up to win the place from Prince Regent by a head. Whether or not Master Hand would have had enough in reserve to beat off Romany's challenge had it been made sooner is a question of individual judgment, but certainly the second horse would have made a better race of it had he been given his head sooner.

May Play Wins the Willoughby.

The Willoughby, a five-furlong contest for two-year-olds, was won by The Ranch for Stable's fine chestnut colt Mad Play. The winner is a full brother to Mad Hatter and, while he is not so large as the latter, seems to possess the same qualities of speed and gameness. He ran a scoring race yesterday under the guiding hand of Mack Fator to beat Mrs. W. M. Jefford's Cockney by three-fourths of a length.

Cockney won the Pimlico Spring Home Bred Stakes last month, but wasn't good enough for the son of Fair Play yesterday. Mad Play was in the lead at the turn, and although Cockney closed fast on the outside, the Rancocas colt held his advantage to the end. Margaret Lawrence, an outsider, was third. Mad Play was the favorite at 7 to 5.

In the opening dash of five furlongs, Mrs. W. M. Jefford's Stormalong beat a fair field of two-year-olds. Jockey Morris rated the winner just behind the pace until the turn into the stretch was reached, and then sent him along to win by half a length from Buzz Saw, the pace setter. Peterson's Goldmark took the short end of the purse.

Secretary Edwards of Met. Jockey Club Succumbs to Old Illness.

Walter C. Edwards, Racing Secretary of the Metropolitan Jockey Club since its organization, died yesterday morning of apoplexy at his home on Clarement Avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. Edwards had not been in good health for several years, but until Thursday was actively engaged at his duties at the Jamaica course. During the past Winter Mr. Edwards spent two months in Florida in an effort to regain his health, and when he returned he appeared to be much benefited, but during the last fortnight he had several times complained of pains about his heart. Mr. Edwards is survived by one brother, William, with whom he lived in Brooklyn.

ET TU, MOSES!

In his natural resentment at the coming of Lord ROBERT CECIL to the United States, Senator MOSES of New Hampshire added to various caustic comments the indignant question: "What would they think of me in Europe if I went over there and told them what they ought to do?" There is no evidence available to show what they think of Mr. MOSES in Europe, but this is not for lack of his having gone over there and told them what to do. Under President TAFT, Senator MOSES was Minister to Greece and Montenegro, and during the period of his diplomatic service which fell on troublous times in Southeastern Europe he took the helm on more than one occasion. If he did not fully equal the feats of his successor, Mr. GEORGE FRED WILLIAMS, who might have been King of Albania if he would have consented to take the job, Mr. MOSES was certainly not backward in telling the natives what to do.

According to biographical details extracted with difficulty from his modesty, Mr. MOSES was in reality the central figure in the Greek revolution of 1909-10. It was known to all that VENIZELOS came from Crete to take charge of things in Athens, but it was known only to the United States Minister that Mr. MOSES was the man who engineered his return. It was again Mr. MOSES who, perceiving the importance of having the right Minister of Foreign Affairs in the first Venizelist Cabinet, volunteered to select that official. It is also shyly admitted by Minister MOSES that he was one of the prime movers in the formation of the Balkan Federation. Its first draft was prepared in his office. And when he retired and came home in order to give his yearning State the opportunity to elect him to the United States Senate, the record is that the Balkan sovereigns conferred upon him their grand crosses in recognition of his "distinct and conspicuous services in behalf of the Balkan Federation."

If these things could happen long before the great war and its disastrous sequels in Europe, what might not happen now if Senator MOSES would once more go across and tell Europe what to do? He surely would come back with so many ribbons stuck in his coat that Ambassador HARVEY would resign in speechless envy.

DISTURBERS OF TRANSIT.

The first indications of something like a spirit of businesslike co-operation between the City Hall and the Transit Commission were hailed by both press and public in this city. At last, it was felt, there was hope of getting something done, of ending the long deadlock and of adopting plans for the new subways most urgently needed. The letter of the Transit Commission to the Board of Estimate was most reasonable and conciliatory in tone. It was so transparently of this nature that even the Mayor could speak of it in a friendly and even gracious spirit. Thus it began to look as if the city authorities and the Transit Commission might come together and adjust their differences about subway plans and get the work started amid the applause of an anxious citizenship.

This prospect was too bright to endure. It soon began to be darkened by politics. As if for fear that the Mayor was too polite in his reference to the advances made by the Transit Commission, Commissioner HEDLEY appeared upon the scene in his familiar rôle as detector and confounder of evil men. He admits that as yet he is not wholly sure just where the iniquity lies in the proposals of the Transit Commission. But he is certain that it is there. As soon as he can bring his penetrating intellect to bear upon the matter he will expose it in all its monstrous wickedness. Meanwhile, he limits himself to warning the community against that well-known nefarious character, Chairman MCANENY.

This might pass for a bad joke were it not that Governor SMITH had indulged himself in much the same line of loose talk. His irritation at the charges against his sincerity made by Speaker MACHOLD is intelligible, but it is a misfortune that the Governor should have allowed himself to speak about the transit situation in New York as he did. To assert that it was the traction "interests" in this city which prevented the Republican Assembly from enacting the legislation desired by Mayor HYLAN is calculated to obstruct the path toward that reasonable solution which the city was beginning to hope for. For the Governor to affirm that the transit companies supplied the money for the Republican campaign, and so could not be denied whatever they demanded from the Republican Assembly, is surely as reckless a proceeding as anything of which Speaker MACHOLD may have been guilty. Without specifications, without names, places or sums, such charges can carry no weight except that of campaign recrimination of a low order. The presumptions are all against the Governor's assertion. The reorganized transit companies had every motive to keep out of partisan contests. Unless Governor SMITH has clear proof that they did not, he ought to refrain from making accusations which he cannot sustain.

Governor SMITH should be the last man to desire to postpone indefinitely new subway building in New York. He knows well that for at least a year he will be unable to offer from Albany any relief at all for the situation. A substantial measure of early relief has been proposed by the Transit Commission. How can Governor SMITH possibly wish to block this, and to throw everything back into confusion, delay and partisan animosity? He ought to appear at this juncture as a peace-maker, not a trouble-maker. We can but hope that his intemperate utterance will not be followed up by other indiscreet actions on his part, but that he will let bygones be bygones and join with all sensible men in New York who are ready to do their best to bring about an era of peace and progress in the matter of providing new transit facilities for the metropolis.

THE RUHR BALANCE SHEET.

Contrary to the assertion so frequently made by German sympathizers, the occupation of the Ruhr has not been excessively costly to the French Government. In his speech before the French Chamber of Deputies on May 17 Premier POINCARE reviewed the expense of the occupation, and explained that, after deducting the amount which it would have been necessary to provide for the soldiers had they been garrisoned in France, the cost to the French Treasury was only 61,000,000 francs. The expenditures for civilians during the same period amounted to 2,650,000 francs. Receipts from the customs and from the seizure of coal and coke came to more than enough to offset these costs, which do not, however, include the advances for the operation of the railroads and other similar expenses on which certain receipts are expected.

There is no denying the fact that these expenditures represent a deduction from the total possible sum which France might have received had Germany been willing to go ahead in good faith making reparations payments without any Ruhr occupation. It does not follow, however, that it will prove to be an important deduction from the total that Germany actually will be able to pay. Only a few of the most sanguine Frenchmen expected that the Ruhr advance would be self-sustaining. Still fewer expected it to be actually profitable. They did not look upon it as a method of increasing or even upholding current revenue, but rather as a method of bringing home to the German mind the necessity of accepting the obligation to make payments. It had a moral value which was greater than its material value. The French considered it as a method of putting an end to Germany's tactics of evasion and thus making larger ultimate payments more certain. They knew that, if Germany continued to evade, France would get only a small sum from Germany. They figured that it would be more profitable in the long run to undergo the costs of the occupation with its attendent curtailment of current payments, because in so doing they would be assured of continued payments over a greater period of time. They preferred the certainty of a somewhat reduced sum to the uncertainty of a larger sum.

In so far as Germany is concerned, the latest report to the Department of Commerce from its agents in that country shows that as a result of the Ruhr occupation German productivity has declined. In the Ruhr region in particular coal production has practically ceased, and the metallurgical, chemical and dye production has declined by about 50 per cent. There has also been a repercussion upon the rest of Germany, and the Government's policy of stabilizing the mark, while at the same time continuing to issue paper money in fantastic quantities, is producing an enormous and dangerous inflation.

There is no question that the occupation of the Ruhr is hurting Germany more than France, and that in the game of passive resistance which the Cuno Government has inaugurated France is sure to be the victor. Premier POINCARE and his advisers weighed well the consequences before going into the Ruhr. They looked upon the advance as a means to reach an end. Until it is achieved, the Germans can derive small comfort from their old illusion that it would cost France more than it does Germany.

MARKETING FRUITS AND VEGETABLES IN NEW YORK.

"Nothing is more certain in regard to the handling of fruits and vegetables at New York City," says WALTER P. HEDDEN of the United States Department of Agriculture, in a preliminary report on terminal conditions at the Port of New York, "than that the terminal facilities now provided are rapidly becoming utterly inadequate." Consequently the cost to the consumer steadily rises. In June, 1922, J. H. DELANEY, Commissioner of Docks of the City of New York, sounded the warning that "an annual crisis develops in the handling of perishable produce due to congestion at points of delivery in Manhattan." Car float and pier station operation, breaking bulk with each commercial operation, and long truck hauls in and out of a central market, are factors in the increasing expense. The handling of fruits and vegetables at New York is largely a railroad problem. Of a total of 141,000 car lots unloaded in the New York district in 1921, 108,000, or more than 70 per cent., came in by rail. Gulf, coastwise, transatlantic and Panama-Pacific steamships brought most of the remainder. Long Island Sound and Hudson River craft and motor trucks and farm wagons completed the deliveries.

As the wants of the consumer increase, there is more and more a menace of break-downs in the delivery system. At the Duane Street pier, for instance, the car arrivals were 4,405 in 1900 and 22,640 in 1920. The great bulk of the produce is first displayed and sold in a centralized market on the lower west side, "and is then distributed by truck mainly to five principal jobbing markets, which in turn supply retailers scattered over a wide urban and suburban area." The concentration of the wholesale market is largely due to a "small-unit, wide-variety type of jobbing business." The jobbers, also the retailers, want to see every unit of what they are buying. Transportation by truck and motor vehicle, or "cartage," costs a minimum of $28 per car from the railroad yards on the Jersey shore to Manhattan points. To it must be added the expense of additional deliveries.

What is the remedy? How shall cost to the consumer be reduced? Mr. HEDDEN proposes "the integration of delivery points, primary markets and secondary markets, to the end of minimizing the handling and cartage of bulk," an efficient method of converting car lots into truck job lots; and, what is the most important, a central receiving terminal adjacent to joint railroad break-up yards in New Jersey. A public agency to sample contents for the purpose of reliable certification would do away with most of the cumulative inspections in New York that now cause delay and expense. "These suggestions," says Mr. HEDDEN, "assume the existence of a joint break-up yard and system of belt lines, including tunnels, to Manhattan and Brooklyn, as recommended in the general plans for port development." The cost of the sequences of transportation and handling as the delivery system exists today does not seem to have been worked out. It is evident that if the improvements suggested can be put into effect, the consumer's bill for fresh fruits and vegetables will be much smaller.

MR. HARDING ON HAMILTON.

In Mr. HARDING'S address at the unveiling of the statue of ALEXANDER HAMILTON in Washington he called him "the creative genius in the making of the Constitution." Chancellor KENT long ago gave him the primacy in "exertions to create" the Constitution. Since HAMILTON'S share in making the Constitution was slight, and his own "model plan," proposed in the Convention of 1787, provided that the President—"Governor," he called him—and Senate should hold office during good behavior and be chosen by voters with a property qualification, and that the State Governors should be appointed by the Federal Government, the description may seem incorrect, yet, in a larger sense, it may be said to be true. HAMILTON early saw the necessity of a strong central Government. If the British Government seemed to him the best model; if, like most of the Federalist leaders, he believed in an aristocratic, not a democratic, republic, he may be said to have created or re-created government under that Constitution, of which he was the ablest defender and exponent, and whose adoption by this State he secured against what seemed invincible opposition.

There was a paper form of government. What was it to be in fact? As WASHINGTON'S first Secretary of the Treasury, HAMILTON determined. The acts which he got the First Congress to pass, providing for the assumption of the foreign and domestic debts of the Confederation and the States, imposing an excise tax and regulating commerce by laying import duties, making a tariff both for protection and revenue, establishing a national bank, made a strong centralized Federal Government certain and gave it the money the want of which was a fatal weakness of the Confederation. From him came that assertion of the "implied powers" and "general welfare" which was to be employed so fruitfully by JOHN MARSHALL, and has become a, perhaps, too fertile source of judicial doctrine respecting the Constitution. Except as regards the extension of the suffrage and popular control and the modern conception of wealth as an enemy rather than a support and element of the American policy, he divined the United States of today, just as TALLEYRAND said that he "divined Europe." Jeffersonians are today Hamiltonians without knowing it. Like it or lump it, the Federal Government of today was created by ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

The makers of the Federal Constitution seem to have contemplated a government without parties. In the last days of the eighteenth century "faction" and "party" had a sinister connotation—meant the same thing. They are used as synonyms in the Farewell Address; and Mr. HARDING quotes from HAMILTON a definition of "faction" as "a number of citizens, whether amounting to a majority or a minority of the whole, who are united and actuated by some common impulse of passion or of interest, adverse to the rights of other citizens or to the permanent and aggregate interests of the community." Against the "factionalism" of our day, whether concrete in associations founded on racial or religious intolerance or in the selfishness of classes, the "groups" and "blocs," Mr. HARDING warned with a patriotism worthy of the nationalist he was honoring. It was not for him to particularize, but we all know what he meant:

> We have coalitions which would invade the constitutional rights of others or subvert the Constitution itself. We have our factions challenging both civil and religious liberty, and without them both made everlastingly secure there can be no real human liberty. We have the fatal factionalism which contemplates obstruction to the execution of the law. No nation will survive while this factionalism endures. * * * If we will maintain the national viewpoint and emphasize the interwoven intimacy of all activities, interdependent, where none may permanently prosper without a prosperous whole; if we will throttle the false cry of class where none need exist in the beckoning of American opportunity; if we will be as hopefully American and as whole-heartedly American as they were in the immortal beginning, the future will be secure.

Before all other of HAMILTON'S gifts, Mr. HARDING put "his courage of patriotism." The President himself showed something of that courage in smashing the Bonus bill. The more he shows of it the better the people who have no use for "factionalism" will like and respect him. His thoughtful address at Washington was not unworthy of its illustrious subject—the cardinal intellect in our history.

A SHANTUNG EXAMPLE.

TIEN CHUNG-YU, Military Governor of Shantung, follows a good old Chinese custom by asking leave of the Peking Government to resign as a voluntary punishment for not preventing the "hold-up" of the Shanghai-Peking Express. We can imagine with what a wealth of pejorative terms he described and regretted his negligence. If the head kidnapper of the foreign passengers was trying to make trouble for the Government as well as money for himself and his band, the combination of politics and loot is American as well as Chinese.

TIEN CHUNG-YU, on the other hand, might well be imitated by no inconsiderable number of American officials; by the authorities of Williamson County, Illinois, for instance, who permitted or sympathized with the Herrin butchery; by the State authorities of Illinois that might have sent troops and prevented the slaughter; by the Sheriffs that let prisoners be taken out of jail and lynched by mobs; by Mayors, Governors or any other officials that bow to or wink at violence, cowardly neglecters of their sworn duty.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Justice Praises Arbitration.

Arbitration as a partial substitute for litigation in business disputes was warmly praised by Justice GUSTAVE HARTMAN of the City Court in an address which is printed at length by The New York Law Journal. To the use of this system he credited in large part the present favorable condition of the City Court's calendars, and especially the commercial calendar—a notable contrast with those of many other courts.

The congestion elsewhere, he said, had several reasons, but was due, not to faults of the courts, but mostly to the increase of litigation without a corresponding increase in the number of Judges, and he thought that the same help in the speedy administration of justice could be obtained from arbitration elsewhere as in the City Court. He did not propose arbitration as something to take the place of regular legal procedure, but as the best way in which to handle controversies of a certain class—those involving no questions or vexatious questions of law, but rather the recognized equities and customs of business.

On this point the Justice said:

> I believe the time has come that the business world realizes more and more the futility of much of the litigation brought into the courts, and that the submission of an issue to men in the trade, skilled and versed in the knowledge and intricacies of that particular line, is calculated to bring about quicker relief and in many respects a more effective disposition of the matter in hand, besides promoting amicable relations between the parties and advancing the general welfare of the industry.

Why Arbitrators Would Be Decisive.

In the opinion of Justice HARTMAN, the decision of arbitrators of recognised competence would be accepted as conclusive not less than those of courts, reached after the delays and expense of an ordinary trial. These were his words on this branch of his subject:

> I am sure the submission of matters in dispute to leading men in the respective industries as arbitrators will tend not only to a more expeditious dispatch of business litigation, saving time, annoyance and money to the contestants, but will substantially reduce the number of fancied, false or fraudulent claims out of a fear of hurt and ostracism in the trade upon a discovery of sharp and unworthy practices so readily ascertainable by experts and leaders in the industry acting in the capacity of arbitrators. Such will be the salutary and deterrent effects of arbitration.

Our Parks Respond to Spring.

New York's parks just now are at their very best, and, in spite of all the difficulties and troubles that have been encountered in their maintenance, that best is good enough to be highly creditable to their present administration. Of course, much of the beauty they show must be ascribed to the work of Spring, which, in parks as elsewhere, efficiently repairs much of the damage done by Winter, and to Spring's influences every tree and shrub and plant has responded with a fresh outpouring of shoots and leaves.

Central Park has abundantly repaid the care it recently has received, and a really notable success has followed the extensive planting done last year on both sides of the roadway which for a considerable distance follows the now so much more cheerful and sightly Bronx River. The thousands of young trees and shrubs there all seem to have come through their first Winter, always so trying, not only alive, but ready to grow vigorously this season.

This parkway, though not yet completed through the whole of its determined course, already is used by great numbers of automobiles, and not a little advantage from it goes to the commuters on the New Haven and Harlem roads, who now, looking from the car windows, find the tedium of their daily journeys appreciably lightened by the charming spectacle presented by the parkway and its wide green borders.

The several railway approaches to the city still remain ugly and depressing enough, but this particular stretch is a rest for tired eyes. It cost a lot of money—there is no doubt of that—but it changed what had become a desolate and sordid region into a sightly one, and the city will be repaid from the increased value of property all through that section of the Bronx Borough.

Must Russians Also Be Investigated?

Hardly has the world recovered from the shock of hearing that in Russia, where grafting and bribery long had been so common as to have lost in Russian eyes the appearance of sin or even of irregularity, they now are putting grafters and bribers and bribe-takers on trial, sending many to prison and actually putting not a few to death. And now another shock has come.

NIKOLAI BUKHARIN, an eminent Bolshevik, has been making, under high official auspices, an investigation into the expenditure abroad of real money for propaganda purposes, and he has made to the Central Committee of the Communist Party and to the Praesidium of the Third International a report in which he advises that they demand and get from their foreign missioners an exact accounting for all the millions of gold rubles that have passed through their hands.

That is terrible. It should have been evident to BUKHARIN, as it certainly is to all of the Red agents, that the work of the latter has been of a highly confidential nature, and that to go into details about it in any public way would result in vast embarrassment for—well, for no end of people who have been willing to take gold rubles and use them at discretion.

How is Bolshevism ever to conquer the world if its advocates have to waste their time in collecting and showing vouchers? Has M. BUKHARIN no respect for pledges and promises—does he want sacred confidences betrayed? To pay and tell is as bad as to kiss and tell, and both are intolerable.

The next thing one knows somebody will be asking the great TROTZKY about the story of his sending a young fortune to his brother, ruined through speculation in German marks!

The Yale Fund Method.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The article entitled "College Men's Bonds for a Greater New York University," appearing in the April 29 issue of THE TIMES, announces the plan about to be put into effect whereby New York University is to receive income annually by the issuance of so-called Loyalty Bonds of $50 par value, these bonds to be subscribed for by the members of each year's senior class and paid for in five annual instalments of $10. As the article states that "Yale University, operating under a somewhat similar plan, last year received 9,493 contributions, aggregating $367,983.50," will you kindly give space to a more accurate statement of the Yale Fund method?

The Yale plan is to invite contributions annually from the alumni in such sums as they may be disposed to give. There is no pledge, in the usual acceptation of the term; the reason for giving arising solely from the desire to help Yale and its work. As a result of this plan of optional annual giving, Yale alumni have contributed $4,800,645.17 to the university through the Yale Alumni Fund since its inauguration in 1890, of which $2,185,807.23 remains as a principal or endowment fund, from which interest is received annually, and $2,575,788.65 has been given to the university for annual income.

It is of interest to know that as a result of the study made by various colleges and universities, as to the best method of raising funds, the Yale plan has been adopted by a large number of other institutions.

Found Staten Island Honest.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I tendered a bill to the ticket seller at Tompkinsville, S. I., for a ticket to Perth Amboy. He gave me change for $5. I left the window. He called me back. "What did you give me?" he asked. "A five-dollar bill," I replied. "You gave me a twenty," he declared and I had. I have heard it said you should count your change in purchasing a railroad ticket. It is not necessary with that gentleman.

HAZARDS OF FLIGHT.

Air Service Handicapped by Irresponsible Circus Performers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE NEW YORK TIMES of May 16 there appeared an editorial headed "Risks of Airplane Travel," in which the following sentence appears: "It would be of advantage to civil aviation to keep authenticated records of all accidents. The figures would undoubtedly show that, shocking as an occasional disaster is, the margin of safety is large and increasing." We wish to thank you for the constructive tenor of this editorial and also to emphasize certain of the handicaps under which commercial aviation is laboring.

Through surveys conducted through the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce it is possible to obtain a definite idea as to the hazard of flight. Due to the fact that no air law is in existence requiring reports on airplane accidents, we have been dependent upon voluntary statements or upon accounts in the daily press. Our comparative figures indicate that flying when carried on by responsible individuals or organizations is very rapidly increasing in reliability and efficiency, which is to say safety; whereas flying by the itinerant or gypsy pilot who is without legal restraint or financial responsibility is becoming increasingly dangerous.

In a special report on aviation hazard which the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce made last year to the Secretary of Commerce, it was shown that 500 to 600 commercial aircraft (known to be in responsible hands) made in twelve months a total of 130,736 separate flights, covering 2,007,245 miles and carrying 122,512 passengers (men, women and children). In all this activity there was not a single fatality in straight commercial flight; and all told but twenty-one persons were injured in the air and on the ground, or a ratio of one injury to 6,701 flights and 138,440 miles flown. This record compares very favorably with similar performance abroad, yet in the principal European countries there is strict regulation, licensing of pilots and certification of craft.

What we hear most of in the United States is the irresponsible gypsy flier, whose circus performing, wing-walking and "death-dancing" eventuates in a crash. This is the handicap under which commercial aerial transport in the United States finds itself, and this handicap can be removed only through passage of a Federal law. A bill to this end, H. R. 13715, sponsored by Representative Winslow, was before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee when the last session of Congress closed.

The Policy of Lax Enforcement.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have long admired THE NEW YORK TIMES as a remarkable newspaper because of its wide-reaching usefulness. I have been especially happy over the unusually capable way in which your paper has recently been handling religious news. In my judgment no paper in the city does it better. I cannot, however, resist the impulse to send this note, which is inspired by the remarkable editorial in last Sunday's paper concerning the Mullan-Gage law.

While the success of prohibition is debatable, there can be no question about the enforcement of a law when it is put into the Constitution and interpreted by the Supreme Court. I am sure that the activity of THE NEW YORK TIMES will help Governor Smith to see that a signing of this bill will bring such a period of lawlessness as the city has seldom seen. If one group can decide what law it will obey or ignore, another group must have the same privilege. I cannot see, however, how an honest anti-prohibitionist would use such a subterfuge as a lax enforcement of the law. If he is wise he will recognize that this will bring a reaction in favor of the law. We cannot afford to start a practice of banishing any law we do not like by helping to make it unenforceable.

Wages of Blind Workers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A letter appearing in THE TIMES on the need of employment for the deaf and blind states that blind men receiving work through the Lighthouse (the headquarters of the New York Association for the Blind) receive a compensation of "only $8 a week." As a matter of fact, last week's payroll of the factory for blind men maintained by the association (the Bourne Workshop) shows that of the fifty-nine workers 14 per cent. earned over $20 and less than $28 weekly, 20 per cent. earned over $15 and less than $20, 44 per cent. earned over $10 and less than $15, 14 per cent. earned over $8 and less than $10, 4 per cent. earned over $7 and less than $8, and the remaining 4 per cent. earned between $6 and $7. Apprentices at the Bourne Workshop while learning a trade receive $6 a week; men mentally or physically unable to do productive work get a subsidy of $6 weekly and a midday dinner. The association maintains a liberal policy in that it takes into the shop men in the above groups who give no promise of becoming "earners," but who welcome the opportunity of working with their fellow-men and of relief from what would otherwise be long days spent in lonely idleness.

COMPARISON.

I know a silent avenue
Whose houses are all silent, too;
Around them perfect lawns are kept,
And yet it is as if they slept
With shuttered eyes, lest one should share
The secrets of the dwellers there.
Prosperity they radiate
In care and form and splendid state,
But if adventures in them lie
They are secure from passers-by.

I know a little crowded street,
Where neighbors gossip as they meet;
Where children romp and shout and play,
And tears and laughter sound all day;
And when the lamps are lit at night
From open windows shines the light.
No shades or curtains ever hide
The cozy shabbiness inside,
And evening on a shadowed "stoop"
Will find a happy family group.

And sometimes when I wander through
The wide and silent avenue,
I let imagination roam,
And change its houses to a home,
But there within the walls may be
The treasures that I cannot see;
Those quiet houses may possess
Their share of life and happiness.
How could I judge them if I tried,
For I can only stand outside?

But often it is good to go
To crowded streets whose ways you know,
Whose tragedies forever plead,
Whose little stories you may read.
Whose laughter to your smile will call,
Whose sadness on your heart will fall.
Their warmth is like a friendly hand;
Their faults we learn to understand.
Though avenues with wealth are blest,
I like the crowded streets the best.

LORD ROBERT'S VISIT.

What He Failed to Absorb of the American Viewpoint.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Lord Robert Cecil has come and gone and since, by his cabled articles from London, has demonstrated that he was unable even to absorb any of that American viewpoint which he came to imbibe. He came too late. Many Americans, even, of English ancestry which came after 1776, have had the same difficulty regarding the League of Nations. Both ex-President Wilson and Secretary Hughes are prominent examples. The reason for the former is known. He has a personal peculiarity in that he must do everything for himself without asking anybody anything. It was too much for any one man to ascertain alone the entire American spirit prior to 1830 without asking any old-time American. Hence the true American point of view regarding the League of Nations was unforeseen, and has been undigested, even, by America's esteemed Princetonian historian.

Antipathy to England had no weight. Descendants of successful opponents of Britain in two wars had for that country only warm fraternal regard, youthful family scrimmages having been forgiven, as they well might be considering how well the elder had profited from the teaching of the younger brother. They would have been well content to be allied, rather than "associated" (pussyfooting word!), with the mother country in the World War. But all such Americans revered the teachings of the fathers because they knew the fathers knew whereof they taught. They brought forth a new nation, but it was than a new experiment. They had just tried the old and found it a failure on this continent, as it had always been elsewhere. In laying aside as useless and entangling their Articles of Confederation the fathers but buried in the nick of time America's first League of Nations, for it was about to bury them. The United States represented an advance in the philosophy of government. It is now for Europe to come up even. It is not for America to retreat. The instinct of the people has been sound.

For years the writings of the fathers were replete with the belief that Europe would see the example and seize its opportunity. Hourly, daily and yearly those great men vainly awaited the glad tidings that all the ossified monarchies of Europe had crumbled and the people, free at last and nevermore to be dumbly driven like hired Hessians to war, had coalesced into a federation. Lord Robert did not need to visit America. Even now he can gain his information by visiting London's Carnegie Library. Confederation is long out of date. Federation holds the future. It is now time tried. The League is only a confederation. Its philosophy is so wrong, its governmental folly so great, that we should not enter even its Court or its courtyard, lest we first pity, then endure, then embrace. It has taken over 100 years and the World War to bring the fathers' belief one step nearer. The monarchies of Germany, Austria and Russia have now crumbled. Are the people going on or going back? Lord Robert, in his well-meant but European blindness to Americanism, came to ask us to help them to go back. Not going on is going back. Guaranteeing present territorial limits is not going on. Article X. means going back.

France is going on. France is on her way! Let France go and the faster the better. Getting back Alsace-Lorraine was going on. Occupying the Rhineland and the Ruhr was going on. Linking up with Poland, Rumania and Czechoslovakia is going on. Let France go and no Article X.! And no economic conference! France, as a sovereign nation, will do her own conferring. France is a federation. Let France further federate. Let America have a foreign policy. Let it be to let France have America's home policy. "France is using some force!" Did we use any force in federating with part of Mexico and should we not use more? Did we use any with Spain? Was Florida a free purchase? Did we purchase Louisiana from Napoleon before Aaron Burr had once tried to take it and before Napoleon knew somebody would eventually take it anyway? Let us away from pussyfooting and let us have a foreign policy with red blood in it. More, let us have common sense in it—the same kind we used in our home affairs when we were growing and growing men instead of growing rich and forgetful of the teachings of the founders. Of course Lord Robert does not see where he is going. His ancestors did not see where America was going when we went. His attempt to lead us backward is, however, excusable. We have not kept sufficiently alive among late arrivals the lessons of the fathers. Think of Jefferson or Adams in 1918 going to Paris with the Articles of Confederation in his pocket as a world panacea!

"But without the League there will be new wars!" There will be more war with the League than without it. With—constant occasional wars. Without—in time federation and so stoppage of war. But not in a minute. "But, if not in it, we shall be isolated!" Political and economic isolation are two different things. Even in its name the League is a fallacy. It is only an alliance. Washington knew something. We were always outside of several Leagues, but we were never isolated prior to 1914.

We can all, of course, speculate as to the answer Washington and Hamilton would have given if invited to join a World Court created by a European Holy Roman Alliance and based upon an implied covenant that then boundaries be maintained intact. If we can be sure of giving the answer they would have given we shall be sure to give the correct one. And for Lord Robert there is hope. England, as represented in him, has now caught up with our Articles of Confederation. If he will only rummage long enough in that Carnegie Library, perhaps he will some time run across our present Federal Constitution. No one can now tell what will then happen to the British Empire. "But civilization will go to pieces!" Nonsense! Never fear but the fathers had the better vision. They invented the only basic improvements in government which have been produced in 2,000 years. Europe's entire troubles—even including the World War—are but the governmental growing pains of an infant too long stunted. Our chief regret now must be that, because no old-time American was ever asked anything, fourteen different kinds of the wrong medicine were in one wrong concoction prescribed at the wrong time as the right dose.

Conrad's Preference.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Conrad doubtless is of too retiring a disposition to protest against the ascription to him in this morning's TIMES of a title that is not his—"It Depends on the Day." It has been said that Conrad's own preference among his "children of the mind," to use his own phrase, is "The Secret Searcher," although most Conradians probably would waver between "The Nigger" and "Heart of Darkness," the latter recognized as one of the most perfectly wrought stories in any language.

RED CROSS AWARDS RECOGNIZE HEROISM

FIGHT WITH A BARRACUDA

Girl Assisted Companion, Attacked by Huge Fish—Rescues From Drowning and Electricity.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Remarkable examples of personal heroism, often in the face of imminent peril to the rescuer's life, were revealed here today in the announcement by the American Red Cross of its annual award of prizes for outstanding life-saving and first-aid work in accordance with Red Cross standards.

The incidents bringing the awards are as varied as they are heroic. All illustrate the value of preparedness in emergency which the Red Cross, through its instruction in life-saving and first aid, is fostering throughout the country. In many instances the awards show that the method of resuscitation taught by Red Cross instructors was directly responsible for saving the life of the rescued person. The awards follow:

Life-saving first prize of $50 awarded to Miss Mary Buhner, care of Stroud H. Eldridge, Box 2,163, St. Petersburg, Fla., for attempting to rescue Miss Dorothy McClatchie, who met her death last June as a result of being attacked by a monster barracuda while swimming. The utmost heroism was displayed by Miss Buhner, who was swimming with her. Although knowing that at any moment she might also be attacked by the monster, she swam to the aid of Miss McClatchie and kept her afloat until a boat arrived from the pier. Miss McClatchie fainted into the arms of the Buhner girl. Battling the waves that engulfed her and the injured girl time and again, Miss Buhner towed Miss McClatchie, screaming for help. When the boat reached the swimmers Miss McClatchie was unconscious and was being held above the water by Miss Buhner, who was almost exhausted. The girls were about a mile from shore. Miss Buhner is a member of the Red Cross Junior Life-Saving Corps.

Life-saving second prize, of $25 awarded to Edwin F. Dunn, 179 Maple Avenue, Brooklyn, who rescued and resuscitated Edith Snyder at Far Rockaway Beach on Aug. 1, 1922. An eyewitness described the rescue as follows: "Owing to the rain and rough water, very few persons were on the beach. Miss Snyder was out perhaps a hundred yards. Dunn swam out through a very heavy surf and strong undertow, jumping high out of the water at times to see where she was, while the crowd which had quickly assembled on the beach shouted directions. At times we were unable to see either of them. Finally we caught a glimpse of him bringing her in. By that time a boat was launched, which capsized when near the drowning girl and her rescuer, and two people had to be helped into the boat, greatly interfering with the rescue. Finally, after what seemed to be fifty minutes, Mr. Dunn reached the beach with his burden, and, although bystanders said she was dead Mr. Dunn performed artificial respiration, and in a short time Miss Snyder opened her eyes and was revived."

Life-saving third prize of $15 awarded to Joe Hernandez, 1,134 East Duval Street, Jacksonville, Fla. Hernandez, a member of the Red Cross Junior Life-Saving Corps, rescued Luther Palmer, 1,080 East Adbley Street, Jacksonville, on May 6, 1922, at Ortega, Fla. A picnic was in progress at the Ortega Bridge Boathouse when the Palmer boy, who had swum out over his depth, found he was unable to get back to safety. The local newspaper carried this additional statement: "Palmer had broken the surface a couple of times in a vain effort to reach a thrown line when Hernandez started for him. Palmer got what is technically known as a 'front-strangle hold' on Hernandez when the latter reached him. Hernandez immediately applied methods taught him by the Red Cross training class, broke the hold and seised Palmer by the hair, after which the rescue was soon effected."

Life-saving fourth prize of $10 awarded to Lena Benway, care of New England Division, American Red Cross, Miss Benway at Chapin Pond, Ludlow, Mass., July 13, 1922, rescued Violet Fortier, 17, in twelve feet of water when she was going down for the third time. Miss Benway swam out and with difficulty brought Miss Fortier to shore.

Red Cross honorable mention given to Patrick H. Conroy, 235 Danforth Street, Portland, Me.; R. Seymour Webster, Melrose, Mass.; Karl Maxwell, Ocean Springs, Miss., and Helen Lawrence, Spokane, Wash.

First aid prize of $50 awarded to Vernon Enos, care of West Penn Power Company, Connellsville, Pa. At Brownsville (Pa.) subst

FEDERAL RAIL PLAN ASSAILED BY LOREE

Delaware & Hudson President Declares Commission's Consolidation Proposal Is All Wrong.

"MAY AMOUNT TO DISASTER"

Suggests That His Road Be Linked With New England or New York Central Lines.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, appeared before the Interstate Commerce Commission today and denounced the commission's tentative plan for the consolidation of the railroad as no plan at all and a step in the direction of disaster.

It had been Mr. Loree's intention to criticise the commission on the defects of the Transportation act and other laws affecting the railroads and suggest a form of substitute legislation, but this was averted. Commissioner Hall intercepted the proceedings after listening to the first half hour of denunciation and suggested to Mr. Loree that he was getting away from the subject under consideration. As a result a considerable part of Mr. Loree's prepared address was deleted. The remarks which were to have been made, however, remained in copies of the brief distributed to the press.

In the part which he did get before the commission orally Mr. Loree said he was appearing as the representative of the owners of $200,000,000 capital, and added:

"I should feel seriously remiss in the fulfillment of an accepted obligation if I omitted to express my surprise and regret that the stage of a formal hearing has been reached with so slight foundation in the data available to those who must deal with the subject and in the formulation and statement of the principles upon which the Interstate Commerce Commission proposes to act."

Suggests Limiting the Commission.

Mr. Loree said the history of the commission showed it never had hesitated to recommend the repeal of legislation, and that he considered it appropriate on this occasion "to suggest the inquiry whether the repeal of the statutory provisions under which this proceeding is held ought not to be recommended and urged with that persuasive force which in the past has so often and so remarkably influenced the course of legislation."

"The situation," he continued, "with which the whole public, no less than that large and inseparable portion which is engaged in one way or another in supplying railway transportation, is confronted, as a result of this extraordinary legislation, is both threatening and strange. For a third of a century, pre 1887 to 1920, interstate cooperation in the railway industry when involving properties even potentially competitive, was forbidden and penalized, and every effort of railway owners and managers to obtain economies or improve efficiency by even the most moderate steps toward the union or the harmonious operation of properties was prohibited.

"Suddenly, and for no more conclusive reason, so far as any public record or discussion suggests, than that there was an awakening to the fact that artificial restraint of co-operation had worked badly, it appears to be concluded that artificial stimulation, amounting even to duress, should be substituted. But the failure at one extreme does not prove or even indicate that resort to the opposite extreme will prove successful."

Mr. Loree said that some of the objections to such a artificial stimulation could be enumerated, and continued:

"In all history, artificial and radical interference with economic law has invariably resulted in suffering and disaster. Even that which, to the extent that the human mind is able to apprehend the natural consequences of unintended economic forces, may seem to have been the inevitable results of the operation of such forces, has always been obtained at heavy cost when the consummation has been advanced by legislative fiat.

Says Proposal May Mean "Disaster."

"The present proposal is violently disturbing, and every step in its execution, if it is ever executed at all, must be accompanied by impairment of the public welfare in a degree that may amount to disaster. Even in its present stage the plan is an insidious blow at the railway industry and at the fine body of men who have devoted long years and arduous toil to the service of the public. It has shaken the morale of the official staff of most railways and seems to make uncertain the future and the ultimate allegiance of the officers.

"There is no real ground for believing that the economies which seem vaguely to be imagined will be realized. There is no evidence that large properties have been in the past, or will be in the future, more cheaply, efficiently or satisfactorily operated than small properties. Certainly the prophesied economies of Federal control were not realized. On the contrary, the temporary consolidated system was the victim of waste that increased in geometrical progression with every month of its continuance, accompanied by a steady decline in the efficiency of maintenance, operation and management, one of the consequences of which will long be represented in the national debt and in federal taxation.

"The union of a road strong financially with a weak road is not certain, as seems to be assumed, to produce a strong combination. A mixture of good eggs and bad eggs always produces a bad omelette. The strongest support for the contrary opinion is a pure abstraction of mathematics, and presumes a weakening of the strong in the same degree as there is a strengthening of the weak. The strength of the whole cannot be greater than the sum of the parts reduced to a weighted average. Moreover, among the 261,000 miles of railway in the United States, there is some mileage that is as useless and obsolete as the sailing ships which were abandoned when the supremacy of steam was established upon the ocean."

The commission consented to listen to Mr. Loree's criticisms of the "tentative plan" at which he scoffed, that being the purpose for which he had been asked to appear.

Criticises "Tentative Plan."

"The plan," said Mr. Loree, "would seem to have the effect of greatly augmenting the power of the New York Central.

"Professor Ripley recommended the union of the essential portion of the Boston & Maine with the Delaware & Hudson, unless a separate New England system would be established. He characterized the suggestion that the Boston & Maine should be united with the New York Central as 'the baldest proposal,' and said that it would cut down 'competition at most New England centres.'

"Notwithstanding the foregoing, the 'tentative plan,' without a word of explanation of the departure from the views advocated by the expert employed by the commission, has assigned the Boston & Maine to the New York Central.

"Mr. Loree said the Delaware & Hudson was 'under duress' as a result of the consolidation proposals, as it occupied the position of being in a satisfactory situation as things now stood, but realized that if there was to be a general consolidation of the railroads operating in the region of its properties, the Delaware & Hudson, 'if left isolated and alone, would suffer to the extent of disaster.'

Makes Two Suggestions.

Mr. Loree remarked that he had two suggestions to make as to the New England railroads if consolidation must come about. They were: First, that the New England railways located north of the Boston & Albany (the Boston & Maine, Maine Central, Bangor & Aroostook and Central Vermont) be united with those of the Delaware & Hudson Company.

That the New England railways, located north of the Boston & Albany, be united with those of the Boston & Albany, and that the Delaware & Hudson and the New York Central Railroad Company become owners of equal interests in the consolidated property.

Concerning trunk line territory, Mr. Loree suggested that trunk line termini constituted a natural boundary between Eastern and central systems, and it might be desirable to maintain this boundary between the consolidated systems. If this course was followed, he recommended the following as a "useful, efficient and self-sustaining system":

Delaware & Hudson, West Shore, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Lehigh Valley, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, Philadelphia & Reading (one-fourth interest) and Central Railroad of New Jersey (one-fourth interest).

Mr. Loree said that although it was his opinion that it was better to extend none of the consolidated system reaching the Atlantic seaboard beyond the established trunk line termini, he would suggest still another grouping if that was done. This included the Delaware & Hudson, West Shore, Delaware Lackawanna & Western, Lehigh Valley, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, Philadelphia & Reading (one-fourth interest), Central Railroad of New Jersey (one-fourth interest), Bessemer & Lake Erie, Reading & Lake Erie, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Western Maryland, Wabash, and Grand Trunk (lines west of Sarnia and Detroit River).

William G. Besler, President of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, appeared to object to the consolidation of his railroad with the Baltimore & Ohio.

MISS CARROLL TO WED JOHN M. BOISSEVAIN

Horsewoman's Marriage to Son of G. Louis Boissevain to Take Place in September.

The wedding of Miss Estelle Brandriff Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Carroll of 2,119 Albemarle Terrace, Flatbush, and John Magee Boissevain of Fresno, Cal., a son of G. Louis Boissevain, and of Mrs. A. Magee Boissevain of 993 Park Avenue, New York, will take place next September, when Mr. Boissevain is coming East for his bride.

Miss Carroll is a granddaughter of the late John Vincent Carroll, owner of the Fleetwood Stables, whose thoroughbreds won many racing blue ribbons. Miss Carroll is a horsewoman and exhibits at horse shows. She is a descendant of the Carrols of Carrollton, Md.

Mr. Boissevain, who is 22, attended St. Paul's School and later went to Harvard. He is now in business and, after a trip East, is leaving in two weeks for the Pacific Slope. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll are entertaining this evening with an engagement dinner at the Vanderbilt.

EARL OF BREADALBANE WAS WEDDED SECRETLY

Peer Who Died Recently Left a Widow, Who Was Marie Reeves Hunt, an Actress.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 19.—According to The Daily Mail, the secret has leaked out that the Earl of Breadalbane, who died last week, was not a bachelor, as was generally supposed, so that his widow, who was formerly Marie Laura Reeves Hunt, an actress, must henceforth be recognized as Marie, Countess of Breadalbane.

The Earl succeeded to the title last October, on the death of his uncle, but it was in 1916 as Iain Edward Herbert Campbell, Naval Lieutenant, that he married Miss Reeves Hunt at a registry office in London.

MISS MARTIN'S WEDDING.

Cohen of this city, is to take place on Thursday, June 14, at the Ambassador. Dr. Cohen, who is a graduate of Columbia and the College of Physicians and Surgeons, served overseas as a Major in the Medical Corps during the war.

I. K. Taylor Again Decorated by Italy

Irving K. Taylor of this city has for the second time received special recognition from the King of Italy for his services in promoting Italian benefactions here as well as building up commercial intercourse between the two countries. By the latest decoration Mr. Taylor becomes a chevalier of the Order of Santi Maurizio e Lazzaro, one of the highest decorations bestowed upon foreigners. Previously he was made a chevalier of the Crown of Italy.

Dinner to Colonel and Mrs. Birch.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip G. Gossler, who live at the Plaza, gave a dinner at the hotel last night for Colonel and Mrs. T. H. Birch, who have recently returned from Portugal. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lee Conant, Mrs. da Silva, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fuller and De Cunha Gomez.

HUNTER ALUMNAE GIVE BENEFIT FAIR

AIDED BY STUDENT BODY

Entertainments and Dancing Provided—Patrons Have Chance to Win $100 and $500 Bonds.

Ten thousand Hunter College alumnae, co-operating with the undergraduates, inaugurated a fair yesterday on the grounds of the college, Sixty-eighth Street and Park Avenue, to raise funds to erect a building for alumnae activities. The fair will continue today and it is hoped to make as substantial a contribution as possible to the $75,000 needed to complete the $150,000 required.

Mrs. William H. Popper, President of the Hunter Associate Alumnae, and Mrs. Harry Lilly are directing the fair, which consists of a variety of entertainments with dancing in the street at the Sixty-eighth Street side of the college.

The event is known as the Wistaria Festival and the color tone is lavender. Fair hours yesterday were from 3 to 11 P. M. and today they will be from 10 A. M. to 11 P. M. A feature is booths of all kinds, notable among these being the cake booth and the flower booth. Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim is one of the large contributors of flowers.

Motion pictures of Jackie Coogan in "Daddy" were shown yesterday for the visiting children and will be repeated today at 10:15 A. M. and 2 P.M in the auditorium. Remo Buffamo's marionettes were another feature and will be given again this afternoon, with two performances in the evening. The annual reunion with a complimentary concert for the alumnae will take place in the chapel at 2 P. M.

The festival goes on, rain or shine, and any one drawing a "lucky entrance ticket" gets a $100 bond. Shares of Alumnae Hall are being sold at $1 each and the buyer of a "lucky share" wins a $500 bond.

Invitations to spend the day have been sent out and at the restaurant there is a plentiful food supply.

FIND SUICIDE'S BODY FLOATING IN HUDSON

Believed to Be William A. Abbott, Former State Commissioner of Workmen's Compensation.

Special to The New York Times.

COLD SPRING, N. Y., May 18.—The body of an elderly man was fished out of the Hudson near here this morning by the crew of a New York Central Railroad train, who turned it over to Coroner George A. Logan of Putnam County. It is believed to be that of William A. Abbott, former State Commissioner of Workmen's Compensation, who has been missing from his home in Albany since last February.

Mr. Abbott disappeared after he had written a letter to John D. O'Donnell, a lawyer of New York, in which he said that by the time the letter was received he would be in the Hudson River with a weight about his neck. The body tallied with a description of Abbott in every way, and a four-foot length of a rope, to which a weight probably had been tied, was found coiled about the dead man's neck. A laundry mark, "W. A. Abb" on the collar was another suggestion of the man's identity.

The body was clad in a heavy gray Winter overcoat and a Winter suit. Several business cards, one of the Ocean Guaranty Trust Company of Newark, were found in the pockets. The Beacon police recalled that early last February the crew of the Beacon-Newburgh ferry had reported that a passenger who had made several trips across the river on the ferry had jumped overboard.

The description of the man reported missing by the ferry's crew tallied with the description of the body found today. Abbott's sudden disappearance on Jan. 29 was reported as due to financial difficulties. A nephew and Mr. O'Donnell have been asked by the Coroner to identify the body.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DEMANDS HIS DRUM

Many Compatriots Hear Him Tell the Court of His Service Under Grant.

Baker Post of the Sons of Veterans, Grand Army of the Republic, had a band in its parade on Memorial Day Last year. Prominent was a Civil War drum, which was beaten by Edward Kessler of 534 West Forty-eighth Street. The drum was lent to Kessler for the occasion, and he kept it until yesterday, refusing to return it to the owner, Samuel Hodkinson, 80 years old, who carried it through Vicksburg and Gettysburg, at the head of the Sixty-second Ohio Volunteer Infantry under General Grant.

This was Mr. Hodkinson's testimony in West Side Court yesterday before Magistrate Sweetser. Kessler promised to return the drum at once. The Magistrate said he would issue a warrant for his arrest if he failed to do so. Kessler's defense was that the drum had been given to him.

Mr. Hodkinson said that he valued the drum for sentimental reasons, as well as for its worth as an antique, because it was the drum he had carried under Grant, and Grant was the General he admired the most. Hence, he lived at Grantwood, N. J., opposite Grant's tomb, he explained. He said that if Grant had been at the head of the American armies in France, the armistice would not have taken so long in coming.

MISS PLUNKETT CAPTURED.

Free State Authorities Seize Count's Daughter With Documents.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

DUBLIN, May 18.—Miss Plunkett, daughter of Count Plunkett, himself in prison, was arrested near Ballyhaunta, County Mayo, last night.

She was hiding on the roadside when surprised by soldiers. She gave a false name and was found in possession of maps and important dispatches, some of which she endeavored to destroy by eating them.

For some time past it has been stated in republican circles that if fighting resumed it would be in Counties Mayo and Galway, and it is suggested that Miss Plunkett was organizing in this district. In this respect her capture is regarded as most important.

ARREST BADEN DYE HEADS.

French Seize Three Directors, Probably as Hostages.

LUDWIGSHAFEN, Germany, May 18.—Three Directors of the Baden Aniline and Soda Works have been arrested by the French. The Germans understand they are being held as hostages, but say they do not know the reason.

Three hundred unemployed Alsatians arrived in Ludwigshafen today to work on the removal of dyestuffs from the aniline and soda works, which were seized recently by the French.

In German quarters it is stated that the French and Belgians intend to remove 280 tons of dyestuffs before evacuating the plants.

LAWYER JUSTIFIED IN QUITTING CLIENT

Appellate Division Holds Attorney Need Not Undertake Defense Which He Dislikes.

Where there is lack of sympathy and want of confidence between counsel and client an attorney need not undertake a defense when ordered to do so by the Court, this was established yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn in a decision setting aside an order of Supreme Court Justice Strong assigning Dr. Philip A. Brennan, a Brooklyn attorney, to defend Mrs. Loretta Thompson, who is to be tried for manslaughter in having killed an eleven-year-old boy while driving her automobile. The decision holds in the particular case at issue and does not, the Court decided, wherefore a lawyer can refuse a reasonable assignment to defend.

The action of Dr. Brennan in refusing to serve as Mrs. Thompson's attorney and so delaying the case, has attracted great attention among lawyers. The opinion of the Appellate Division was written by Justice Rich and concurred in by Justices Kelly, Jaycox, Manning and Kapper.

SUES PARISIAN PAINTERS.

Monticelli's Nephew Says They Slandered Artist in Calling Him Poor.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 18.—For saying that the famous painter, Adolphe Monticelli, had been poor, the almost equally well-known painter Van Dongen and three confreres, Camille Mauclair, Henri Laupaude and Jean Doethieux, appeared in the Correctional Court today to answer a charge of defamation brought by Monticelli's nephew.

The alleged defamatory remarks were made at a lecture when, explaining the influence of Monticelli's work upon younger painters in general and the impressionists in particular, M. Van Dongen called attention to the isolation and hardships of Monticelli's life and expressed the opinion that they had broadened his genius.

At today's hearing the defense maintained that Monticelli was no less great for having been poor, and that no artist was any greater for being a nouveau riche.

The case was adjourned for a fortnight, and M. Van Dongen's only remark was:

"If the court, after keeping me silent for four hours, had heard me I would have told them that, although I love the work of Monticelli much, I love my own more."

DENIES D. A. R. "HYSTERIA."

Mrs. Minor Declares the Recent Congress Was Quiet and Orderly.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Mrs. George Maynard Minor, former President General of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in exception today to published reports that "hysterical excitement" had attended the election of officers of the organization during the session here a month ago.

"There was no disorder, no fight (so-called), no hysteria," Mrs. Minor said. "All sessions of the congress were, as usual, quiet and dignified, and the voting was conducted in the usual orderly manner.

"A few policemen and firemen are always on duty at all of our annual congresses, in accordance with the laws of the District of Columbia, which require their presence in all theatres and convention halls. These regular men, a half dozen or less, were on duty as usual, and assisted in keeping the long lines of voters moving quickly through the lobbies and corridors, helping to avoid a crush at narrow doorways, in the way in which all such lines are kept moving."

SEES NO CHANCE FOR FORD.

Palmer Says McAdoo or Underwood Is Favored in Pennsylvania.

The "Ford for President" movement is making no headway in Pennsylvania, according to A. Mitchell Palmer, who was Attorney General in the last Wilson Administration. Sentiment among Pennsylvania Democrats, Mr. Palmer said at the Biltmore last night, largely favors William G. McAdoo, former U. S. Secretary of the Treasury, for the Presidential nomination. There is some sentiment, according to Mr. Palmer, for Senator Underwood of Alabama.

Mr. Palmer expressed the opinion that Gifford Pinchot, Republican Governor of the commonwealth, would find himself deep in troubles before long.

"As a candidate for Governor Mr. Pinchot ran on an economy platform," he said. "Instead of cutting down expenses, however, his Administration is adding some $30,000,000 to the State budget."

Larsen Jr. of the Geological Survey has been appointed Professor of Petrography at Harvard, to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Professor John Eliot Wolff, who is to give up active teaching at the close of this college year. Dr. Larsen is a graduate of the University of California.

URGES ARBITRATION OF BANK DISPUTES

Redfield, Member of Wilson's Cabinet, Would Endow a "Professorship of Time."

Declaring that billions of dollars are now "frozen assets" because they are tied up in litigation, Judge Moses H. Grossman urged the extension of arbitration into banking fields, at a luncheon given by the Arbitration Society of America yesterday at the Bankers' Club, 120 Broadway.

"Arbitration," said Judge Grossman, "will not only save vast sums of money used in endless litigation, but, what is even more important, it will relieve the congestion in the court calendars. Judges are at present unable to cope with the mass of litigation in the courts. Moreover, in the interest of justice, arbitration is imperative in many cases, for verdicts are often the result of sympathy rather than evidence. It is obvious that an arbitrator, familiar with all aspects of the question under dispute, and free to consult at will the highest legal and technical authorities, is in an infinitely better position to render a just decision than a jury made up of untrained men confused by a mass of conflicting testimony."

Judge Julian W. Mack of hte United States Circuit Court, although favoring the principle of arbitration, said that in certain cases, as in disputes between capital and labor, it was dangerous, and that mediation and conciliation, rather than arbitration, were needed. He pointed out that the bankers, as leading business men of the community, should point the way in arbitration, and should strive to induce other States to enact arbitration laws similar to the arbitration laws of New York. The idea should not be carried too far, he said, and arbitration clauses should not be included in all contracts, in order to make recourse to the courts impossible.

William C. Redfield, Chairman of the Arbitration Committee of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce and a member of President Wilson's Cabinet, declared that one outstanding service that arbitration could render would be the prevention of the "fool postponements of the law."

"If I had as much in United States currency as there are German marks in circulation," he said, "I would endow a Professorship of Time in our leading law schools, and send out into the world lawyers equipped with a sense of time."

The luncheon was a part of the activities of Arbitration Week. Charles L. Bernheimer, Chairman of the Arbitration Committee of the New York State Chamber of Commerce, presided.

Among those present were O. H. Cheney, President, Pacific Bank; William A. Collins, analyst, Seaboard National Bank; Willard V. King, Chairman Advisory Board, Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company; John H. Love, Treasurer, Marchants' Association of New York; Bernard K. Marcus, Vice President; Bank of the United States; Joseph Mayper, Joseph Pulvermacher, manager, Chase National Bank; John M. Ross, Vice President, Coal and Iron National Bank; Frederick White Shepard, Sammy Strauss, Jr., and Slade Alexander, D. Walker, Chairman Arbitration Committee, the Silk Association; M. J. Warner, Chairman Arbitration Committee the Converters' Association.

HAMMOND FINDS RATES ON HARD COAL TOO HIGH

Commerce Commission Will Be Asked to Reduce Them, Says Coal Board Chairman.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Railroad rates on anthracite coal shipments are too high, John Hays Hammond, Chairman of the Coal Commission, declared today in a discussion of the commission's fact-finding operations in the coal industry.

Although the members of the commission have not prepared their report on the anthracite industry, Chairman Hammond indicated that they were nearly a unit in considering railroad rate reductions necessary in the interest of the consumer.

Rates on anthracite are considerably higher for equal distances, Mr. Hammond said, than the rates on bituminous coal, although railroads perform almost identical service in transporting the two commodities. In addition, he said a large part of the anthracite is sold in competition with the bituminous, and, in the opinion of the commission, the facts justify a recommendation to the Interstate Commerce Commission and the railroads for a general reduction in anthracite rates.

BOY, 3, DROWNS IN BARREL.

Falls Into Hole in Vacant Lot While Parents Are Fixing Auto.

While August Bauer, a policeman attached to the 104th Street Station, and his wife, Emma, were tinkering over an automobile back of their home at 1,361 Taylor Avenue, the Bronx, their only child, William, 3 years old, slipped away unnoticed and was drowned in a hole in a near-by vacant lot. An hour's work with artificial respiration and a pulmotor from Fordham Hospital in charge of Dr. Sabatino failed to revive him.

ORVILLE T. WARING, OIL PIONEER, DEAD

Early Partner of Rockefeller in the Standard Dies in His Plainfield Home at 83.

Orville Taylor Waring, friend and former associate of John D. Rockefeller and until he retired three years ago a Director of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, died early yesterday morning at his home, 900 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J. He was 83 years old. Mr. Waring had been a sufferer for a long time from cancer of the throat. For the last three months he had been confined to his bed.

When a young man, Mr. Waring went from his birthplace, Ballston Spa, N. Y. to the Pennsylvania oil fields, where he became one of the big owners and operators. He established refineries in Pittsburgh and later in Philadelphia under the firm name of Waring, Hing & Co. With the consolidation of a number of big oil interests resulting in the forming of the Standard Oil Company, Mr. Waring joined with John D. Rockefeller in the merging of independents into the big corporation. He was made a Director and Chairman of the lubricating oils branch and also took charge of the real estate department.

In 1878, four years after the founding of the Standard Oil, Mr. Waring moved to Plainfield, N. J. He was one of the founders of the Plainfield Trust Company and was its only President. He was a Director of the Westfield (N. J.) Trust Company, Vice President and Director of the Rossendale-Reddaway Belting and Hose Company of Newark and President and Director of the Hillside Cemetery Company. For a number of years he was President of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club. He was also a member of the Union League Club of New York.

Among those who have been sending telegrams almost daily inquiring as to Mr. Waring's condition was John D. Rockefeller.

LINK POLICE CAPTAIN WITH NEWARK CRIME

FINDS AN ORGANIZED BAND

Departmental Clean-Up Starts as Result of Policeman's Killing During Robbery.

The conduct of a Newark police captain is under scrutiny in the investigation of alleged crookedness among certain members of the force, Director of Public Safety Brennan admitted yesterday. He said he was also investigating a story that another captain had been offered a $10,000 bribe in a bootleg deal, and that Mrs. Adam Dresch, wife of a fugitive accused of murder and burglary, had declared her husband's capture would be followed by the stripping of four gold badges.

These developments came as the result of the fatal shooting last Friday morning of Patrolman Peter Bederaki, during the robbery of a furniture store, in which it is charged Bederaki, Dresch, Patrolman Theodore Schaeffer and others were involved. Dresch was dismissed two years ago from the Newark force. Among the eleven men now in custody is an Orange substitute policeman, William Mustock.

Director Brennan said he has received many anonymous letters accusing various members of the force of connection with bootleggers and burglars. One of the reports he is investigating is that a certain captain was offered or received thousands of dollars for escorting trucks laden with booze into Newark, using his own automobile to guide and guard the trucks.

Another report is that another captain was offered $10,000 to convoy a truck of liquor, and that this captain refused. Brennan admitted he had heard rumors that there is a three-cornered alliance, with certain policemen, bootleggers and crooks, and a legal agency as members.

The Director said that John McKenna, the burglar in Essex County Jail awaiting sentence, was not the only New York man imported to instruct the band in the finesse of crime. Dan McGowan, a New York crook, he said, also was taken there for the same purpose. McGowan is said to be one of the men who escaped during the Friday morning shooting.

"I have already accomplished much in my investigation," said Brennan. "When I have a complete case I will move swiftly, regardless of whom we hit. There is to be no sensational shake-up in the department. A shake-up is not necessarily the best remedy for the evil."

Captain of Detectives Brex announced he had been instructed by Brennan "to go the limit" in the investigation and "to perform a major operation in the department if necessary."

LINDBERG IN RACE FOR NELSON'S SEAT

Files as Farmer-Labor Candidate for Minnesota Senator—Schall and Preus Expected to Follow.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 18.—Charles A. Lindbergh of Little Falls, former Congressman from the Sixth District, today filed with the Secretary of State an affidavit of his intention to become a candidate on the Farmer-Labor ticket at the special primary election June 18 to nominate candidates for United States Senator to succeed the late Knute Nelson. He was the first person to file.

Thomas D. Schall of Minneapolis, now Congressman from the Tenth Minnesota District, has announced his intention of filing.

Numerous others have been mentioned as likely to seek the nomination and election on July 16. Possible candidates include Governor Preus. The Governor has made no definite announcement about his plans, but his friends declare he will file.

POISON PEN WRITER AGAIN ANNOYS RYAN

Financier Receives Another Message, Which Police Believe to Be Work of a Crank.

Allan A. Ryan, who recently caused the indictment of George Maxwell, President of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, on the charge of writing and mailing scandalous letters about Mrs. Ryan, received another anonymous letter of the "poison-pen" variety in the mail yesterday morning. The financier hurried to the District Attorney's office and turned over the missive to Assistant District Attorney Kilroe. Mr. Ryan appeared to be greatly agitated over its contents.

The authorities indicated their belief that the letter was the work of a crank, and was not sent by the same person or by any accomplice of the person who during the last ten years has sent "poison-pen" letters about nine prominent women, including Mrs. Ryan. Instead of being typed, as the original letters and envelopes were, the letter and envelope received by Mr. Ryan yesterday were written in pencil. Yesterday's communication was sent in the regular mail, and not by special delivery, as were the original letters. The new letter contained scurrilous references to Mr. and Mrs. Ryan and to Maxwell, but they were not couched in the same tone as the letters already in the District Attorney's office.

Ryan declined to discuss the latest letter with reporters. "Please don't ask me why I called," he said to reporters, as he hurried away from the prosecutor's office. The financier came face to face in the corridor outside Mr. Banton's office with Nathan Burkan, attorney for Maxwell, but neither spoke.

It was reported that Burkan wished to see District Attorney Banton about a new development in the case. Mr. Banton was not at the office yesterday afternoon and the attorney is expected to call to see him again today.

Acting District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora said that he knew nothing of a report, circulated yesterday afternoon, to the effect that friends of Maxwell had discovered evidence pointing to a woman as the author of the "poison pen" letters and that this woman's arrest was imminent.

Mr. Pecora said that Burkan called at the District Attorney's office late Thursday afternoon with two men whom he assumes were handwriting and typewriting experts and asked permission to examine the letters.

"I granted this permission," Mr. Pecora went on, "and they stayed about an hour, comparing the letters one with another, and examining them carefully. They expressed no opinion to me, and did not make known any deductions they may have drawn."

According to one report of the activities of Maxwell's friends, they have located a typewriter in the boudoir of a woman who was suspected several years ago, at the time Albert R. Gallatin complained of letters linking his wife's name with Maxwell's, of having sent the letters, but who was exonerated at that time. Some of Maxwell's friends believe that the letters are the work of a widow whom he antagonized several years ago.

The authorities believe, however, that the letters were written by a man, and that if the letter writer had an accomplice, the accomplice was also a man.

Set yourself straight on these

Bran facts!

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give—you must be certain to get Kellogg's Bran, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! You haven't time to waste on 25 per cent or 50 per cent relief when you know that Kellogg's Bran will give you 100 per cent relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's Bran is a necessity!

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL BRAN—is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

If you would realize how delicious Kellogg's Bran is—cooked, krumbled and ready to eat—and what it means to your health—you would not lose a minute starting to eat it! All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran in the Red and Green package.

"You Know You Belong to Somebody Else"

IF there is any one thing that has made Nora Bayes popular, it's her way of singing her songs right at you. Sometimes she is full of burlesque, mimicry, laughter. Sometimes there's a sob in her throat, but always she's singing to you. "You Know You Belong to Somebody Else," Columbia New Process Record A-3862, is a waltz song with a bit of heart throb that Nora does deliciously. She sings it with a fine artistic sense, in a richly musical voice which records with delightful naturalness.

You'll be enthusiastic over this selection and you'll like "Dearest," the encore on the other side, as well. Both are Nora at her charming best.

But this record, from the June program, is only a sample of the good things in this newest Columbia release. All of the new records listed here are Columbia New Process Records—made with the wonderfully quiet surface that eliminates the annoying scratch and scrape of needle noise.

Tear out this list, take it to your Columbia Dealer and listen in on this delightful program of latest dance hits, newest songs and choice symphony selections.

All Columbia Records can be played on any phonograph.

Only in Columbia New Process Records will you find a positive freedom from distressing needle grind. The process is patented. No one else can produce anything even resembling Columbia's construction and improved surface.

NEW SUBWAY OFFER OPPOSED BY BOARD

AGAINST BUILDING 2 LINES

HIRSHFIELD SEES A 'CATCH'

Resents Advocacy by Machold and Says His Reward Will Be Nomination for Governor.

Mayor Hylan and the other members of the Board of Estimate probably will reject the overtures of the Transit Commission for a compromise on new subway routes, fearing acceptance might jeopardize the Mayor's plan for a municipally operated system.

It was said the Commission's plan would lead to the operation of the two lines, immediate construction of which is proposed by the Commission, by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company or, perhaps, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

This, it was learned yesterday upon excellent authority, is the Mayor's position, and probably will be after his transit advisers have completed a study of the proposals put forward by George McAneny, Chairman of the Commission.

The Mayor, it was said, looks with particular suspicion upon the Commission's proposal to go ahead at once with the construction of the Brooklyn crosstown line and the Washington Heights extension of the Broadway subway. If private operation is to be continued, it was pointed out, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company would be the natural operator of the Washington Heights extension and probably of the Brooklyn crosstown line, although the latter subway might be linked up with the Interborough system.

Friends of the Mayor said that he remained unalterably opposed to the construction by the city of any subways to be operated either by the Interborough or the B. R. T. It was said further that to build these two lines, the cost of which is estimated to approximately $80,000,000, might so use up the city's borrowing margin that there would be no money left to put through the Mayor's plan to recapture some of the existing subways as the nucleus of a municipally operated system.

If the Brooklyn crosstown line and the Washington Heights extension should be built, and the Mayor failed in his recapture program—a failure that is probable should the Transit Commission being the legal agency vested with the power of recapture—the result in the view of the Mayor's advisors would be operation by one of the existing companies, or operation by the city of separate lines that began and ended nowhere.

The admission by friends of the Mayor that the city might not be able to find money to build new lines and recapture old ones was first admission that the Mayor's transit plan might not be practicable. It was said that the only hope of its practicability lay in the expectation that the recaptured lines would prove profitable, that the city's investment in them would be released by the court from the debt limit, and that the money thus released would then be used in the construction of new lines.

Might Affect on One Unit.

According to a person in the Mayor's confidence, the Board of Estimate might consider a proposal from the Transit Commission for the construction of the proposed Eighth Avenue subway. This line would be a complete unit in itself and could be operated by the city independently of any of the existing rapid transit systems. In case such a proposal should be made and accepted, the Mayor porbably would attempt to recapture the east side Interborough subway instead of the west side subway, which he proposed to recapture in his present plan.

No comment upon the transit situation could be obtained from the commission. The feeling of its members is that the commission's suggestion for the building of new lines at once, leaving the question of operation to be decided later, will meet with a popular response in view of the necessity for new lines.

It is the intention of the commission to press its program for new subways, expressing a willingness to meet the Mayor and the Board of Estimate on details of routes, and to place the responsibility for any further delay in the subway construction squarely upon the City Administration.

In view of the fact that there can be no recapture of existing subways anyway before 1926, the members of the commission are said to feel that delay in new construction until that time would be an unthinkable catastrophe to the New York public.

Pressure of residents of localities without adequate rapid transit facilities, property owners, civic organizations and the public generally is expected to work for some sort of an agreement between the board and the commission.

Hirshfield Sees "Catch."

The Mayor's suspicion that the commission's proposal might have a "catch" in it was echoed yesterday by Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield, who intimated that the catch might be operation. Mr. Hirshfield called George McAneny, Chairman of the commission, and M. Edmund Machold, Speaker of the Assembly, transit partners. He said:

"While owing to pressure of work in the office, which kept me busy all day and all evening yesterday, I have been unable to study Chairman McAneny's letter from what I read of it, it seems to me as if the Transit Commissioner's magnanimous offer is to permit the Board of Estimate to appropriate money for new subways without regard as to who will operate these subways when completed.

"This is exactly what was contained in the Jesse transit bill, so called, put through the Assembly by Speaker Machold, the boss of the Legislature which adjourned only about two or three weeks ago. The Walker-Donohue bill, advocated by Mayor Hylan, provided that the city should regulate and operate city-built subways, and Machold killed that bill because of that.

"While I have not yet fully digested Chairman McAneny's letter to the Mayor, I am satisfied that its purpose is purely political and that the Mayor is right when he says that there must be some catch in it. One must always beware of enemies who bring gifts without adopting the white flag, for they may have deadly weapons hidden on their persons.

"The fact that Chairman McAneny's letter to the Mayor was published on the same day on which Speaker Machold (who saved this Transit Commission's life in office) made his two speeches in Manhattan is very significant, for we are told that Speaker Machold, like the Transit Commissioners, is to be rewarded for his services by the traction-Wall-Street-owned Republican Party. The Republican Gubernatorial nomination next year is to be his prize.

"The people know that to retain the 5-cent carfare the Mayor and his Administration had to submit to persecutions and investigations by Grand Juries and Legislative committees."

OPPONENTS DELAY PARKWAY TROLLEY

Granting of Franchise Is Expected at Next Meeting of Estimate Board Despite Protests.

HYLAN AGAINST BUSES

Says They Would Not Pay on Pelham Highway With 5-Cent Fare —Favors Trackless System.

The Board of Estimate failed yesterday to approve the application of Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, for $173,224 in corporate stock to establish a trackless trolley system on Pelham Parkway, the Bronx, between White Plains Road and Eastern Boulevard. Objection to this method of transportation on a parkway has been made by many residents of the Bronx, Park Commissioner Joseph P. Hennessy and a number of organizations.

The failure to approve the application was only temporary as, under the rules, twelve votes are necessary for passage on the first call of such an item on the board's calendar. Controller Charles L. Craig and Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen, with six votes between them, voted against the application, while Mayor Hylan and the five Borough Presidents contributed a total of ten votes for it. The application went over for a week, when only a majority vote of the board will be necessary to pass it.

In the discussion of the application Controller Craig and Mr. Hulbert each favored buses. The Mayor opposed buses on the ground that they could not be operated profitably if that locality on a five-cent fare.

"It is an unjustified use of public money," Controller Craig said. "And further, these trackless trolleys would desecrate Pelham Parkway. There is no traffic necessity for them in that section. If the city wants to provide means of transportation up there, let it be buses."

"The difference between buses and trackless trolleys," replied the Mayor, "is that the latter can pay for their upkeep at a five-cent fare in that particular locality while the buses cannot."

The board referred to its Committee of the Whole the application of the Eastern Parkway, Brownsville and East New York Transit Relief Association, Inc., for a franchise to operate a bus line from Eastern Parkway and Utica Avenue, Brooklyn, along Eastern Parkway, Pitkin Avenue and other streets to the city line.

Former Alderman Alexander S. Drescher, attorney for the association, explained that the association operated buses in June and September of last year under a permit issued by the Department of Plant and Structures, but was stopped by an injunction. He said that these buses carried 2,250,000 passengers during the two months.

"The need for this bus line is apparent, as the present transit facilities are inadequate," Mr. Drescher said. "The business people of Brownsville are backing the project strongly, as Pitkin Avenue, which is the 'Wall Street, Broadway and Maiden Lane' of the Brownsville and East New York section, is entirely neglected by local surface cars."

TRANSIT BOARD AGAIN HEARS FROM EMERICK

Harkness Accuses Him of Trying to Break Up Proceedings at B. R. T. Plan Hearing.

James B. Emerick, chairman and counsel of the Ridgewood Community Council, who was arrested last month on a charge of disorderly conduct at a hearing of the Transit Commission, but was discharged in Magistrate's Court, interrupted the Commission again yesterday during a hearing on the proposed Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company reorganization plan.

Mr. Emerick, who was accompanied by thirty women members of the Council, characterized the hearing as a "star chamber proceeding."

"I want to tell you that you are not recognized in these proceedings," said Commissioner Le Roy T. Harkness, who was presiding, after Mr. Emerick had interrupted repeatedly. "You are breaking in here by force. I see that you are here with a claque for the purpose of breaking up these proceedings. These constant interruptions are very disagreeable to the members of the commission and the counsel here, although they may be pleasing to you. You have no more right to come in here and talk whenever you please than you would in a court of law."

"You had me arrested in this very room," Mr. Emerick retorted. "When you went before a court you found out that you were wrong. The law is with me. You are breaking the law, not I."

Mr. Emerick protested when Assistant Corporation Counsel M. Maldwin Fertig asked that a question of his be stricken from the record so that he might frame a new one more in accordance with legal procedure. After trying repeatedly to get Mr. Emerick to sit down, Commissioner Harkness finally said:

"You are a disgrace to your profession to come up here to break up these proceedings."

"I don't care what you think of me," Mr. Emerick rejoined. "What I want to get on the record is that this is not the first time the commission has attempted to doctor the minutes."

Most of the day, when Mr. Emerick was not speaking, was devoted to cross-examination of John H. Madden, the commission's valuation engineer, on the value of B. R. T. property by Mr. Fertig. At the latter's request the hearing was adjourned until next Wednesday.

TIKHON PROTEST MEETING.

Russians Called to Act on Prosecution of Patriarch in Russia.

A mass meeting will be held at Carnegie Hall tomorrow evening by Russians and Russian sympathizers in this city to protest against the reported persecution of Tikhon, Holy Patriarch of Russia by the Bolshevists. The Rev. Peter J. Popoff of the Russian Cathedral of St. Nicholas, one of the organizers of the meeting, said of it yesterday:

"We have decided to request all Christian denominations to have their respective speakers address the audience so as to make it clear that not only are we Russians deeply shocked by the cruel persecution of the Russian Church in Soviet Russia, but that it is the unanimous outcry of indignation of all Christians regardless of denomination against the horrible rule of the Red Beast."

ASK SMITH TO VETO BILL FOR NEW JUDGES

URGED TO SIGN POLICE BILL

This Measure Also Puts the Minimum Salary of First-Grade Firemen at $2,500.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 18.—Of the many New York City bills awaiting the action of Governor Smith, the two which seem to have attracted the most attention, if the hundreds of letters which are received daily at the Executive Chamber are to be taken as a criterion, provide for a minimum salary of $2,500 for first grade patrolmen and firemen and for four new Supreme Court Justices in Manhattan and the Bronx. The salary bill would go before the voters next Fall.

While virtually every letter urges the Governor to approve the salary measure, scores of protests have been filed against that providing for the additional Judges.

Since the salary bill was drawn as a State measure, although affecting only New York City, Mayor Hylan will not act on it. The bill, however, has been sent to him for his opinion. It is understood here that owing to the referendum feature, which makes it a purely home rule measure, the Mayor will not oppose the signing of it by the Governor.

Among the telegrams received, one from Rodman Wanamaker said:

"The referendum bill for a police and fire minimum wage deserves approval as a strictly home rule measure to allow the people to decide an important question of city policy."

Others who have written or telegraphed to the Governor to approve the bill are President Bruckner of the Bronx, President Lynch of Richmond, former United States Senator Calder and Morris Joseph of the New York Stock Exchange.

Professor Leslie J. Tompkins of the Law Department of New York University asserted in a letter that there was no need for four additional Supreme Court Justices in the First Judicial District, which embraces Manhattan and the Bronx. He asked that the Governor give a hearing on the Cotillo bill under which the four new Judgeships would be created.

In his letter to the Governor, Professor Tomkins said:

"This bill, as you know, was passed during the rush of the closing days of the Legislature and no opportunity was given to the citizens of the First Judicial District to enter any objections to it because of the fact that those who were at all interested were in receipt of reports to the effect that the bill would never get out of committee.

"The bill is objectionable because there is no real need for an increase of Justices in this district at this time. There is no congestion of the calendar with respect to contract and tort cases. There is no congestion with respect to equity cases or commercial cases.

"Presiding Justice Clark of the Appellate Division has more than once explained how this congestion arose, to wit: That it was due to the aftermath of the war. It is temporary in character only and the presence of the First Judicial District can easily take care of this matter. As a matter of fact, they are catching up on the calendar and in another year or two the congestion will have passed.

"This bill is objectionable in that it seeks to add four Justices to the First Judicial District as a permanent matter. The entire situation can be remedied under the present judiciary law by temporarily assigning Justices to this district from up State.

"To sign this bill would mean adding new expense to the already over-taxed public. There is not a single inch of space in the County Court House for these new Judges. The consequence is that we will have to go outside and hire new quarters if this unnecessary measure becomes law. To the additional equipment which goes with every new Judge and every new part that is created. It has been estimated that the addition of the four new Judges will place upon the people an additional burden of $250,000 each year.

PREACHER FASTS 21 DAYS.

Kentucky Evangelist Weakens as Effort for Converts Lacks Results.

Special to The New York Times.

JAMESTOWN, Ky., May 18.—The Rev. Joseph Woolridge, having neither eaten nor drank for twenty-one days, was so weak tonight that he feared he could not continue a revival at a country church near here. He is on a voluntary fast, during which he is holding a protracted meeting, praying day and night for converts who have not materialized.

It is Woolridge's sixth fast since last July, when he starved himself more than two weeks because his daughter Delia would not accept his call to Christianity.

Friends today urged Woolridge to resume taking food, but he declined. He is preaching nightly and has to be assisted to and from the church.

Woolridge is a Methodist. He says he began fasting while in Missouri about three years ago. He declares that he fasts until God manifests to him by converts that his prayers have been heard. His only refreshment during the twenty-one days has been an occasional sip of water to prevent his mouth from becoming excessively dry. He says he has swallowed none.

LEVIATHAN SAFELY BERTHED

Giant Steamship Reaches Boston From Newport News.

BOSTON, May 18. — The Shipping Board steamship Leviathan, described as the largest vessel in the world, arrived at the Navy dry dock here today to be reconditioned for the transatlantic service. The voyage from Newport News was said to have been without incident.

High winds and low tide made the job of berthing the Leviathan a delicate one, but the big steamer was tucked away in the basin in one and one-half hours without mishap. The dry dock here is said to be the only one in the world equipped to take the Leviathan and the Majestic, contending claimants for distinction as the world's largest vessel.

The Leviathan will be outfitting for about three weeks, after which it is understood she will take a trial trip of about a week to the West Indies before she makes her reappearance on the transatlantic steamer lanes under Shipping Board auspices early in July.

FREES FATHER AND SON.

Harding Commutes Sentences of Illinois Men Convicted of War Frauds.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Prison sentences of Paul and Fred Wolf of Quincy, Ill., convicted of war frauds, have been commuted by President Harding to half their original length, it was announced today at the White House.

The sentence of Fred Wolf was ordered to expire June 17 next, and that of his son Paul to end Oct. 17. Their fines, $10,000 and $5,000, respectively, have been paid.

John S. Saltus Left Estate of $3,543,253; $500,000 to Fiancee, $577,003 Each to Cousins

John Sanford Saltus, New York numismatist and collector, who was found dead in a London hotel on June 22 last, several months before he was to have been married to Mrs. Estelle E. Campbell, daughter of the late Surrogate Arnold and widow of a civil engineer, left an estate appraised yesterday at $3,543,253 gross and $3,249,972 net. The bulk of the estate consisted of shares in New York banks valued at $3,468,422.

The bank stocks included the following: 5,212 shares National Bank of Commerce, $1,375,968; 1,495 National Park Bank, $622,415; 1,504 American Exchange National Bank, $379,008; 948 Bank of America, $193,392; 180 Bank of New York, $100,500; 242 First National, $267,730; 455 Hanover National, $276,276, and 448 National City Bank, $144,768.

Mr. Saltus left $500,000 to his fiancee, Mrs. Campbell, and also gave her his jewelry in London, valued at $1,967. He named her and his attorney, William Allen Butler, executors. His first cousins, A. Wright Saltus, Rollin Sanford Saltus and Ethel M. Ludington, and his second cousin, Florence Sanford Bissell, were residuary legatees and got $577,003 each. Several of the residuary legatees instituted proceedings in the Surrogate's Court to compel the executors to distribute the estate, but they replied that it was not possible to make a full distribution until the transfer tax is paid.

One of the legatees was Mme. Daniel Steen, wife of the Norwegian Charge d'Affaires at Washington, who got $50,000. The claim was made in behalf of Mme. Steen that the tax of $2,500 on her bequest should not be imposed because she is the wife of a foreign diplomat, but the claim was not allowed on the ground that the State law under which estates are taxed, does not take into consideration any treaties with foreign powers under which an exemption of tax is claimed. So far as could be learned yesterday the question whas never been determined by the State courts.

The will gave $50,000 each to the French Branch of the Y. M. C. A. in New York, the American Bible Society and the Congregational Church at Fairfield, Conn. Louise Luchetti of Washington, D. C., got $20,000, and $10,000 each went to Jules Antoine and Elizabeth C. Guillaume of Redding, Conn. Ington, D. C., got $20,000 and $10,000 Doris Wolcott Higelow, a third cousin, received $175,000. A bequest of $15,000 went to the Salmagundi Club.

MOVEMENT TO AVERT BUILDING INFLATION

FAVORS CURTAILING LOANS

Building Trades Council Votes to Support Strike of 10,000 Painters for $10 a Day.

Advices received in building circles yesterday from Washington indicated that the Federal Reserve Board was in sympathy with the proposal launched last Wednesday by the Board of Governors of the American Construction Council that banks curtail until the close of Summer loans to speculative builders as a means of stabilizing the building industry and averting depression likely to follow abnormal inflation. The American Construction Council took formal action on the matter at a meeting at the home of its President, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

From Mr. Roosevelt it was learned yesterday that he was in receipt of communications from Chambers of Commerce and trade associations in all parts of the country saying that they would act in accordance with the plans laid down by the American Construction Council to avert a serious slump in the building industry.

As an illustration Mr. Roosevelt cited John E. Lloyd, of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association, who addressed the American Construction Council that he had written to the 6,000 members of that association suggesting that they buy only for immediate needs and that they reduce their stocks to obviate possible losses that may come with a slump in the process of deflation.

In line with the American Construction Council's policy, the Western Electric Company printed the resolutions adopted at the meeting and has distributed them among its employes presumably for the guidance of those who had planned to build.

The New York Building Trades Council of the American Federation of Labor announced last night that it had voted to pledge its aid to the painters of New York City if they went on strike on Monday. The Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, Local No. 1 of New York City, has announced that strike orders had been mailed to 10,000 members in this community pending a final effort to be made on Monday to reach an agreement with the Building Trades Employers' Association. After a 13-hour conference, lasting until 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning, the meeting of the painters and employers was adjourned until Monday morning. The following statement was issued by the union:

"With strike orders to the 10,000 union painters of Manhattan and the Bronx in the mails, the conference between the Association of Master Painters and District Council No. 9 of the Union adjourned at one o'clock this morning until tomorrow at 10 A. M. The final effort to stave off the impending strike for a $10 daily wage and the five-day work week will be made at the conference tomorrow morning.

GUARDING MRS. PHILLIPS.

Honduras Officials Expect New Attempts to Break Jail.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, May 18.—Police officials assert that they have intercepted correspondence from the woman held as Clara Phillips, the California murderess, to persons of unknown identity offering large sums of money if they should assist the prisoner in escaping from jail here. As a result the authorities have doubled their vigilance over the woman, and decided that she may have no visitors.

The police also say they have information that two persons have left Mexico for Honduras with the object of assisting the prisoner to escape.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 18.—Plans to extradite Jesse C. Carson, accused of arson, and Mrs. Etta Mae Jackson, traveling companions of Mrs. Clara Phillips, escaped "hammer murderess," and now held with her at Tegucigalpa, may be revived, it was stated today by Sheriff William I. Traeger.

The Sheriff has received an inquiry for information as to what course the Los Angeles authorities would follow concerning Carson and Mrs. Jackson, a sister of Mrs. Phillips.

PASSES MONUMENT BILL.

French Senate Votes 1,000,000 Frs. Toward Memorial for Our Soldiers.

PARIS, May 18.—Contribution by the French Government of 1,000,000 francs to the popular subscription for a monument to commemorate the participation of the American troops in the World War was approved by the Senate today without discussion. Premier Poincaré supported the recommendation, and the vote was taken immediately. Favorable action had previously been taken by the Chamber of Deputies.

The monument is that to be erected at Pointe de Grave, near Bordeaux, whence Lafayette sailed to aid the Colonies in the American Revolution.

CANNOT FIND EASTER ISLAND

Vessel Reports by Radio That Penal Colony Has Disappeared.

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 18 (Associated Press).—A wireless message, apparently from a vessel, has been picked up here stating that Easter Island has disappeared.

Reports that Easter Island, used by Chile as a penal colony, had disappeared have been prevalent since the disastrous earthquake which shook Northern Chile in November. The last definite report was made by the Captain of a French merchant ship, who declared he found nothing but water at the position given to the island on his chart.

POWDERY MATTER IN CREIGHTON BODY

TURNED OVER TO CHEMISTS

Woman Charged With Poisoning Her Brother Can Keep Her New Baby in Jail With Her.

After withholding announcement of the discovery for two days, Dr. George L. Warren, County Physician of Essex County, N. J., yesterday made known that a white powdery substance was found in the stomach of Mrs. Annie Creighton.

Mrs. Creighton's body was exhumed with that of her husband, Walter J. Creighton, from Fairmount Cemetery, Newark, as a consequence of the charge that their son, John, and his wife, Mrs. Mary A. Creighton, murdered the latter's brother, Charles R. Avery, with arsenic. Dr. Warren had previously announced that the autopsy showed that neither of the elder Creightons had died of the causes given in their death certificates. No powder was found in the elder Creighton's body.

"What we found in Mrs. Creighton's stomach," said Dr. Warren, "was infinitesimal in quantity. It looked and felt like powder, but it may have been any number of other things. Yes, we attach considerable significance to it, but we cannot say what it is until a chemical analysis has been made. One-half of the substance has been turned over to the chemical experts employed by the defendants.

"Though the quantity was small, it was sufficient to be seen by those at the autopsy. It may, of course, turn out to be a powder or medicine prescribed by a physician. The arsenic found in Avery's stomach was in fluid form."

James W. McCarthy, counsel for the defendants, took the powder find less seriously.

"It may have been anything," he commented. "One thing is obvious. If it were the remnant of a poison the poison would have permeated the entire system and would have been found in the other organs. Our experts found no such substance in the half of the stomach they received."

Dr. Edward Markens, physician at Essex County Jail, decided yesterday that when Mrs. John Creighton returns to jail to await trial she may take her baby, born thursday morning, with her. She will leave the Newark City Hospital with the boy in another week. They will be housed in a room in the rear section of the jail building.

POOL STARTS FIGHT TO OUST SAUNDERS

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, May 18.—Open warfare for the control of Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., is now being waged between Clarence Saunders, President of the company, and members of the pool in New Orleans, Nashville and St. Louis. They have taken 91,000 shares of Class A stock, offered as collateral by Saunders when he borrowed money to stem the New York "bear" raid. They have virtually declared that a special meeting of the stockholders will be called immediately and a motion made to remove Saunders from the Presidency.

Lynn F. Dinkins, a member of the New Orleans pool, is leading the fight. As a stockholder he made formal request on Saunders today for a complete list of stockholders. Up to a late hour tonight Saunders had not replied. The pool members further heightened the ring around Saunders by threatening injunction proceedings if more units of Piggly Wiggly Stores were sold. The Chicago unit has been sold for more than $1,000,000 and this angered the pool managers.

Saunders addressed a letter to the pool members this afternoon, making a final request for an extension of time until July 1, so that he could sell enough stores to pay out the pool members, meet bank loans and stabilize the credit of the business. While no reply had come from the pool tonight it is believed this request will be ignored.

Members of the Memphis pool have stood by Saunders, giving him until Jan. 1 to satisfy their claims and fully indorsing his plan to sell units of stores.

MISSING GIRL TAKEN HOME.

Dorothy Regan Had Rented Room at Policeman's Home.

Dorothy Regan, 15 years old, who left her home, 349 Eighty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, on Thursday because she was tired of school and wanted to make her way in the world, was escorted home late yesterday by a policeman from the Fort Hamilton Station. She had got a position all right, but she sought the home of Patrolman Bernard Butler, at 7,302 Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn, and engaged a room. Butler read the general alarm sent out by the police and concluded that his youthful roomer was the missing Dorothy.

Butler notified the police of the Fort Hamilton Precinct, and her father and two detectives went to the Sixth Avenue house. They found the girl sitting on the edge of her bed reading. She began to cry when she saw her father.

Two Black Bears Scare Jasper, N.Y.

HORNELL, N. Y., May 18.—Two black bears, the first seen in this section in years, came down out of the hills late yesterday and terrorized the hamlet of Jasper, near here. The inhabitants kept out of sight until the bears had disappeared. Later one was killed by hunters near Woodhull.

MACHOLD REFUSES DEBATE WITH SMITH

GOVERNOR IN NEW ATTACK

Says Republicans Didn't Want to Injure Men Who "Supply the Grease"—Hylan Statement.

Speaker Machold of the Assembly said last night at his home in Watertown that he would not accept the challenge of Governor Smith to meet him at Carnegie Hall or Town Hall for a joint debate of the reasons which led to the defeat in the Republican Assembly of the Smith-Hylan New York City home rule transportation bill.

Governor Smith yesterday renewed his challenge, published in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday morning. In amplifying what he had said on Thursday night regarding the circumstances under which the transportation bill met its waterloo in the Assembly, the Governor stated that the Republicans had done that measure to death because "they did not want to injure the men who supply the grease."

Mayor Hylan late yesterday issued a statement in which he blamed Speaker Machold and the Republicans for the defeat of his cherished transit measure. He resented the assertion by the Speaker that he and the Governor were not in good faith committed to a 5-cent fare, but failed to make explicit denial that his so-called transportation bill contained a provision which would have permitted the Mayor, with the sanction of the Board of Estimates, to increase fares even where a 5-cent fare had been fixed through a franchise or other contractual agreement with the City of New York. The Assembly, the Mayor said, was "traction-controlled."

Sees No Use in a Debate.

"Of course I will not debate this matter with the Governor," said Speaker Machold, who had read of the Governor's challenge in THE TIMES. "No useful public purpose could be served by a discussion such as the Governor suggests. In my addresses yesterday I gave a faithful account of what occurred at Albany during the session and what led to the defeat of the Transportation bill and other legislation proposed by the Governor.

"I have nothing to add to what I said then, and now it seems to me it is up to the Governor to make the best answer of which he is capable in explanation of the fatal "all or nothing" attitude assumed by him and the Democratic leaders of the Legislature under his direction while we were conferring on the New York City transit situation."

"The Governor ascribes the defeat of May Hylan's bill to the Republicans in the Assembly and advises their opposition to a desire not to hurt the men 'who supply the grease,'" Speaker Machold was told.

"I do not know what he means by that," said the Speaker.

When it was suggested that the Governor might have had in mind sources from which campaign contributions flow into the coffers of the Republican State organization, the Speaker said:

"There is nothing to that and the Governor knows it. Before we took our stand on the New York City transit legislation I consulted every kind of person who could shed any light on the situation and supply any helpful suggestion, from the man in the street who rides on the cars to the man who supplies the money for their operation."

"Mayor Hylan is on your trail and threatens to go up to your district and make a speech about the defeat of his transit bill," Mr. Machold was told.

"Good," the Speaker replied. "Tell him to come on up; we will be glad to see him in Jefferson County."

State Campaign Planned.

Mayor Hylan, in his statement made public last night, confirmed reports which were current in Albany as the legislative session was drawing to a close. These foreshadowed that he would start a campaign throughout the State during the Summer with a view to the election of a Democratic Assembly committed to his transit and public utilities program, which contemplates absolute non-interference by the State with the New York City authorities in such matters.

The prospective tour of the State this Summer is regarded in political circles as a forerunner to a campaign next year to elect Mayor Hylan Governor of the State. Some of the Mayor's friends openly declare that they regard him as the logical successor to Governor Smith and express the view that with the support of Hearst he would be invincible as a candidate for Governor.

In further reply to the speeches made on Thursday by Speaker Machold, in which he accused Governor Smith of insincerity and held him responsible for the defeat of the New York City transit legislation, the Governor said yesterday that Machold had spoken without a trace of justification. It was very evident that the Governor felt hurt.

"At the meeting last Friday night at the Republican Club, Machold called me 'Al' and I called him 'Ed,'" said the Governor. "We have known each other for many years. I still call him 'Ed,' but when he is talking about me the way he was talking yesterday he is talking through his hat and appears to have completely lost his head. Let him come out in the open and meet me in Carnegie Hall or Town Hall and I will defray all the tickets, so that he can fill the hall with his own friends, personal and political."

Governor Smith said that the best proof of his sincerity was that he had gone through with the whole program of his party as outlined in its platform.

Says He Redeemed Pledges.

"What more can a Governor do to prove his good faith with the voters than to redeem every pledge he made in the campaign in making his recommendations for legislation?" he said. "I did that and I urged again and again in special messages that action be taken on measures I had recommended because the people had shown on election day that that was what they wanted. I think that with a single exception I lived up to my promises, and I would have redeemed that pledge, too, but for the fact that the financial condition of the State for which my predecessor was responsible made it impossible to make good that pledge without putting the State in a hole financially."

What the Governor referred to was the Democratic platform pledge promising exemption from State income tax of incomes below $5,000. Mr. Smith intimated that he might find a way to repair this omission next year.

"It is not true," the Governor went on, "that I ever said to somebody to pass bills through the Senate and put them up to the Assembly to embarrass the Republicans. The best evidence of my sincerity is that the Democratic Senate passed every bill I presented to it. I am willing to discuss them with Ed' any time he is willing to meet me in the open.

"There is a reason for the Republican Assembly's failure to pass these bills and I am willing to tell it out loud. I did not know then, as I do now, that at no time during the transit conferences did they intend to arrive at an agreement. They had to go back to some one and report what they were doing in the conference. The reason was that New York wanted to regulate its own transit facilities. The Republicans could not consent to that because it might injure the men who supply the grease. And up-State cities might have demanded the same measure of home rule in transit and utility affairs that was given New York City. The Republicans could not stand for that either. That's where the rub is."

Mayor Hylan's Statement.

Mayor Hylan's statement last night follows:

"I see by the morning press that Speaker Edmund H. Machold of Ellsburg, Jefferson County, if he has been quoted correctly, in substance said that Smith and Hylan tried to raise the carfares above 5 cents.

"Governor Miller made misstatements about me just as Machold is now making misstatements. I am not now nor have been for an increase in carfare. Machold knows this and I am amazed that he would make such a barefaced misleading statement. Machold and the Republican Assembly are responsible for transit conditions in this city and the people of this city know it. Relief could have been given within sixty days if Machold and the traction-controlled Republican Assembly had given the people the Walker-Donohue bill.

"Machold and the Republican transit boss-controlled Assembly at Albany are responsible for neglecting to give the people of New York City relief. Machold and the traction-controlled Republican Assembly are responsible for the people of New York City not getting municipal buses.

"Machold and the traction-controlled Republican Assembly are responsible for not reducing the fares to five cents in up-State cities, and he cannot get away from it. Governor Miller and others have tried to mislead the people of this city on this traction proposition.

"The traction interests and railroad monopoly control Machold, and he did their bidding. There is no doubt about that. If he thinks he can fool the people at the coming election and continue his control of the Assembly I think he is misjudging the people. The traction interests are now working to elect Republican Assemblymen so that Machold and the Republican-controlled party bosses can again stay the hands of the people in the next session of the Legislature from getting relief from this traction monopoly.

"The Republican constituency in this city who are compelled to ride on the traction lines want relief just as well as the Democratic constituency. They realize that Speaker Machold and the Republican leaders and Assemblymen refused to give them the relief for which they have been fighting.

"I shall endeavor to place this whole matter before the voters of this State, including the voters of Machold's district.

"Mr. Machold cannot fool the voters of this city. He may be able to fool them in Jefferson County, but he cannot fool the people of this State by making such wild and misleading statements. The traction interests were out to defeat the Walker-Donohue bill, Machold helped them, and he knows it, and will have to take the responsibility."

Ojibways Rehearse 'Hiawatha' For Lake Superior Fetes

SAULT STE. MARIE, May 18.—Ojibway Indians living on the outskirts of this city have begun rehearsals for a presentation of Longfellow's "Hiawatha" on the banks of the river in August at the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Sault and Lake Superior.

The city was visited more than a decade ago by Longfellow's daughter, who learned that the Ojibways were familiar with the poem and marveled at Longfellow's accuracy as to the characteristics of the people and the country.

Longfellow was never in the Sault, but wrote his poem from stories told him by an Ojibway chief whom he met in New York.

HARDING LAUDS WORK OF LINCOLN ARCHITECT

In Bestowing Institute's Gold Medal, He Says Designer Has Perpetuated Lincoln's Spirit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The Gold Medal of the American Institute of Architects was presented tonight by President Harding to Henry Bacon, architect of the Lincoln Memorial. In bestowing this honor, the highest in the gift of the Institute, the President expressed the hope that in the building of the institutions of America there may be a fidelity comparable to the ideals which guided Lincoln in his great work for the country.

The exercises which marked the closing of the fifty-sixth annual convention of the American Institute of Architects was held in the Lincoln Memorial, Chief Justice Taft sharing the honors of the occasion with the President. Drawn across the reflecting pool on a barge of honor, Mr. Bacon was greeted at the Memorial by the President and the Chief Justice, following which there was a procession including the best known architects, engineers, painters and members of trades and crafts in this country. Slow burning torches and rockets added color to the picture.

President Harding said "no man could have seen in his mind's eye the vision of this supremely appealing structure, or could have conceived it as the most appropriate memorial to the life and work of Lincoln, unless he was fortunate as to sense the genius, the character, the simple aims and unquestioning integrity which were the dominant traits of the Emancipator.

"It is part, and a great part, of the debt which as a nation we owe to Lincoln, that because of his service and devotion we are a nation capable of bringing forth such genius in conception, such capacity for realization, as are here attested. This place of Lincoln in the affections of our people has no doubt been determined in large part by that idealism which cynics are wont to call sentimentalism, but which is so vital a factor in the national character.

"We may readily enough convince ourselves that Lincoln, the Lincoln of flesh and blood and human emotions, if he could view this memorial, would find his chiefest satisfaction, not in the recognition which it bespeaks for him, his life and his labors, but in the thought that the nation he loved and served has vindicated his aspirations for it, by bringing forth such a proof of lofty aim and capacity for achievement. For that, after all, is the thing which is memorialized in this nobility of design, this purity of detail, this perfection of execution."

The concluding sessions of the Institute of Architects were held today in the Corcoran Gallery of Art. William B. Faville of San Francisco was re-elected President.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 18.—The announcement of a gift of $500,000 to Springfield Y. M. C. A. College by the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial Foundation in New York was made tonight by Dr. L. L. Doggett, President of the local institution. The gift is made contingent on the success of the Springfield College Expansion Fund campaign for $2,000,000, which will close July 1, 1925. The gift will be in addition to the original amount set for the Expansion Fund and will increase the amount allotted to endowment to $1,500,000. The remaining $1,000,000 will be used for buildings and improvements and other college expenses.

Another gift of $200,000 was announced tonight by President Doggett. The smaller amount is from Herbert L. Pratt of New York, Vice President of the Standard Oil Company of New York and Vice President of the college. The gift is for the erection of a dormitory.

NEW YORK PHONE CO. SHOWS BIG PROFITS

Total of $16,969,832 for 1922 Compares With $13,244,543 in 1921.

EQUAL TO $8.07 A SHARE

Company to Need $300,000,000 for Extensions in Next Five Years, President Says.

ASSETS HALF A BILLION

Improvements in Last Year Cost $63,000,000, Annual Report States —New Rates to Get Fair Trial.

The New York Telephone Company's net profits in 1922 were $16,969,832 after payment of charges and taxes, an equivalent of $8.07 a share on the $206,800,000 common stock, according to the annual report made public yesterday. This compares with net profits of $13,244,543 or $6.45 a share in 1921.

Attention was called in the report to $63,000,000 improvements made by the company in 1922, and to the need of $300,000,000 for the proposed extensions of lines in the next five years.

Total assets of the company on December 31, 1922, amounted to $516,144,806.25. Total operating revenue was $106,612,819.53 as compared with $89,808,268 in 1921, but after the payment of 6½ per cent. interest on the preferred stock and 8 per cent. on the common stock, the surplus for the year was only $153,740.86.

Among the items in the income account compared with those of previous years are the following:

QUESTION BROTHERS OF MOUNT'S FRIEND

Prosecutors Act on Theory of Reprisal for Missing Student's Treatment of Girl.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 18.—Doris Fuchs, the girl chum and "mental aid" of Leighton Mount, and her two brothers were called to the State Attorney's office tonight on a new angle in the investigation into the disappearance of the student which resulted in his death. Mrs. John Sweeney of Saranac Lake, N. Y., gave evidence today on this phase of the case.

Charles ("Chuck") Palmer, football star, was freed today after being held in solitary confinement for thirty-six hours on the story of Mrs. Violet Bachman that he told her in 1921 that he knew Mount was safe.

The arrest and release of Palmer drew a moderate fire from the Chief Justice, which was intensified in statements from university officials and alumni.

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern University, speaking today at an alumni meeting which gave him a tremendous ovation, referred to "Chuck" Palmer as "our hero," and expressed confidence that the football captain will clear himself of suspicion in the Mount case and win complete vindication.

The inquest into the recent death of Louis Aubere, a Northwestern freshman, was resumed today.

Mrs. Katherine Hotchkiss Longmaid of Rye, N. Y., accompanied by her father, William H. Hotchkiss, formerly a professor in Northwestern University, visited the office of District Attorney Joab H. Banton yesterday under an arrangement made by the Cook County, Ill., authorities and answered questions relating to the disappearance in 1921 of Leighton Mount, Northwestern student.

Mrs. Longmaid declared that she had never heard of Mount until two weeks ago. In reply to specific questions as to letters which she was said to have written to J. Allen Mills, freshman leader in a class rush held at about the time of Mount's disappearance, Mrs. Longmaid said neither Mount nor the subject of hazing was mentioned at any time by Mills. Her father added that the Mills letters had been destroyed.

BUTCHER WINS SUIT TO ENJOIN PICKETS

Appellate Division Holds Union Interference Was 'Malicious and Unwarranted.'

The latest ruling on picketing was handed down by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday in reversing a decision of the lower court refusing an injunction for Harris Yablonowitz, a retail butcher at 2 East 112th Street, against Jacob Korn, as President, and the other officers and members of the Hebrew Butcher Workers' Union of Greater New York.

Yablowitz sued for an injunction against the picketing of his shop, and also asked $50,000 damages. The opinion in his favor was written by Justice Walker. Lloyd Smith, and concurred in by Presiding Justice Clare and Justices Finch and McAvoy, with Justice Dowling dissenting. The picketing started after Yablonowitz discharged members of the union and decided to carry on his business with the aid of members of his family.

Justice Smith wrote that picketing, "even though obstensibly peaceable, may not be employed when its purpose is to effect a malicious and unwarranted interference with another's business or vocation."

"This is purely a high-handed attempt to run this man's business, and all sense of fair play is outraged by allowing this picketing to continue," wrote Justice Smith.

"It is not for the purpose of assisting the employes, because those who were before employed had left, and new ones were employed. It is simply for the purpose of intimidating and coercing this plaintiff to hire union men.

"Monopolies are abhorrent to American ideas of government. The law condemns all combinations, whether in respect to labor or so-called capital, which seek to become monopolies and thus oppress the people."

TO ATTEND CROKER TRIAL.

Northampton Residents Who Knew Mrs. Marone Going to Dublin.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 18.—Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Davies and Mrs. Clara Bingham, who returned two weeks ago from Dublin, where they had gone in an effort to identify Mrs. Bula Croker, widow of Richard F. Croker, as Mrs. Guy R. Maron, formerly of Northampton, went to New York today, announcing that they would sail for Ireland to be present at the trial of the probate action against Mrs. Croker by the Croker children. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Davis, neighbors of Mrs. Bingham, who were said to have known Mrs. Marone well.

The Davies couple and Mrs. Bingham have never made public the result of their first visit to Ireland, during which they saw Mrs. Croker.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Ethiopian Art Theatre at the Frazee closes tonight.

A benefit performance, under the direction of Eddie Cantor, will be given at the Casino Theatre tomorrow night in aid of the Boys Camp, Cold Spring, N. Y.

McKay Morris, Ernest Lawford, Henry Hull and Etienne Girardot have been added to the cast of the Players' Club revival of "The School for Scandal."

ORCHESTRAS UNITE TO SERVE THE PUBLIC

Merger Designed to Interest an Enlarged Section of New York Music Lovers.

PHILHARMONIC AND CITY

Will Now Join Their Forces—Mrs. Coleman du Pont Explains Purposes.

The Philharmonic Society and the City Symphony Orchestra will join their forces, it was announced yesterday by Clarence H. Mackay, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Philharmonic Society, under a plan whereby the City Symphony will develop, under the direction of the Philharmonic, a campaign for reaching an enlarged public. Just how the merger will affect the forces of the City Symphony could not be learned, but it was announced that the plan would not affect the organization of the Philharmonic Orchestra in any way.

The bringing of the two organizations together will bring to the Philharmonic a citizens' committee with a paid membership of more than 700. Mrs. Louise Ryals de Cravioto, who was largely responsible for the founding of the City Symphony and for its plans for reaching a large public, will act as Chairman of the citizens' committee.

Among the officers and underwriters of the City Symphony who sponsor this amalgamation and who will in the future be affiliated with the Philharmonic are Mr. and Mrs. Coleman du Pont, Bartlett Arkell, Mr. and Mrs. Manton B. Metcalf, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis L. Clarke, General and Mrs. Louis W. Slotesbury and Mrs. de Cravioto.

The details of the way in which the organizations will function under the new arrangement are now being worked out by the management of the Philharmonic Society and the Auxiliary Committee of the Philharmonic, consisting of Mrs. Vincent Astor, Chairman, Mrs. Newbold Le Roy Edgar and Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheimer, Vice Chairman. The purpose of the City Symphony Orchestra, was recently outlined by Mrs. du Pont.

"It was with the idea of giving concerts of the highest type for a nominal admission fee to the public which is hungry for music, yet for financial reasons unable to satisfy its cravings for the better things in life," she said, "that the City Symphony Orchestra was formed.

"In 1920 Mr. du Pont and myself became interested in a series of free concerts in Cooper Union which were brought to our attention by Mrs. Louise Ryals de Cravioto, who had been active on behalf of the Stadium Concerts, and wished to continue the same type of music during the Winter season for the benefit of a new class of music lovers. In continuation of these concerts it was originally the intention of the City Symphony Orchestra to play in the great hall of Cooper Union, but later it seemed wise to spread the message of the new organization over a wider territory so concerts were held not only in Cooper Union and in the central sections of the city at the Century Theatre, the Manhattan Opera House, Town Hall and Carnegie Hall, but the orchestra went into new localities. Among these were Philadelphia, East Orange, New Rochelle, New Brunswick, the Educational Alliance and the Commercial High School, Brooklyn.

"The work done by the City Symphony has received widespread and generous cooperation from various departments of the Board of Education and from a very large number of civic institutions, including Teachers College, Barnard College, hospitals and churches, Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus, American Red Cross, Labor Temple, music teachers, convents, public libraries, United Neighborhood Houses, Association for the Blind, Vacation Association, Soldiers' Dug Outs, and many others.

"The Philharmonic," said Mr. Mackay, "through its recent affiliation with the American Orchestral Society, of which Mrs. Harriman is president, and now by reason of its new association with the City Symphony, enters into a further period of achievement and constructive development in the musical life of the city."

In no way will the plan affect the personnel of the Philharmonic Orchestra. Willem Mengelberg, Willem van Noogstraten and Henry Hadley will divide the conductorship as previously announced, and Arthur Judson will be in full managerial charge with headquarters at the Fisk Building, 250 West 57th Street.

MAJOR KELLY WELCOMED.

Brings Message From "the President of the Irish Republic."

Major Michael A. Kelly, veteran officer of the "Fighting Sixty-ninth" of the New York National Guard, returned yesterday from Ireland on the President Roosevelt, after having acted as representative of the American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic at the funeral of Laurence Ginnell, former Irish Republican "Envoy" to the United States.

Major Kelly was met at the Hoboken pier by a committee on behalf of the sixty-five councils of the American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic in the metropolitan district. Thomas Rock, Chairman of the committee, read an address of welcome, in which Major Kelly was invited to attend the association's annual celebration and convention at Madison Square Garden the night of May 26 and Sunday, May 27, "where you will have an opportunity of delivering to the people of the United States the message you bear from the President of the Irish Republic."

The committee in charge of the annual ball of the association has arranged to make the affair at Madison Square Garden a part of the jubilee celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the incorporation of Greater New York City. It is planned to show by lectures and pictures the part the Irish have played in the building of the greater city, according to Mr. Rock.

CLOUDBURST AT BEAUMONT.

Ten Inches Falls in Three Hours, Flooding the Town.

BEAUMONT, Texas, May 18.—A terrific downpour of rain, starting about 6 o'clock this morning, and accompanied by high winds has registered a precipitation of 10.65 inches in three hours and showed no signs of abatement.

Streets were flooded. Heavy hail accompanied the storm. Twho persons were injured when a small tornado struck Oval Line Mills, near Cource, forty miles north of Houston.

HOUSTON, Texas, May 18.—Communication with Beaumont has been cut off as the result of a cloudburst in that city early today, according to information at Motor League headquarters here.

Majestic Beats Eastbound Record.

According to a cable dispatch received yesterday by the International Mercantile Marine Company from Captain Sir Bertram Hayes, D. S. O., R. N. R., the master of the Majestic, the liner reached Cherbourg at 8:10 A. M. yesterday and made a new eastward record of 24.79 knots an hour for the entire voyage. She steamed 3,137 miles in 5 days 10 hours and 48 minutes. The previous record was made by the Majestic in November last when she averaged 24.59 knots an hour for 2,990 miles over the short track in 5 days 6 hours and 12 minutes.

THE PLAY

By JOHN CORBIN.

Sweet Peg of Old Drury.

SWEET NELL OF OLD DRURY. A comedy in four acts by Paul Kester. At the 48th Street Theatre.

Nell Gwynne	Laurette Taylor
Lady Castlemaine	Lynn Fontanne
Duchess of Portsmouth	Helenka Adamowska
Lady Olivia Vernon	Marguerite Moore
Tiffin	Laura Burt
Charles II	Alfred Lunt
Lord Jeffreys	Herbert Grimwood
Sir Roger Strickland	Rose Rutherford
Lord Rochester	Richie Ling
Lord Lovelace	Schuyler Ladd
Percival	Leo Stark
Bolina	Howard Lindsay
Lacy	Leonard Booker
Captain Clavering	Edwin Holland
Alderman	George Barter
Second Alderman	Chascar Batson
Mercer	Lionel Chalmers
William	Seymour Jamison
Lord-in-Waiting	James Bell
Master Biliff	Paul Jacchia

All that can be nowadays done to revive (apt word!) the historical play of a quarter century ago has been done by the Equity Players in behalf of Paul Kester's amiable and stageworthy hokum. Who but Laurette Taylor should play the gossipping, blarneying, and audaciously charming Nell Gwynne, selling oranges in the street before Drury Lane Theatre, and there casually passing the time of day with an amiable gentleman who greatly mystified her by saying, in answer to her pert inquiry, that his name was Charles Rex?

Who but Laurette Taylor should encounter those arrogant court beauties (as the nineteenth century playwright paraphrased "courtesan"), Lady Castlemaine and the Duchess of Portsmouth—encounter her rivals in the affection of Charles II. and rout them with feminine raillery? Who but this accomplished comedienne, finally, should don the wig and scarlet robe of Chief Justice Jeffreys, imitate his pompous walk and his humming "pom-pom" and so save the distressed Lady Olivia from enforced marriage to a libertine? Let the archaeologists declare as they will that Ada Rehan did all these things more bouncingly in 1900. No one today could do them half so well as Peg of Our Hearts.

The performance will not, of course, rank with Miss Taylor's best. She is an artist of the finer shadings of reality, a humorist of subtler strokes than are to be imposed upon Mr. Kester's preposterous situations and slapstick repartee. It must also be said that she lacks the authoritative presence, the imposing manner, of the old school. There are times when the artist seemed to shrink beneath the part as distinctly as her person shrank beneath the spreading hat, with its banyan-tree feathers, which she attempted to wear. But there can be no doubt of her success with her audience—nor, for the matter of that, of the success of Mr. Keater's aging hokum. The audience rose to it all—and the higher it was seated the higher it rose. From the gallery came shouts and acclamations.

Lynn Fontanne was the superb though flouted Lady Castlemaine—a part whole worlds removed from her delectable moron, Daisy, yet a perfect fit nevertheless, in element and gesture. She had even a bit of the "authority" which Miss Taylor sometimes lacked, carrying off the crude lines of her part with the distinction of an old master.

French "court beauty," the Duchess of Portsmouth, Helenka Adamowska, a newcomer, was strikingly picturesque in spite of her hat and otherwise quite adequate.

The men did not come off so well. That admirable comedian, Alfred Lunt, was well nigh submerged in the costume and in the dummy personality of this Charles Rex. Herbert Grimwood exemplified the old school in his treatment of Jeffreys, but scarcely in a manner to make one bless its memory.

The play is revived with the shrewd purpose of recouping the losses encountered in some of the Equity's more soberly artistic ventures, and it seems likely to succeed in that moment in doing so. There is no trace of thrift in the production. The settings and costumes by Woodman Thompson are the last word in richness and decorative beauty.

In characteristic little speech Miss Taylor said that personally she would have preferred to play Lady Macbeth, but that the idea of the Equity Association was that everybody should have fun.

OUR TENORS WIN FRENCH.

John McCormack and Charles Hackett Great Attractions in Paris.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 18. — Two American tenors, John McCormack and Charles Hackett, have shared honors this week in Paris as the greatest attractions in the musical world. Hackett is singing again this year at the National Opera and his first performance of the season in "Rigoletto" on Tuesday filled the house with an enthusiastic Franco-American audience.

McCormack, who has been giving a series of charity concerts for the devastated districts, has begun to build up as solid a reputation for his singing of French songs and arias as he has established with his Irish ballads. This evening at the Champs Elysée Théâtre his success with the French audience was as great as with the Americans present.

CHANNING POLLOCK BACK.

He Says French Regard Themselves as "Centre of Artistic World."

Channing Pollock, the playwright, returned yesterday on the Cunarder Aquitania from England and France, where he produced in Paris his play "The Sign on the Door" with the patronage of Baron Henry de Rothschild. He said that the English were very fair in their reception of American productions, but he found the French were self-centred and prone to regard themselves as "the centre of the artistic world."

He added that he had contracted with Frederick Lonsdale, author of Cyril Maude's new play, "Aren't We All?" for a new American play, as well as several other productions. Mr. Pollock said he was not alarmed about the quarrel between the Equity Association and the Producing Managers' Association, and said "All these things will work well before the season comes around."

EDITH DAY TO WED SUNDAY.

Her Marriage to Pat Somerset to Take Place in Greenwich, Conn.

Edith Day, now playing in "Wildflower," at the Casino, is to be married to Pat Somerset, the English actor, who when he arrived from England a short time ago was detained at Ellis Island pending an inquiry into his status in this country by the Department of Labor. The wedding will take place tomorrow at the Pickwick Arms in Greenwich, Conn. Justice of the Peace Albert S. Mead is to officiate.

The final papers in the divorce of Miss Day from Carle Carlton, the theatrical producer, were signed yesterday by Justice Daniel Cohalan. Carlton had named Somerset in his suit for a decree. It was uncontested by Miss Day.

MOTION PICTURE NOTES.

Martin Johnson, producer of "Trailing African Wild Animals," which comes to the Capitol tomorrow, will give an explanatory talk at the 2 o'clock and 4 o'clock shows. The head of the weighty African elephant shot by Mrs. Johnson is on exhibition in the theatre lobby.

George Fitzmaurice will be the principal guest at a luncheon to be held on Monday in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Samuel Goldwyn is the host, and among the thirty guests will be Lionel Barrymore, Irene Fenwick, Bert Lytell, David Powell and Barbara La Marr. Fitzmaurice leaves on Tuesday aboard the Aquitania.

Arrangements have been completed to show "Little Old New York," at the New Scala Theatre in London, before the production is presented in New York.

F. J. Godsol, President of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, will leave for Europe today, to arrange for the filming of certain scenes of "Ben Hur," to be taken in European locations.

MARCUS GARVEY ON TRIAL.

Negro Promoter and 5 Associates Charged With Mail Frauds.

Marcus Garvey, President of the Universal Negro Improvement Association, "provisional president" of Africa, Knight Commander of the Sublime Order of the Nile, and of the Distinguished Service Order, of Ethiopia, editor-in-chief of a newspaper for colored people, and president of the Black Star Line, Inc., was placed on trial before Federal Judge Mack yesterday on an indictment charging him and three of his associates with having used the mails to defraud investors. The other defendants are Orlando M. Thompson, Ellie Garcia, and George Tobias, officers and directors in the Black Star Line.

Federal Prosecutor Maxwell S. Mattuck told the jury that the defendants had induced between 30,000 and 40,000 negroes to subscribe a total of about $1,000,000 for stock in the line, and he warned the jury against being deceived by references, which the defense might make, to the aspirations of the Universal Improvement Association, which he stated was a different organization from the line. He said that most of the money subscribed to the various organizations established by Garvey, filtered eventually into the coffers of the Black Star Line Corporation, which is now worth less than nothing because of the number of debts standing against it.

Garvey, according to Mr. Mattuck, also organized, as branches of the Universal Improvement Association, the Liberian Construction Loan, the African Legion and the Black Cross Nurses, and in connection with the boat line, the Negro Factories Corporation.

The trial will be continued Monday morning.

Harding May Visit Vancouver, B. C.

WAR CONTRACT SUIT RAISES NEW POINT

Millions of Dollars Involved in Picric Acid Dispute Relating to Profits.

Argument on the question of whether the Government is liable for anticipated profits under war contracts was heard yesterday by Federal Judge A. N. Hand for the purpose, largely, of settling a legal proposition involving many millions of dollars. The case was a claim of the receivers of the Butterworth-Judson Corporation set up as part of a reply to a suit by the Government for $1,150,000, part of a fund of $1,500,000 advanced to the corporation in 1918 for the erection of a picric acid plant at Brunswick, Ga.

The money advanced, it was set up, was to be a revolving fund but before the plant was completed the war ended and the Government demanded an accounting. The defendant corporation passed into the hands of receivers who were joined as defendants in the Government's suit along with half a dozen surety companies which had furnished a joint bond of $750,000 to safeguard the Government, and four banks in which some of the money had been deposited.

A motion was made by the Government to strike out the claim of the receivers on the ground that it was based solely on the ground that it represented profits which the corporation had hoped to gain through the Government contract.

In the argument the Government was represented by Assistant United States District Attorney Victor House, Col. Henry W. Anderson of Virginia, legal head of the Ordinance Division Section of the Department of Justice, and Former Judge T. M. Bigger of Ohio, a member of the Advisory Council of the War Transactions Section. The law firm of Rushmore, Bisbee and Stern represented the defendants together with the firms of Breed, Abbott and Morgan, White and Case and Cardozo and Nathan.

During the proceedings the banks made a motion to dismiss the Government's suit. Counsel have until next Wednesday to file briefs.

Jamaica Protests Canada Tariff.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, May 18.—At a meeting of the Merchants' Exchange and Jamaica Chamber of Commerce and the Jamaica Imperial Association today, a resolution was passed protesting against the new Canadian tariff which repeals the dumping clause on sugar and will result in considerable importations of United States refine sugar made from foreign raw sugars, thereby seriously affecting Jamaica's market in Canada. The meeting considered this a departure from the spirit of the Canada and West Indies Trade agreement, justifying its abrogation.

Seaboard Air Line Financing.

Of the $6,759,000 ten-year 6 per cent. loan for the Seaboard Air Line, just approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, $3,000,000 will be used to retire $3,000,000 Florida Central-Peninsula 6 per cent. first mortgage bonds, officials of the road said yesterday. Another $1,000,000 will be used to refund the $1,000,000 7 per cent. preferred stock of the Seaboard Air Line due Sept. 15, and the remainder will be applied to additions and betterments of the road.

B. & O. GRANTS INCREASE.

Pay of Shop Crafts Empoyes Raised 3 Cents an Hour.

BALTIMORE, May 18.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today reached an agreement with its employes who are members of the Shopscrafts Union under which the men receive a flat increase of three cents an hour. There will be change in rules and working conditions.

About 25,000 men on the entire system are affected, 2,000 being in Baltimore. They are not getting from forty-five to seventy cents an hour.

DRY GOODS HOLDS ITS LEAD

Road Orders a Little Behind, but Current Sales Ahead of Year Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods for the week exceeded that of a week ago and was greater than that during the corresponding period a year ago.

"The volume of orders received from salesmen on the road was about the same as that of last week, although slightly less than during the same week in 1922.

"Orders for Fall delivery continue in satisfactory volume.

"There were fewer customers in the market than during the same week a year ago.

"Collections were not equal to the corresponding period of last year."

A New Republic Motor Truck.

CHICAGO, May 18.—M. N. Buckner Chairman of the Board of Directors of the New York Trust Company who is is also Chairman of the Note Holders' Committee of the Republic Motor Truck Company, announced today that the committee had acquired all the assets and good will of the Republic Company, and that a new company had been organized to take over these properties. O. W. Hays will continue as Vice President and plant executive.

Buys Cuban Sugar Estate.

The Central Resulta, a Cuban sugar estate that produced 90,500 bags of sugar this season, has been purchased by a New York banking syndicate, according to advice received in the financial district yesterday. The purchase price is said to be $2,500,000. Negotiations for other purchases in Cuba are being conducted by the same syndicate, it is said.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Another meeting of the committee of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, which is working on the selection of a new name for artificial silk will be held next Thursday. E. C. Blum of Abraham & Straus is the Chairman of the committee.

The Associated Buyers' Club will hold a beefsteak dinner at the Blossom Heath Inn, Long Island, on June 16. Ladies will be invited.

A. J. Lichtenstein has been added to the staff of Milton Lichtenstein & Co., commission resident buyers, 25 West Thirty-third Street. He will assist Miss Aptel in the wholesale dry goods trade.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday .....5 per cent. for the best names

The quotations are for six months' paper.

Forward Buying Still Slow.

Silk manufacturers continue to find a slow response on Fall lines. On certain of the novelty weaves the response seems to be of a satisfactory nature. On fabrics which are more or less staple the present prices do not begin to reflect replacement costs of raw silk and, despite this, buyers have shown little desire to do any substantial amount of forward business. Manufacturers are hoping for lower raw silk, which they declare will be the only thing that can be of material aid. The prediction has been made that raw silk will sell at $3 per pound before the end of the Summer, but as yet there is little evidence of any such level. Prices yesterday again confirmed at Yokohama, after a period of reaction, the extent of about 40 yen. This was reflected in local trading by an advance of 15 to 20 cents.

Fur Trade in Good Shape.

Not only do the manufacturing furriers here tell of good business on Fall and Winter lines, but reports from the raw fur end of the trade indicate a more active and firmer market than for some time. All of the foreign furs appear to be moving more or less freely, and there is a notable call for the various long-haired pelts. In the staple domestic furs an increasing demand for muskrat is reported, with prices rising. Opossum is also doing better, and skunk is said by trade leaders to be getting more attention. Raccoon and wolf continue very strong, and the latter is said now to be nearly as high, if not actually so, as in the boom days of 1919. Foxes of all varieties are in great favor, and the call for squirrel is the best in a long time.

Retailers of men's furnishings have had none too pleasant experiences with the weather recently. Their sales of essentially Spring merchandise have been restricted and they apparently had begun to feel that there would be a radical jump from Winter right into Summer. This has resulted in the cancellation of some Spring items, although these have not been of a nature to be alarming. The current situation, and the one that will be met with in the Fall, owing to higher prices being passed on then, are described as calling for great caution on the part of both manufacturer and retailer. One manufacturer, it is said by one authority, the situation requires a definite sales policy which involves avoidance of selling the retailer any more than he can readily dispose of. The retailer, according to this same person, should confine his purchases to standard, well-known lines which have the least sales resistance.

Jewelry Sales Keep Up Well.

Jewelry sales, at least so far as the better classes of merchandise are concerned, continue to keep up well, and some of the leading houses tell of substantial increases, from Jan. 1 to date, over the orders taken in the corresponding period of last year. In general run of articles continues to sell as has been active in the last several weeks, with rings and flexible platinum bracelets among the leaders in the demand. A feature of the business coming in to the better class manufacturers is the amount of special order work included in it. This was said yesterday to reflect an improved feeling among the wealthier people of the country, who are now going in for new settings of gems previously owned, as well as buying wholly new pieces.

There is still some business being transacted in imported cotton dress fabrics here, according to a prominent Fourth Avenue seller. The call, however, is mostly for goods at a price. Dotted swisses are prominent in whatever activity there is, the best demand being for such shades as orchid, jade, heliotrope and lavender with white dots. In some of these the dealer referred to has been able to sell his entire holdings, but the ones with colored dots he described as not having taken well at all. French ratines, he said, moved very poorly all season. He believes their vogue is dead, after having been pushed so strongly in recent seasons.

Gray Goods Trading Fair.

A fair amount of business was put through in the local gray goods market yesterday, most of which was for nearby delivery. May lots of 39-inch 68-72 and 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths were sold, respectively, at 11⅛ and 9¾ cents. Sheetings sales continued small, but some of the lighter constructions were disposed of on the basis of 9¾ cents for 38-inch 5.50s. Spot business was done in 3.96-yard drills at 11⅛ cents. In the fine-yarn goods, which were none too active, sales of 34-inch 72-100 soisettes were made at 15½ cents.

Garment Situation Sound.

Though the bad weather has held back the Spring ready-to-wear buying from reaching its expected volume, the garment trade is said to be entering upon Fall operations in good shape. By comparison with the men's wear trade this is made very clear, it is pointed out, as there will unquestionably be some carryover there, while this will be nonexistent in the garment field. This was further demonstrated in the cancellations received in Fall men's wear, whereas there was practically none in dress goods. To the cautious policy of the manufacturers, as well as that of the retailers, is given the credit for the inherent soundness of the current situation. Because of the cutting-up of practically no surplus amount of garments, the usual "dumping" at slashed prices at the end of the season has been cut down to the lowest volume in years.

It was estimated yesterday, by a credit agency which is very close to the wool goods trade, that the cancellations received on men's wear Fall fabrics amount to not over 12 per cent. of the total business booked by the mills. This is not a bad figure when the circumstances are considered, according to this authority, as it leaves the mills with an excellent working volume of orders. Speaking generally, the industry booked more orders than it could produce by from 15 to 20 per cent., and, allowing for even further cancellations, the remainder of the firm business would be very close to or slightly above a "normal" volume. The cancellations really have had the effect of stamping out the gambling in the trade.

Announce Fall Waist Colors.

The twelve shades selected by the Color Card Committee of the United Waist League of America as the ones to be sponsored for Fall by that organization were announced yesterday by Executive Chairman M. Rosenbloom. Eight of the new colors are taken from the Fall card of the Textile Color Card Association and three from other standard cards. The twelfth is a new shade, to be known as league russet. It resembles the outstanding hue of Autumn leaves. These are the association's selections: Indo, a deeper blue than copenhagen; sand, a gray with a taupe shading; eucalyptus, a deep green; fallow, a tan; holly berry, a shade resembling that berry; grebe, a deep steel gray; blue jay, a royal blue; burnished gold, which is self-descriptive; Havana, a light brown; Autumn brown, a hue darker than Havana; midnight, a navy blue, and the new league russet.

BUSINESS RECORDS

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Continued Indecision in Movement of Stocks — German Marks Nearly at Lowest.

The business done on the Stock Exchange yesterday, which fell below half a million shares for the first time since last August and was in fact less than in any but eight days in 1922, may fairly be taken as reflection of the market's inability to look ahead. Ordinarily, the lapse of a stock market into complete stagnation means that the active movement which preceded such complete halt had wholly spent its force, and that the next movement should logically be in the opposite direction. This present pause has come at the end of a two or three months' decline. It has also occasionally happened, however, that a prolonged swing in one direction would be followed by a less prolonged reaction, with a resultant deadlock of uncertainty. That was what happened in the middle of 1921.

All that is clearly evident from the existing market is that a situation has arisen in trade and industry which both experts and speculators find singularly difficult to read. Views of the business future are conflicting, but those who express one kind of expectation are no more sure of their judgment than those who hold the other. The waning activity on the Stock Exchange is evidence not only that the general public cannot make up its mind, but that professional speculators do not at the moment dare to "discount" anything. In such a situation it is usually the accumulating evidence of developments in trade itself which gradually shapes financial opinion.

Declines and advances were fairly balanced numerically in yesterday's stock market. Most of the changes were only fractional, but the predominance of definite changes was again downward. The bond market as a whole made another show of firmness. This was particularly true of the foreign bonds. French, Republic 8 per cents touched par again; a price which, although not within a point of last month's highest, was well above any price reached in the first quarter of the year. Liberty bonds were virtually motionless. They have hardly stirred since the new loan was announced; which shows at all events that the 4¼ per cent. rate was not so high as to depreciate other Government loans now outstanding.

Perhaps nothing could better illustrate the difficulty which business men and financial markets are finding in their effort to draw conclusions as to the longer business future, than this weekend's seemingly conflicting views of the mercantile agencies. Bradstreet's admits that "caution and conservatism dominate buying for the future," but it sees no actual check. The situation is in fact summed up as that of a "big current output which has not yet materially reduced the big backlog of piled-up orders awaiting execution and delivery." Even in the building trade, the important testimony is "the continued active buying in nearly all cities of many kinds of building material, evidently needed to carry on or initiate work already committed for."

Dun's Review uses the same facts, but draws the inference that recent occurrences are inspiring "more doubt about the probable course of prices" and "more questioning as to the future of business generally." It is impressed by "the suspension of important construction work, the curtailment of production at certain textile mills, the augmented supplies of goods and the increased efforts of some sellers to obtain new orders." Both reviews of the situation refrain from committing themselves in regard to the longer outcome; each admits that the present reaction may have been necessary only to head off excesses in the preliminary trade recovery. One will find exactly the same cautious divergence of opinion, the same hesitation to draw positive inference, in the remarks of business men, the discussions of the markets and the bulletins of Wall Street commission houses to their customers.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, MAY 18, 1923.

Stock Exchange call money was firm at 4½ per cent., a fractional advance from Thursday's final, but a rate which coincided with maximum for that day. Time money market was easier in tone, though quotably unchanged at 5 per cent. for near dates, and 5¼ per cent. for maturities from 4 to 6 months. Merchants' paper discounted unchanged in quiet market, while acceptances continued moderately active at prevailing discounts.

Money in London ¼ lower at 1¼ per cent.; short bills unchanged at 2¼ per cent.; three months' bills ¼ lower at 2⅛@2¼ per cent.

Gold bullion unchanged at 89s 1d. Taking the British Mint standard price of 85s per fine ounce as par, the market quotation of gold would represent a price of 104¼ at London. On the same basis the highest London price for gold for the year to date was 108, on Jan. 20. The highest price since open trading in gold was resumed at London in September, 1919, was 149¾, on Feb. 6, 1920; the lowest, 102¾, on Feb. 21, 1922.

OLD DOMINION FINANCING.

Eastern Steamship Lines Offer Stock Exchange Plan.

An offer of $200 a share in cash plus $200 in the new first preferred stock of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., will be made to the owners of the minority stock of the Old Dominion Steamship Company, it was learned yesterday. The offer will probably be made in the near future.

A statement issued yesterday by Hayden, Stone & Co. said: "Knowing the standing of the people in control of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., without doubt at an early date the same offer will be made to the minority stockholders of the Old Dominion Steamship Company that was accepted by the majority ownership.

"The majority holders of the Old Dominion Steamship Company," the statement continues, "received from the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., for each share of the stock $200 per share in cash and $200 in the new first preferred of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc."

Under the plans of the new company two additional steamers will be added to the service of the Old Dominion Steamship lines, thus making possible a twenty-four hour service between New York and Norfolk, Va. By transferring at New York, this will give connections with steamship lines to New England.

The cost of the two additional steamships for the improved service will be defrayed from the funds now in the treasury of the Old Dominion Steamship Company.

NEW SPRINKLER STOCK.

Globe Company to Offer 40,000 Shares Under Reorganization.

The Globe Automatic Sprinkler Company of the United States will be organized to take over the property and other assets of the company with the same name organized in Pennsylvania eighteen years ago, according to a statement issued by Merrill, Lynch & Co. The bankers on Tuesday will offer for public subscription 40,000 shares of the no par value cumulative participating Class A stock of the new company. The stock will be offered on a when, as and if issued basis at $25.50 a share. It is stated that application will be made to have the new shares listed on the Philadelphia and Chicago Stock Exchanges.

The participating feature, according to the statement of the bankers, will provide that after provision for dividends on the Class A and Class B shares, both classes will share alike in any further dividends.

Hudson & Manhattan Revenue.

Gross revenue for the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company for April was $967,15, an increase of $51,833 over April, 1922, according to a statement issued by the company yesterday. Total gross revenue during the first four months of 1923 was $3,612,890, against $3,690,817 in 1922, an increase of $122,013. Balance after charges, expenses and taxes was $113,149.13 for April, and $288,955 for the first third of this year.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Stocks Again React in Dull Market.

Trading on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday was on an unusually small scale as compared with recent markets. Total sales for the day, 495,740 shares, were the smallest for a five-hour market since Aug. 15, 1922, when the total was 491,465. Although the market merely repeated the dullness of preceding days, the curtailment yesterday was ascribed in part to the fact that many prominent Wall Street leaders were absent attending the annual Bond Club outing. With not many exceptions, the dullness was accompanied by continuation of the downward swing of stock prices, particular weakness occurring in the fertilizer and leather stocks and in special issues such as Sears Roebuck, American Writing Paper preferred, American Woolen, du Pont and issues of like character. The only bright spot in the entire market was the action of the copper stocks.

Copper Stocks and Copper Trade.

The copper stocks were the only group in the entire market which moved against the trend yesterday. The more active issues closed with net gains ranging from substantial fractions to a point or more. The recovery in prices, at a time when the rest of the market continued to slip backward, was due to the better feeling which prevailed in the metal industry. Following the hardening of copper prices in London during the past few days, after several weeks of decline, the market also firmed in this country. Whereas copper could be had at 15¼ cents a pound on Thursday, the cheapest price quoted yesterday was 15⅛ cents, and in one quarter of the trade it was said that "several million pounds have been sold at this price."

Steel Earns Quarter's Dividend in April.

With the mills of the United States Steel Corporation operated on an average of 95 per cent. of capacity during April and with the company shipping goods contracted for at higher prices than those shipped earlier in the year, it was estimated in financial circles yesterday that the corporation earned that month in excess of $13,000,000 net after all charges and liberal allowances for depreciation. This would leave a balance, it is calculated, of approximately $1.40 a share on the common stock, or more than sufficient to cover dividend requirements for the entire quarter. Operation of the mills at the present time are running on a more active scale than those of April. The company is gradually eating into orders contracted for at higher prices, but this in part is offset by the increase of 10 per cent. in wages effective April 16.

"Cotton Forecasts" in Trouble.

Both the cotton market and Wall Street discussed with a good deal of interest yesterday the statements made at the Richmond convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, where one of the Department of Agriculture experts admitted to the convention that a 2,000,000-bale error had been made in the estimated world carryover of cotton this year, as drawn up by the "Committee of Economists and Statisticians" on April 25. That committee had predicted a world carryover of 6,800,000 bales; in the subsequent report, published jointly on May 8 by the Commerce Department and the Agricultural Department, the estimate was only 4,369,500. As a matter of fact, the cotton trade never took the April estimate very seriously, especially when it was coupled with an estimate of "farmers' intentions" for planting, on the basis of which intentions the yield of the next cotton crop was estimated. The two reports left the question of an American carryover in some uncertainty.

The Buyers of Bonds.

Many bankers who have been watching the bond market closely during the last few days for signs of buying which they felt certain the moderate relaxation in money rates would bring about, believe they are now able to discern the preliminary signs of some such a revival. They profess to see it in an increase in the purchases of small individual lots; that is, two, three, four or five bonds. The heads of three or four houses told the same story yesterday, that the results of their retail salesmen are commencing to show signs of improvement. Under ordinary circumstances this is always a good barometer of increased inquiry for good bonds on a larger scale. Sometimes it takes a few days for the larger buying to make itself felt, but it invariably comes along in due course. As a matter of fact, the bond market is in a very good condition now, according to investment bankers. Under present conditions they anticipate that some of the funds which were employed in an industrial capacity during the first four months of the year will be redirected, temporarily, at least, to investments.

Cancellations.

No such widespread cancellations as occurred in 1920 are anticipated now in general industry, even in case of continuing reaction; but reports are commencing to filter into the financial district that in heavy iron products, agricultural machinery and similar lines some fairly good-sized orders have been canceled during the last week. Most of the big corporations, however, took to heart the bitter lessons learned in 1920 on this subject, and practically all now include a non-cancellation clause in their contracts which provides at least something of a brake.

Heavy Government Withdrawals Monday

The Government has notified the local Reserve bank that it will withdraw a total of $81,000,000 on Monday. This large withdrawal of funds is primarily for the purpose of meeting payments due on the Victory notes which have been called for redemption on that date. Taking the country as a whole, it is expected that the Government will withdraw upward of $200,000,000. This, with balances on hand, is expected to take care of all of the Government's requirements for the Victory note redemption. It was said yesterday that a total of $774,000,000 of Victory notes have been called for payment on Monday. Redemption of these bonds will clear the Victory notes from the Treasury's books. In banking circles, however, it is expected that it will be some time before the last bond is paid due to the delinquency of investors to present bonds for payment. Of the $774,000,000 Victory notes outstanding, it is estimated that $300,000,000 were presented in exchange for Treasury notes recently offered. In addition it is estimated that from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 will not be heard from for some time to come, leaving approximately $300,000,000 to be paid off on Monday. About a third of this total is expected to be presented in this district.

NEW BOND ISSUES DROP TO $24,367,900

Total Offerings This Week the Smallest for Any Week This Year.

MUNICIPALS $14,867,900

Decrease Attributed to Government Refunding Operations, Bankers Not Wishing to Compete.

Bond offerings this week totaled $24,367,900, the lowest figure for any one week this year, decreases having been shown in all classifications except new State and municipal securities and industrial bonds. In the two previous weeks the total figures were respectively $31,128,000 and $82,678,000. The decrease of both this and last week have been attributed to refunding operations by the United States Government which floated an issue of $400,000,000 of 4¾ per cent. four-year treasury notes. Chief interest this week, as last, centred in this operation and firms were hesitant about bringing forth any large new issues to serve as competitors with the Government.

A comparison of the offerings of this week with those of last week follows:

Group.	This Week.	Last Week.
Municipal	$14,867,900	$9,268,000
Industrial	5,500,000
Public utility	4,000,000	9,000,000
Farm loan		5,000,000
Totals	$24,367,900	$31,128,000

The most significant development in the current week, according to banking and investment houses, has been the improved sentiment among bond buyers. On Thursday several houses reported the accumulation of orders on a large scale from "small" buyers—or purchasers of $1,000 lots who serve in the barometric capacity of evidencing public participation. On the same day reports showed that $100,000,000 of new financing was in prospect for the immediate future in the interest chiefly of public utility and railroad companies.

In the open market, buying was still described as languid, although there was evidence toward the close of the week of a slight revival. This was noted particularly in the Liberty bonds and other Government securities which again found ready buyers as soon as the $400,000,000 Government financing program had been concluded. The steadiness of the Liberties also gave tacit evidence to the appearance of buying orders on a substantial scale when prices reached "bargain" levels.

In the current week's new offerings the two largest were the $4,000,000 Potomac Electric Power Company 6 per cent. bonds and the $4,000,000 City of Atlanta, Ga., improvement 5 per cent. bonds. Only three other issues exceeded the $1,000,000 mark, the $3,000,000 Rome Wire Company gold notes; $2,500,000 Midland Steel Products Company mortgage bonds, and $1,900,000 Oklahoma City, Okla., school bonds.

The Union Trust Company of Cleveland yesterday announced that the $1,000,000 issue of Mesaba-Cliffe Mining Company 6 per cent. notes had been over-subscribed and the books closed.

Paine Webber & Company announced that the offering of $2,500,000 Midland Steel Products first mortgage sinking fund covertible 7 per cent. gold bonds had been over-subscribed and the books closed.

A prominent banking house on Monday or Tuesday, will make a public offering of $7,000,000 railroad mortgage bonds. Details of the issue were not obtainable yesterday.

M. M. Freeman & Company of Philadelphia are offering through their New York correspondents, $490,000 Union County, N. J., 4¼ per cent. Park Bonds, due May 15, 1925 to 1973 inclusive on a 4.20 and 4.15 per cent. basis.

ARGENTINA EMBARGOES STANDARD OIL PLANT

West India Refining Concern Is Accused of Evading Duties on $3,000,000 Oil.

BUENOS AIRES, May 18.—The Federal Judge at La Plata has ordered the placing of a temporary embargo on the West India Oil Company's refining plants near this city, in connection with charges that the company—a Standard Oil concern—evaded Argentine customs duties on oil valued at more than $3,000,000.

The allegations, which the company denies, were brought by the Federal prosecutor at the instance of Angel Frontini, owner of a small refinery. Frontini contends that from 1917 to 1922 the West India Oil Company evaded duties on kerosene and gasoline by importing them mixed in bulk as crude oil. The latter is subject to a lower tariff rate.

Pending decision in the case, the court placed a lien on the company's plants in the sum of 1,250,000 pesos.

President Goddard Resigns.

C. H. Goddard, President of the American Druggists' Syndicate, has resigned, but will remain with the company in an advisory capacity, it was announced yesterday. The Directors have elected F. H. Jones President to fill the vacancy. A report to the Board of Directors showed that sales in the first quarter were 25 per cent. greater than in the same period last year.

Consolidated Cigar Net Profits.

The Consolidated Cigar Corporation for the first three months of 1923 reports net profits of $154,961 after all expenses and charges, against $112,545 in the same period last year.

GOLD FROM BERLIN IS SURPRISE HERE

Mystery Develops Over Reported Shipment of 60,000,000 Marks to United States.

SEE STABILIZATION MOVE

Germany's Credit Balances Said to Be Growing—New Break in Exchange.

A great deal of mystery was developed in the financial district over the shipment of 60,000,000 gold marks from Germany to the United States, as reported in cables from Berlin. A canvass of the banking institutions in the financial district which maintain relations with German institutions, and with the Reichsbank, disclosed that none of them thus far has been instructed to receive these gold marks.

Federal Reserve Bank officials, too, said that no instructions had been received from Germany about the shipment. It was the generally expressed belief that the shipment would be made directly to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, but heretofore, when such shipments have been made the bank has been notified far in advance of the date of shipment.

It is not at all clear to international bankers here why Germany should be establishing such a credit in the United States at this time, unless it be a continuation of the policy recently adopted of attempting to stabilize the mark. Most of these operations have heretofore been conducted from London, Paris and Amsterdam, and gold marks for this purpose have previously been shipped to those centers. Germany's credit balances here are moderately large at this time, it was stated by officials of institutions which carry them.

Possibly the further weakening of Germany's financial underpinning by this shipment of gold and the fact that the gold reserve back of the mark, to which Germany has tenaciously clung since the armistice, now is being dissipated, were responsible for a prominent part of the weakness of the mark, which broke out afresh yesterday and put the mark, at New York, down to 20¾ cents for 10,000, as compared with the low for all time of 20 cents for 10,000 marks. Similiar weakness ocurred in mark exchange in Berlin and London. In Berlin the mark sold at 50,000 to the dollar, and in London at 280,000 to the pound sterling, it was reported in the financial district here.

Foreign exchange dealers declared that speculative sales and purchases of the mark have increased rapidly during the last few days. The head of one foreign exchange house said that his firm had sold no less than 3,000,000,000 marks during the day, and he knew of several other houses whose sales of the exchange had been equally large. The professional view of the mark is that further declines are to be anticipated. The fantastic inflation of the currency, particularly aggressive since the first of the year, has put the total paper issues of the Reichsbank very close to the seven trillion figure, according to the current statement.

KANSAS CITY GASOLINE UP.

Further Advance of 2 Cents There, While Louisiana Drops.

Gasoline prices were yesterday advanced two cents a gallon in Kansas City, Mo., according to advices received in Wall Street. Yesterday's advance makes an increase of four cents a gallon over prices quoted earlier in the week. In all, there were reductions of five cents a gallon about two months ago, these being the result of a price war between the marketing companies in that section. All differences were recently settled.

The Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, yesterday reduced gasoline one cent a gallon in Louisiana, Arkansas and Tennessee.

S. H. Kress & Co. Election.

W. L. Baker has been elected a Director of S. H. Kress & Co. Charles T. Green was elected an additional Vice President. Other officers were re-elected.

THREE MONTHS' IMPORT SURPLUS, $51,448,000

Corrected February Figures Show $3,690,000 Export Excess—Raw Material Importations.

Revised figures, published yesterday by the Department of Commerce on the imports of merchandise during February, show the total to have been $303,413,000, as against the preliminary figure of $296,000,000 and an actual importation of $215,743,000 in February, 1922. Classification of the February imports, which is especially interesting because of the reversal of the export balance in the March statement, shows that out of the increase of $87,670,000 in February's imports, as compared with last year, $46,586,000 was in raw material of manufacture, $21,294,000 in partly manufactured goods and $2,943,000 in manufactures ready for consumption.

The statement shows the following classification of February imports, with the percentage of each group of imports to the total (000 omitted):

Imports.	1922. Value.	P.C.	1923. Value.	P.C.
Crude materials for use in mfg	$80,972	38	$127,558	42
Foodstuffs, crude, and food animals	22,570	10	28,595	10
Foodstuffs partly or wholly man'f'd	27,762	13	38,579	13
Mfrs. for further use in mfg	34,063	16	55,832	18
Mfrs. ready for consumption	49,377	23	52,320	17
Miscellaneous	1,224		1,029
Total imports	$215,743	100	$303,413	100

By the revised statement of February imports, the surplus of exports for that month is shown to have actually been $3,693,000. In January the surplus of exports was $5,696,000, and the surplus of imports as reported this week for March was $60,837,000. The net surplus of imports during the first three months of 1923 would therefore be $51,448,000.

Columbia Gas & Electric Earnings.

Net earnings and other income of the Columbia Gas & Electric Company and subsidiary properties for April, 1923, were $1,202,544, making the total for the first four months of 1923, $5,003,968. The increase in net earnings and other income for April is given as $256,835, and for the first four months of the year as $852,026, according to the statement issued by the company yesterday. The gross earnings for April were $1,849,678, making the total for the first four months $7,933,062.

Humble Oil Gets Big Contract.

The Humble Oil & Refining Company, which is controlled by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has received a contract from the United States Government for 1,000,000 barrels of grade A fuel oil at a price of $1.67 a barrel. Fuel oil in Texas, according to latest quotations, is selling at from $1.75 to $1.90 a barrel while the price at New York is from $1.70 to $1.75 a barrel.

U. S. Realty Gets More Plaza Stock.

The United States Realty and Improvement Company has increased its holdings in Plaza Operating Company to 76 per cent. of the outstanding common and preferred stock, comparing with only 57 per cent. held last year. The latter company has paid dividends regularly on both classes of stock since 1915.

Stromberg Carburetor Profits.

The Stromberg Carburetor Company for the quarter ended March 31, 1923, reports net profits of $604,263 after all charges and taxes. This is equal to $8.05 a share on the 75,000 shares of capital stock of no par value outstanding. In the first quarter of 1922 the company earned $81,870 or $1.08 a share.

Truscon Steel to Increase Stock.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Truscon Steel Company has been called for May 28, to vote upon a proposed increase in the capital stock from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000, and to authorize 300,000 shares of no par value common stock. There are now 320,000 shares of $10 par value each now outstanding.

Petroleum Earnings $5,290,019.

The California Petroleum Company reports gross earnings of $5,290,019 for the first quarter of 1923, against $2,017,385 for the same period last year. Net earnings after operating expenses were $3,296,525 and net income $1,596,697.

UNCERTAINTY RULES WORLD OF BUSINESS

HEAVY BUYING HAS STOPPED

Caution Is Noted in Many Quarters —Building Slump a Marked Factor.

The undercurrent of uncertainty which has been manifest in speculative channels during the past few weeks has now extended to commercial channels, according to Dun's Review. There seems to be more doubt about the probable course of prices of commodities, says the paper, and there also is more questioning as to the future of business in general.

Developments of recent weeks, it is added, "have shown plainly enough that activities in different quarters are abating, and Dun's list of wholesale quotations has reflected the reversal of the price movement.

"The diminution of demand, however, has only come after a period of notably heavy purchasing, with new records attained in various instances, and there is a divided opinion as to the real significance of the present change," the review continues. "Close observers of conditions do not overlook the fact that many requirements already have been covered for some time ahead, thus leaving less incentive for buyers to make additional commitments, and the rise of 15 per cent. in commodity prices in the last year likewise is being considered.

"The slackening of the industrial expansion, with some yielding of prices, is not surprising, and it does not necessarily mean that progress has been definitely checked. The suspension of important construction work, the labor troubles at some points, the curtailment of production at certain textile mills, the augmented supplies of goods, and the increased efforts of some sellers to obtain new orders do not pass unnoticed. The existing situation is rather complex, and the uncertainty about the future makes for caution in many quarters. The pace during the first quarter of this year was rapid, however, that some slowing down now is a wholesome condition.

"Wide attention has been attracted by the recent reports of the postponement of new building projects. Data covering the month of April indicate an abatement of construction activity at some points, permits issued and applications filed showing a considerable decrease from the March total. While this reduction is wholly accounted for by a sharp falling off at New York City, there has been plain evidence since April ended of changed conditions in the industry. Strikes at some centres, and threatened trouble at other places have been precipitated by demands for further wage increases, and not a little work has been suspended of late because it is said that costs of labor and materials are too high. The construction boom has been checked, and one of the most important factors in the general business recovery, and the effects of recent developments in the building field will be watched closely."

Bradstreet says in part:

"Unsettled weather still bulks large in retarding retail trade, farm work and crop development, with a sympathetic effect on jobbing trade of a reorder character. Caution and conservatism are still the dominant notes as regards buying for the future, but industry, particularly building and manufacturing, still continues at a fast pace. The situation is, therefore, presented of a big current output that has not yet materially reduced the big backlog of piled-up orders awaiting execution and delivery in many lines.

"Trade distribution and manufacture are still very greatly in advance of a year ago. Collections are a shade better, but crop advices have been shaded by weather damage, particularly where severe windstorms and torrential rains have occurred, as in the Southwest, or where snows or frosts are reported in some northern States. Best reports come from the cities, while slowness in buying seems most manifest in the country, where bad roads have resulted from weather vagaries, as in west central crop surplus States. The commodity price situation this week, as last, reveals the play of the quieting forces which first became visible from a month to seven weeks ago."

Total of Maturing Securities Is Less Than in Recent Months.

A total of $30,967,980 of railroad, public utility and industrial securities will mature during June, according to compilations made in Wall Street yesterday. This is an unusually small total as compared with recent months, the total for this month having been $44,119,350; for June last year, $58,992,380.

More than half of the maturities are in the form of industrial bonds, which total $16,374,980. Railroad bonds make up $8,481,490, and public utility bonds $6,111,500. The largest issue falling due next month is $10,000,000 Armour & Co. convertible debenture bonds. The remaining industrial securities falling due are made up of issues of less than $1,000,000. The Armour issue will be paid off June 15. In the railroad group the major issue is one of $1,843,000 New York Central 5 per cent. trust of 1922, which falls due June 1.

Following is a list of the corporate maturities in June, 1923, as compiled by Dow, Jones & Co.:

The belief prevails that little new financing will be necessary to take care of the issues, and that arrangements have already been made in most instances to meet payments on the dates mentioned.

NATIONAL BANK CHARTERS.

Two Seek Them as Two Others Merge or Liquidate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The First National Bank of Nerphlet, Ark., has applied for permission to organize with a capital of $25,000.

The Bushwick National Bank of New York, of which Emil A. Schweiger, Brooklyn, N. Y. (1,820 Broadway), is correspondent, has been granted permission to organize with a capital of $200,000.

The First National Bank of Livermore, Cal., and the Merchants National Bank of Raleigh, N. C., have liquidated voluntarily. The Raleigh bank has been absorbed by the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company of Winston-Salem, N. C.

TRADING IN COTTON FEATURED BY JULY

Irregularity and Nervousness Apparent as Spinners' Takings Decline—Good Weather in Belt a Factor.

The covering movement in old crop positions made further progress yesterday which advanced July cotton 70 points at one time. The rise represented a gain of 308 points from recent low figures. Inquiries from both domestic and foreign mills were reported, but trading showed very little outside buying. General conditions, with frequent breaks in securities, have had a decided influence on sentiment in many directions. Better weather prevailed in the cotton belt and spinners' takings fell 90,000 bales behind the corresponding week last year. Prominent uptown and New Orleans operators sold during the afternoon, bringing a setback which left May 23 points higher and March 30 points lower on the day.

In striking similarity with the two previous days, the market opened under selling pressure in both July and October. Both on and immediately following the call contracts were for sale on a scale that weakened quotations and unsettled room sentiment. Though it was not easy to buy July at times the previous day half a cent higher, little cotton seemed to be wanted at 25 cents. Execution of various selling orders, some of them for several thousand bales each, ran quotations under 25 cents. Then the same upturn was repeated, prices recovering 35 points during the first hour. Reports of an advance in the spot basis due to increased demand for actual cotton started a wave of covering which exerted excited influence on sentiment. A steady stream of covering orders poured into the ring during the morning, taking out a large quantity of contracts. July advanced nearly 70 points to 25.68. Belated covering in the May position found few contracts available and 27 cents was paid during the advance. But the most extensive shifting of differences occurred between July and October. July sold 235 points over October, compared with 200 yesterday and less than 150 last week.

An improved weather map accounted to a great measure for the absence of new crop activities. After selling below 23 cents October gained 35 points, but buying of July and sales of October provided sufficient contracts to supply all demand. With the exception of a few scattered showers in Texas, very little rain fell in the South and moisture in many sections of Texas now is more beneficial than otherwise. The last weekly report reflected the need of rain for newly planted cotton in certain parts of that State. The deluge this week passed around Texas for the most part. But in addition to better weather it was abundantly evident that the general public is waiting for more definite information about the new crop. This leaves the main support to come from covering demand or mill buying and trade interests are disposed to take advantage of declines rather than purchase on an advancing market. A break in securities during the afternoon caused a lull in the covering movement and prices reacted 30 points or more in late trading.

Week-end figures showed a decided reduction in spinners' takings. As compared with 342,000 bales last year, takings this week were only 252,000 bales. Of this American mills took 69,000 bales, against 110,000 a year ago. For the season, takings aggregate 10,885,000, against 10,665,000 last year. With only 53,000 bales in sight, compared with 143,000 last year, there was a decrease in the visible supply of 90,000 bales, against 99,000 last year. This leaves the supply of American cotton 1,624,000, against 3,162,000 a year ago.

A census report placed production of linters at 580,000 bales which, with lint cotton, makes a total crop of over 10,300,000 bales raised last year.

SAYS BANKS' STATUS DEPENDS ON LOANS

J. L. Morris of New York Federal Reserve Advocates Credit Departments in All.

AGAINST LEAGUE IN JERSEY

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 18.—Advocating the installation of credit departments in all banks, Joseph L. Morris, manager of the credit department of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York told the annual convention of the New Jersey State Bankers Association at the Hotal Chelsea today that "no bank is better than the quality of its loans."

"Experience has shown," he added, "that as a general rule, and with very few exceptions, it is no safer to make loans blindly, than it is to drive a high powered motor car through congested traffic without being able to see in four directions at one time. It may be true that you know all there is to know about your borrowing customers. That being so, and knowing what a great convenience and aid that knowledge is, why not arrange things so that what you know will be available to the next man.

"While we are not every moment conscious of it, we do know that life is short, and that today's cashier is tomorrow's president, and that it is nothing more than the adoption of a modern principle of business to arrange things so that the man who will succeed you will be able to carry on efficiently.

"In addition to knowing as much as possible through experience, information and observation about the character and capacity of your borrower, it is equally desirable that you know something definite about his capital and financial responsibility."

Spencer Marsh, Treasurer of the association, acted as Chairman of a forum which took up a discussion of loans to building associations and the advantages of branch banks. Myer Kussey, President of a Newark bank, thought it unwise to finance garages, moving picture theatres and apartment houses, especially under present inflated costs. General Bird Spencer of Passaic opposed the creation of State banks, declaring that there was no room for them.

The sentiment of the meeting was against the creation of a League of banks in New Jersey, the prevailing opinion being that the functions of such an organization could be carried on by the present organization. J. B. Ferguson of the Union Trust Company, Jersey City, pointed out that under the law banks may invest their surplus in stock in other banks, but he did not approve of it, as it tended, in his judgment, to weaken the security of depositors in the controlling bank.

INCOME GAIN SHOWN BY WESTERN PACIFIC

PASSENGER TRAFFIC DROPS

Interrupted Service Laid to Strikes in Statement of 1922 Operations.

The Western Pacific Railroad Company report for 1922 showed net income of $1,105,345, after the payment of taxes and charges, equivalent to $4.02 a share earned on the $37,500,000 preferred stock. This compares with the net income of $3,858,533, or $2.54 a share, on the $47,500,000 common stock in the previous year.

The difference in net income was chiefly due to the receipt of $2,815,900 in 1921 for Government lease of the road under the United States Railroad Administration. Incoms account for 1922 and 1921 follows:

Operating income	1,704,460	461,024
Inc. from lease of road	.....	461,854
Net income	1,105,345	2,858,533

The total assets of the company are shown as $118,097,868.50, of which capital assets constitute $106,871,676.47 and current assets $10,382,304.18. Included in the investments are road and equipment, $99,280,857.54; in affiliated companies, $2,000,065.65, and other investments, $3,600,817. Among the current assets are cash, $1,905,227.48, and traffic balances receivable of $351,078.90.

The report points out that during the year revenue from freight traffic was $9,476,588.20, an increase of $302,323.72, or 3.60 per cent. Revenue from passenger traffic was $2,100,177.08, a decrease of $174,330.66, or 7.65 per cent. "Passenger revenues in common with freight suffered from interrupted service due to strike conditions during July, August and September," says the report.

DOMESTIC COPPER FIRMER.

Price Halts at 15½ Cents After a Somewhat Steady Slide.

A firmer tone prevailed in the domestic copper market yesterday. Prices, which have been sliding off for several weeks, from a high of 17¼ for the current year to a low of 15¼ cents on Thursday, hardened yesterday and the red metal was difficult to obtain in the more important producing circles, for less than 15¾ cents a pound. Several factors have been responsible for the change in the price situation, according to trade authorities, and the opinion is expressed that, while no runaway demand is looked for, the market has definitely turned for the better, for the time being at least.

One leading copper producer said that there had been a sudden change on the part of consumers, as the market yesterday had received more inquiries for the metal, for immediate and third quarter delivery, and "several million pounds have been sold at the new price of 15¾ cents." Inquiries are now on a larger scale than have been witnessed since the early months of the year when there was a rush of buying on the part of consumers to meet their requirements for the first half of the year. Another factor is the firmer tone to prices in London, where quotations have been advanced twice in as many days after more than a month of reaction.

In some quarters it was reported that British dealers were buying the metal for export at 15¾ cents a pound. When prices were higher than now quoted, England was reported selling the product short in this market in the hope of covering their commitments at lower levels. This character of selling is said to have ceased. The export price for the metal was advanced in line with domestic prices.

Two Extra Dividends Declared.

Directors of the Fleischmann Company yesterday declared two extra dividends on the company's capital stock, payable July 1 and Oct. 1. These dividends are in addition to the regular quarterly dividends of 50 cents each which have been declared for the full year 1923.

Commercial Loans of the Member Banks Top the Year's Record, in Latest Report

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Reductions of $64,000,000 in loans and of $16,000,000 in investments, accompanied by decreases of $91,000,000 in net demand deposits, of $23,000,000 in time deposits and of $11,000,000 in Government deposits, are shown in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly consolidated statement of conditions as of May 11, 1923, of 775 member banks in leading cities.

Following the larger increase for the preceding week, loans secured by stocks and bonds (other than Government) show a net liquidation of $56,000,000 for the week under review, while loans secured by Government obligations increased by $11,000,000, and other, largely commercial, loans and discounts, by $21,000,000. Changes in the loan account reflect mainly the reductions during the report week of $32,000,000 in loans on stocks and bonds by the member banks in New York City. Holdings of Government securities show an increase for the week of about $5,000,000, while those of corporate and other securities fell off $21,000,000.

All other, largely commercial, loans and discounts, $7,811,000,000, represent a new high total for the year, being over $400,000,000 in excess of the Jan. 3 total. During the same period loans on Government securities declined $500,000,000 and loans on other securities $83,000,000.

Borrowings of the reporting institutions from the Federal Reserve Banks decreased during the week from $486,000,000 to $448,000,000, or from 2.9 to 2.7 per cent. of their combined loans and investments. For member banks in New York City a reduction from $149,000,000 to $142,000,000 in borrowings from the local Reserve Bank and from 2.8 to 2.7 per cent. in the ratio of these borrowings to total loans and investments is noted.

Reserve balances of the reporting banks declined by $10,000,000, while their cash in vault went up about $13,000,000. Corresponding changes for the member banks in New York City comprise a decrease of $15,000,000 in reserve balances and an increase of $5,000,000 in cash.

Following is a statement of changes in the principal assets and liabilities of reporting member banks, as compared with a week and a year ago:

DROP AFTER BULGE IN CHICAGO WHEAT

Traders Buy Till Market Is Overbought and Find Small Support When They Sell to Cover.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Local traders were too enthusiastically bullish on unfavorable crop reports from Kansas in the early trading, with the result that the market became overbought and they were later forced to sell out, finding support limited on the way down, and the finish was at net losses of 1⅛ and 1¾ cents, with May leading. A local professional was a good seller on the advance, but he took the buying side on the break.

A report that Allen Logan of Kansas City estimated the crop of Kansas at 70,000,000 bushels, or the same as his figures on April 1, led to some selling. The statement was a surprise in view of the recent damage claims, but this feature was not given in full, as he qualified his estimate and late in the day he gave out figures on twelve counties of large production in Central and South Central Kansas, suggesting a decrease of 6,000,000 bushels from his April 1 returns.

Messages from the Southwest indicate that wheat was damaged in some sections by the recent freeze more than the grain trade and farmers realized, and that rains and warmer weather are just bringing the damage to light. Last reports were received from Texas, but later messages claimed it was not just but limited vitality and lack of moisture that were troubling the crop.

Sentiment was very bullish early, but in the last a majority of the pit element were out of their grain and many of them short.

Germany was inquiring for offerings of new crop red or hard Winter, but no business was done, and sales of old wheat in all positions aggregated [illegible] bushels, including 100,000 bushels No. 2 hard at the Gulf at 15½ cents over July for first half June loading, an advance of ⅛ cent in the basis. Outside interest is still light.

Practically all of the Spring wheat seeding in the Northwest will be completed by May 20. A Minneapolis man who was here today said that all of the rye east of Duluth and Chicago had been sold for export, and that one day last week sales abroad were 1,600,000 bushels, not previously reported.

Cables claiming that Russia had sold wheat to Germany for June shipment at equal to 12⅞ cents under American had some effect on values.

The corn market developed a heavy undertone toward the last end, with some of the largest recent buyers on the selling side, prices dropped sharply and closed ⅞@1 cent lower, with May leading.

Unconfirmed claims of a material increase in country offerings had some effect, but investigation found that what little grain was for sale in the country was held at better than Chicago was offering. Kansas City cash corn broke 2@3 cents, with a slow demand, and, while local arrivals were thirteen cars, premiums on spot were unchanged, with some loaded out from elevators and sold on spot.

It is expected that local stocks will show a reduction of over 2,000,000 bushels for the week.

Oats were ⅝@⅞ cent lower, with a limited trade.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 740,000 bushels; week ago, 505,000; last year, 1,036,000. Shipments were 1,483,000 bushels; week ago, 551,000; last year, 980,000.

Corn receipts were 193,000 bushels; week ago, 218,000; last year, 645,000, and shipments 408,000 bushels; week ago, 647,000; last year, 561,000.

WOOL MARKET INACTIVE.

Mill Cancellations Rumored—Some Export of Low-Grade Wool.

BOSTON, May 18.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow of the week's wool market:

"Neither the nature of the demand nor yet the scope of it has changed to any very noticeable extent during the last week. Prices are generally firm for the finer grades, while the low qualities are slow and easy. Scoured wools still are dull. Some exports of low grade wools are being made.

"The mill situation appears to be little changed, although rumors of cancellation persist. The foreign markets are very strong, although not quotably dearer.

"In the West buying proceeds more or less steadily. Rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1923, to May 17, 1923, inclusive, were 51,686,000 pounds, against 32,307,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1923, to May 17, 1923, inclusive, were 220,378,900 pounds, against 148,854,650 pounds for the same period last year."

LATEST DEALINGS IN REALTY FIELD

WAS HELD AT $500,000

Herodian Court, a six-story elevator apartment house at 414 West 120th Street, has been sold by Louis Israelson through William H. Peckham as broker. The building is in the Columbia College section and contains fifty-four housekeeping apartments laid out in suites of three, four, five and six room apartments.

Colonel William Braden, the owner of the property directly in the rear on West 119th Street, is the purchaser. The property was held at $500,000 and rents for approximately $75,000 a year.

The Battim Realty Company, Inc., represented by Gettinger & Weinman, has sold to Isaac Hanin the premises at 307 West 123d Street, known as the Cedarleigh, being a six-story elevator apartment house.

This property was held at $274,500. This is one of the buildings which the purchaser recently acquired.

Abraham Saffir sold for Braus & Glassheim to a client of Nathaniel L. Goldstein, attorney, 66 and 68 East Ninety-ninth Street, a six-story new-law walk-up with stores, on plot 37.6 by 100. The property rents for about $11,000 per annum and was held at $62,500.

Albert R. Kelly, in conjunction with R. Horowitz, sold for Sam Soroka and David Kirchner to David Marmelstein and Max Jackel the six-story building at 317 and 319 Third Street, on a plot 48.6 by 98. This property showed a rental of over $12,000 and was held at $40,000. The purchasers paid all cash above the mortgage.

Samuel Cowan sold the four-story apartment, with stores, situated at 50 East Fourth Street, on a plot 20 by 100, for H. Falk.

The Volk Realty Company sold through Jacob Subin to Joseph Danzig 141 West 101st Street, a five-story apartment on plot 40 by 100.

John J. Hoeckh, Inc., have sold for John T. Finnerty 516 West Thirty-ninth Street, a five-story tenement, to adjoining owner, which property has been in the family since 1883.

West Forty-First Street Buyer.

Samuel I. Goliob, representing a client whose identity is hidden in the 416 West Forty-first Street Realty Corporation, has purchased the five-story building at that address, 25 by 98.9, from August Brandt. The same interests have also bought the four four-story tenements at 423 to 433 West Forty-first Street, on plot 100 by 98.9, from the West Thirty-eighth Street Realty Corporation. The properties are separated by the Industrial School property at 413, 50 feet front, and were valued at $150,000.

Rockledge at Malba Sold.

Rockledge Place, a new brick residence at Malba-on-the-Sound, L. I., has been sold by the Malba Estates Corporation, Champ & Dasey, sales directors, to a resident of New Rochelle, who will occupy it as his all-year home. The property is located on Center Drive, with a natural sunken garden extending to the golf fairway.

Dr. B. F. Curtis sold the Colonial residence on one acre of land in Hastings-on-Hudson to George Wadleigh of Hastings. Mr. Wadleigh will occupy the premises early in June. This property was held at $30,000. George Howe and Kenneth Ives were the brokers in the transaction.

Robert E. Farley, as executor of the Phebe E. Mills estate, has sold through Reed & Clark to George D. Gordon the Mills homestead farm, containing about twenty-three acres, in the Town of Bedford, N. Y.

The Robert E. Farley Organization sold for the Scarsdale Estates a plot on Sage Terrace South in the Greenacres section of Scarsdale, N. Y., to Harry S. Lawson of New York City.

Commercial Leases.

F. Pieker & Sons, Inc., have rented for a client, to Louis Bernstein the entire premises at 317-19 West 125th Street for a period of ten years at a net rental aggregating about $200,000. The building at 317 is a three-story and basement fireproof building and 319 is a one-story and basement brick building. The buildings are each 25 by 100.

Charles A. Du Bois leased for a long term to the New York Telephone Company the one-story and basement building located at the northwest corner of Broadway and 145th Street. Duff & Brown, Inc., represented the owner, William Haigh. It is the intention of the New York Telephone Company to close its commercial office at 125th Street and make the Broadway and 145th Street their Harlem and Washington Heights commercial office.

Gimbels Buy Big Warehouse.

The Big Store Realty Company, J. B. Greenhut, president, has sold to Gimbel Brothers the big warehouse at 249-255 West Seventeenth Street which they have been occupying under lease.

This structure, six stories in height, covers a plot 97.11 by 184, running through the block, and includes 236-242 West Eighteenth Street. The purchasers have obtained from the selling company a second mortgage of $50,000 at 6 per cent., for five years.

Carnegie Summer Camp Sold.

The Carnegie Summer camp on Raquette Lake, Hamilton County, N. Y., has been purchased by Arthur C. Quainton. It consists of 240 acres of fine timbered land, with two miles of frontage on the lake. The main building is of Swiss chalet type and contains a huge living room, two stories with two balconies, one of which leads to the sleeping and bath rooms. The dining room and kitchen are in separate buildings connected by a covered corridor, and a number of other outbuildings. The new owner will convert the estate into an exclusive resort, to open June 25, for the Summer and for the hunting season. The property was held at $125,000. James Mooney of Montclair and Clarence M. Sherwood were the brokers in the transaction.

Operators Resell the Brixton.

Nassoit & Lanning resold for Mandelbaum & Levine The Brixton, at 314 to 320 West Eighty-seventh Street, near Riverside Drive, a nine-story apartment containing eighteen suites of eight, nine and ten rooms and 3 baths, on a plot 80 by 100. It was held at $550,000 and rents for about $75,000.

The buyer is Arling Hanson of Great Neck. The brokers sold the property to the present owner about two months ago.

Buys Garment Centre Site.

As a site for an improvement, the plot 69 by 98.9 at 256 to 259 West Thirty-fifth Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, in the new garment centre, was sold by Ralph V. Wechsler for the Ralstone Realty Company to a client.

Mission Sells East Side Parcel.

The Twenty-first Ward Mission sold the premises 205 East Forty-first Street, on a plot 21 by 98.9, formerly used as a mission and chapel to the Electric and Mechanical Service Company, who will alter same and use for their own occupancy. Henry Hof was the broker.

OPERATOR SELLS SITES.

Frederick Brown Disposes of Three Holdings.

Frederick Brown sold to Frank Harms the seven-story apartment house at the southeast corner of Amsterdam Avenue and 141st Street, bought recently. It measures 100 feet on the avenue and 85 feet on the street. The apartments are of five and six rooms, and on the street fiber are five stores. To a client of William Pierre Jocidn Mr. Brown resold the three-story and basement dwelling at 123 East Fifty-sixth Street on a lot 16 by 50.5, about seventy-four feet west of the northwest corner of Lexington Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street. Mr. Brown resold the two four-story buildings at 209 and 204 West Fortieth Street, which he purchased on Tuesday from Margaret Van Arsdale and Samuel Hyman. The Mats Holding Company is the buyer. The houses are on a plot 25 by 100. H. Mats & Co. negotiated the resale. The parcel adjoins the southwest corner of Seventh Avenue and Fortieth Street.

Business Properties.

Robert R. Rainey, Inc., sold for Seamen Lichtenstein & Co., Inc., the two four-story and basement buildings, 107 and 109 Barclay Street, to Henry Klie, who owns the adjoining corner property on Washington Street, and are acting as agents of the property for the purchasers.

LONG ISLAND—FOR SALE OR TO LET. | LONG ISLAND—FOR SALE OR TO LET.

Can You Believe Your Eyes?

ONE YEAR AGO

A bare expanse of vacant land. No trees, no roads, sidewalks or improvements—no homes—no trains—just a rough, winding road to Long Beach.

TODAY

A thriving seashore community with the best of modern improvements, the main highway widened, straightened and concrete surfaced, with concrete roads and sidewalks leading in every direction from it. A new Main Station created at a central point to run 36 express trains every day beginning May 23 1923.

LOTS AS LOW AS $425

Where the ocean is yours in common with all the world; but more important, with private beaches perfectly engineered, for you alone, and for the safety and happiness of your children.

Where you motor and motor-boat, fish and swim to your heart's content.

Where your lot can be one or two minutes from the Station of the L. I. R. R. and only five minutes from your private community beach.

Where you get water, gas, electricity, concrete road and sidewalks, with all assessments paid.

BUICKS,

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Pressure was high Friday night almost generally east of the Mississippi River, and it was low over the western half of the country, with areas of minimum pressure over Colorado and California. This pressure distribution has been attended by considerable cloudiness and widely scattered showers during the last twenty-four hours. The temperatures was somewhat higher Friday in the Lake region, the lower Missouri and middle Mississippi Valleys and the Plains States, and it was lower in Montana and Manitoba.

Storm Outlook is for considerable cloudiness over the Washington forecast district Saturday and Sunday and scattered showers. However, the weather will remain generally fair Saturday in the North Atlantic States and in the Carolinas. The temperature will not change materially during the next two days.
